Governance and Compliance through effective Employee Communication

Dr. Joffy George

Governance and compliance are never-ending processes. The main reason for an organization to implement a governance and compliance programme would be to meet the requirements of a regulatory body or to mitigate the risks associated with not having a formal programme in place. A significant problem in implementing such a programme is the ineffective communication of policies and procedures to employees. Corporate fraud is a very real threat to the health of any business. Fostering a culture of honesty and integrity will minimize our exposure to risk, and motivate honest employees to report any of the unethical and dishonest activity they witness or suspect. Reminding an employee about a moral code has been shown to reduce the likelihood of an ethical violation. Employees must be persuaded to understand and work for Company’s Vision and execute its basic promise to customers. They are the driving force behind the organization, and their behaviour is crucial to Company’s success.

Shareholders’ Rights and Illegitimate Use Thereof

Harsh Mishra

This Article talks about the irony faced by most of the public limited listed companies, big or small, in the country. The irony is: Companies fall prey to the ulterior motives of some individual shareholders who regularly year-after year keep on pestering the companies in the name of “shareholders’ rights” in order to serve their vested interest and extort freebies viz. gifts, gift vouchers or some other personal favours such as employment to their relatives, etc. In case a company does not pay heed, these shareholders would slap notices on companies for removal of MD, Directors, etc. and thus require the companies to circulate the resolution to all shareholders and including the same in AGM notice. Else, the companies may choose to go to CLB seeking stay order. Now that total revamp of the company law is under active consideration of the government it is but appropriate to make suitable provisions so that such unscrupulous shareholders are not left with unbridled power to extract favours from companies.

Why Business Organisations are not suitable for Foreign Contributions?

Prabir Bandyopadhyay

The preamble to the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010 states the objective thus: (1) to regulate the acceptance and utilisation of foreign contribution or foreign hospitality by certain individuals or associations or companies and (2) to prohibit acceptance and utilisation of foreign contribution or foreign hospitality for any activities detrimental to the national interest. According to the Ministry of Home Affairs ‘The general policy of the Government of India is not to encourage soliciting of foreign contribution. If, however, it is intended for bona fide welfare activities, foreign contribution can be received either by obtaining registration or prior permission from the Central Government under FCRA’. Is the exclusion of “business organizations” for the purpose of soliciting and accepting foreign contribution, justified, is the question which is probed in this article.

Protecting your Innovations under Patent Laws

Vivek Agarwal

Patent law is the encouragement for the inventors as they may put to use the invention and make some profits which may serve as fruits of their labour. Patent laws tend to encourage and maintain the continuous flow of inventions, by acting as an incentive to invent. By protecting the rights of the inventor, the government can be sure that people will continue to think of unique and new ideas to share with the world. The increase in the number of patent applications being received by patent offices all over the world is an indication of the universal recognition of the value of patent system.

Legal Framework on Electronic Delivery of Services

Joby Mathew

In short it is an invaluable move from the government side to make all government services to electronic mode. It would check corruption by reducing discretion on the part of government employees and give an opportunity to citizens from every nook and corner of the Country to get accessed all Governmental Services in time without much effort. However the government should take proper steps to ensure infrastructure for online services is available to all citizens of India.

A Governance Initiative

Latest From Corporate Governance

The Securities and Exchange Commission, U.S.A. approved a rule that directs national securities exchanges to adopt listing standards for public company boards of directors' compensation and compensation advisers.

Accordingly, Compensation committees of publicly-traded companies in U.S will be subject to additional rules governing their use of advisers and the independence of the members of their committees.

Under the new rules, each national securities exchange and national securities association that lists equity securities, such as Nasdaq and the New York Stock Exchange are required to develop listing standards concerning compensation committees thereby prohibiting the listing of any equity security of any company that do not address to the following requirements:

- the independence of the members on a compensation committee,
- the committee's funding and authority to retain compensation advisers,
- the committee's consideration of the independence of any compensation advisers, and
- the committee's responsibility for the appointment, compensation and oversight of the work of any compensation adviser.

The rule exempts smaller reporting companies from all of the requirements of the new compensation committee listing standards and authorizes the exchanges to exempt other categories of issuers.

The SEC also amended its proxy disclosure rules to require new disclosures from companies about their use of compensation consultants and conflicts of interest. The companies subject to the federal proxy rules already are required to disclose information about their use of compensation consultants, including specific information about fees paid to consultants. Under the new amendments to the proxy disclosure rules, with respect to any compensation consultant that has played a role in determining or recommending the amount or form of executive and director compensation and whose work has raised any conflict of interest, companies will be required to disclose the nature of the conflict and how the conflict is being addressed.

Each national securities exchange and national securities association must comply with the amendments not later than September 25, 2012. Issuers must comply with the disclosure changes in any proxy or information statement on or after January 1, 2013.

Green Kitchen

The kitchen generates the most waste of any room in your house; here are few steps to cut back on waste.

1. Step one: refuse excessive packaging by taking your own bags, when buying fresh & unwrapped produce.
2. Step two: avoid over-sized portions; if you are regularly throwing food away then you are buying, and cooking, too much. Think about it.
3. Step three: reuse what you can, like old glass jars or bottles, grocery bags, and packaging you can’t avoid.
4. Step four: compost any uncooked organic waste (including cardboard and paper), even in big cities, many local farmers markets and organizations readily accept your compost.
5. Increase use of eco friendly appliances: energy efficient rated; in addition look out for alternative energy usage such as solar cooker, solar oven.

Good Things Around

Sustainable Technologies & Environmental Projects (Steps), a Green tech company in Maharashtra, has developed a prototype machine that turns all types of waste into crude oil including everything from plastic to electronic waste to old tyres. The capacity of the machine is to convert 150 tonnes of waste into 150,000 litres of crude oil, every day.

FEEDBACK & SUGGESTIONS

Readers may give their feedback and suggestions on this page to Mrs. Alka Kapoor, Joint Director, ICSI (alka.kapoor@icsi.edu)

Dear Professional Colleagues,

Professional independence is the state of mind that helps in arriving at a judicious conclusion without compromising on professional objectivity, integrity and standards. It also include professional skepticism that helps in developing a probing mind, rational thinking and logical assessment. In today's tempting times, these prized professional attributes may become a challenge at times, but being a professional, we have to overcome such dilemma through the strong will for professional independence. The Company Secretaries being governance professional are more duty bound to exhibit objectivity, integrity and independence in their professional judgement. This can only be achieved through high determination thresholds. As governance professionals, the objective of enforcing sustainability aspects such as societal and environmental priorities of business without loosing the economic prosperity of the business itself is one such example.

Professional independence has helped our profession to receive acclaim from government, regulators, businesses and all stakeholders. Friends, we should demonstrate the behavior that reflects integrity, supports objectivity, and fosters trust in the profession and its professionals; actively maintain and continually improve our professional competence. Doing our professional duties with integrity, commitment, excellence and detachment brings professional independence sub-consciously.

With this thought process, I wish to inform you about the developments during the month in the following paragraphs:

Strategy Implementation Workshop

You are aware that the Council of the Institute adopted Top Ten Goals to be achieved during 2011-14. With a view to achieve these goals, a detailed strategic action plan was prepared and the implementation process was initiated. It was in this direction that the Institute organised a Strategy Implementation Workshop for Council Members and Head of Departments of the Institute to convert the implementation strategy into Specific, Measurable, Actionable, Realistic and Timely (SMART) Action Plan. The two days workshop concluded with a SMART Action Plan for Top Ten Goals with clearly defined ownership and time frame.

Visit of WTO Official to ICSI Headquarters

Dr. Harsha Vardhana Singh, Deputy Director General, WTO visited Headquarters of the Institute at New Delhi on July 18, 2012 and had a meeting with the senior officials of Institute. Dr. Singh briefly discussed about the role of WTO and said that WTO recognizes valid objectives such as Balance of Payments, food security, conservation of natural resources, inclusive growth and good governance. He emphasized that good governance was vital for governments, corporate sectors, societies and even families.

He made very positive and encouraging observations about the profession of Company Secretaries and expressed that Company Secretary is in a powerful position in ensuring good governance amongst corporates. He further emphasized that there is a need to propagate the global standards of good governance so that these are made better known to the stakeholders. I am sure such interactions with regulatory authorities will go a long way in our endeavour for creation of new Services Sectoral Classification under WTO.

40th National Convention of Company Secretaries

Aamby Valley, Mumbai is looking forward to welcome you all to the 40th National Convention being held on October 4-6, 2012. I request all of you to block these dates to attend the Convention and make the same an enriching one. I am sure this Convention would enable you to strengthen your professional networking. Besides, thought provoking discussions and deliberations during technical sessions would provide you a clear insight into the path for adaptability to change that would ultimately benefit the profession and the professionals. An announcement containing details of delegate fee, accommodation rates, sponsorship/advertisement tariff etc. has been published in this issue.

2nd ICSI Corporate Governance Week

In line with our vision, and furthering the cause of good governance amongst corporate India, the Institute, last year decided to observe the ICSI Corporate Governance Week as an annual event. The 2nd ICSI Corporate Governance Week will be celebrated from August 27-31, 2012 on the theme ‘Good Governance for Sustainability’. Five Mega Programmes are being organized with the launch event at Bangalore on August 27 which will be inaugurated by Hon’ble Mr. Justice M N Venkatachaliah, Former Chief Justice of India. This will be followed by programmes at Hyderabad, Mumbai, Kolkata from August 28-30, 2012. I urge all the members to participate in large numbers in the events being organized during the week and make it a grand success.

ICSI-Direct

The Institute has initiated the process of integrating various processes to provide more efficient services to stakeholders. This initiative uses the latest technologies and platforms to provide an effective two way communication between the Institute and its stakeholders. The first of such processes, which has been launched is Online Registration Services to the students. The Online Registration process on www.icsi.in uses technology to provide a true paperless environment. The stakeholders make use of online filing of information, payment gateway for which the transaction charges are borne by the Institute and uploading of documents. The system is intelligent enough to check the deficiencies of the information submitted by the user, if any, and advise the users to rectify the same through SMS and email. The registration letter is also issued online through the system. I am sure the completion of integration process will help the Institute to maintain the best of standards of services to its stakeholders.

The ICSI and Indian Institute of Corporate Affairs (IICA) signed a Memorandum of Understanding in the august presence of Dr. M. Veerappa Moily, Hon’ble Minister of Corporate Affairs, Government of India.

It is towards achieving this goal, the Institute has refurbished the office of the Western India Regional Council (WIRC) with state of art facilities, which was inaugurated on July 27, 2012. I am sure the members and students of Western Region would benefit from the new and modern facilities.

Governance and Compliance through effective Employee Communication

Ineffective communication of policies and procedures is the biggest hurdle coming in the way of good governance. Besides, it is also a contributory factor for unethical and fraudulent activities on the part of the employees. This article underscores the imperative need for effective employee communication.

INTRODUCTION

Governance and compliance are never-ending processes. The main reason why an organization wants to implement a governance and compliance program would be to meet the requirements of a regulatory body or to mitigate the risks associated with not having a formal program in place. The biggest anticipated problem in implementing such a program is the ineffective communication of policies and procedures to employees. Corporate fraud is a very real threat to the health of any business. Fostering a culture of honesty and integrity will minimize the exposure to risk, and motivate honest employees to report any of the unethical and dishonest activity they witness or suspect. Reminding an employee about a moral code has been shown to reduce the likelihood of an ethical violation. The fact that over half of all fraud detection tips came from employees suggested that organizations should focus on employee education as a key component of their fraud detection strategies.

Both advertising and employee communication can be classified under the fine art of persuasion. Employees must be persuaded to understand and work for company’s vision and execute its basic promise to customers. They are the driving force behind the organization, and their behaviour is crucial to company’s success.

Cracking the Fraud Triangle

It is an unfortunate reality today that fraud is woven inextricably through the fabric of the business environment. Whether it is a simple scheme or sophisticated web of deception, fraud can be a devastating event that affects people and reputation. According to Dr. Donald R.Cressey, motive, opportunity and rationalization are the three factors present in every situation of fraud. Motive is best described as the incentive or pressure that... drives an individual to commit fraud. Often, this is caused by life pressures, illicit activities or lifestyle needs that create personal financial problems. Opportunity is defined as the condition or situation that allows fraud to occur. Both the design and effectiveness of internal controls play a key role in this regard. The final element is the attitude or mindset that enables the individual to rationalize the fraudulent act.

Cracking the fraud triangle is critical to fraud mitigation activities. While organizations generally recognize the importance of evaluating, mitigating and monitoring fraud, their level of success differs in their approach to fraud risk management - especially with regard to the role of employee from an organizational perspective; one of the basic building blocks of an ethical work environment is a code of business ethics. Organizations can supplement this with specific policies to address fraud. Companies should provide periodic and ongoing communication to individuals throughout the organization as well as related third parties through multiple mediums.

Developing Communication Plan

To help mitigate fraud and misconduct, an organization must first understand the unique nature of its workforce, its morale and the triggers that motivate various groups. With these insights in hand, it can develop a communication plan to educate employees and others about fraud-risk awareness along with their roles and responsibilities with regard to fraud prevention, detection and deterrence.

A strong communication plan often features a comprehensive approach to training, which enhances knowledge retention. Depending on the role and responsibilities of the individuals within the company, additional fraud awareness training may be required to achieve the level of depth in a specific functional role. For instance, the Internal Audit department is often tasked with periodic monitoring of fraud risk. An in-depth approach to training is then required to understand indicators of fraud in specific process workflows. Management, Directors and employees who interact with customers and foreign officials may all require more specialized training on regulatory and compliance issues pertaining to bribery and corruption. Companies can establish the first element of control by educating the directors, management and key personnel. Once that is achieved, organizations should direct communication to all employees to mobilize and empower the workforce to provide the next layer of control. Companies can enhance the effectiveness of their training programs significantly by incorporating ongoing awareness programs. Continuous communication and training are critical to shaping an ethical culture, reinforcing a positive work environment and encouraging the reporting of compliance violations.

Culture and Communication

The first task in undertaking a targeted communications program is assessing organizational culture, which requires a mixture of qualitative and quantitative research techniques. Qualitative research includes personal interviews, focus group and observation - methodologies that garner information about employees’ attitudes, beliefs and values. Quantitative techniques include surveys and measurement of the behaviors that lead to change. In addition to understanding the culture, it is equally important to understand the levers that influence the culture: people, leadership, physical and technical infrastructure and policies, procedures and processes.

The Art of Persuasion

Few will like to object the idea that employee training and awareness are essential for the success of all companies. But has the art of persuasion in this area of communication been forgotten within the corporate world? Sending an e-mail or posting a message reiterating a policy to employees may be considered by many to be a communication “mission accomplished”. But time and again, objectives fall short – not because of poor thinking, but due to a lack of execution and communication. Certainly, it is not a lack of desire to succeed in this area. Perhaps it is simply that there is little understanding about what it means to build a lasting connection with employees.
It is absolutely critical to stay in touch with employees and to move beyond assumptions, identify real issues and learn what a "day in the life" is truly like for people. It is essential to get out there and talk to them. At the heart of an effective creative philosophy is the belief that nothing is as powerful as an insight into human nature - "what compulsion drive a man, what instincts dominate his actions".

A Fresh Approach
Should the standard communications approach be rethought? Is it enough to crack out communications material with the industrial-age marketing philosophy - "Hit them over the head with the policy or strategy long enough so that they will remember and act on it"?

It is easy to simply replicate previous year's communication programme. However, when considering budgets and strategies for the new fiscal year, one may consider the following salient points:

- What is truly happening? Understand the context and environment in which they need to communicate.
- What is a day in the life of an employee like? What do employees do? Where do they live? What do they think and feel and how can employers better relate to them? - hold a focus group with employees to obtain those insights.
- What is strategy? Before identifying a creative angle for reaching employees, craft a strategy that defines the road map. Collect meaningful insights that will enhance dialogue.

Multigenerational perspective
Today, it is common to find four distinct generations working together:

- Traditionalists - generally defined as those born between 1922 and 1945
- Baby boomers - those born from 1946 to 1964
- Generation X - those born from 1965 to 1980
- Generation Y - those born from 1981 to 2000

While any discussion of generational differences is going to be a broad snapshot, it is worthwhile to examine these differences to get a general sense of how attitudes towards work have formed and what motivates performance. In general, each generation has a collective memory and a unique set of values and beliefs - largely shaped by events and trends that transpired during the group's formative years. Traditionalists, for example, survived the Great Depression and came of age during World War II. Hard work, a respect for authority, and a command-and-control leadership style are typically hallmarks of this generation.

Each generation has different workplace behavior, which are an outgrowth of their shared experiences:

Internal Communication aimed at everyone often reach no one
If each generation has a collective mindset that helps define their relative needs and modifications, it is easy to see how a "one-size-fits-all" approach to communication in the workplace will fail. Effective communication is driven by insight into what motivates and shapes thinking. A successful communicator needs to understand these motivations to influence any audience. Each generation also has a collective lens, shaped by shared experiences, through which its members view the world. In addition, each group has unique needs, motivations and learning styles. To take a glimpse through the generational lens is to understand a specific group's perspective and what it takes to change their behavior.

A generational approach to communication is designed to focus a specific message on a specific audience. This targeted approach aims to deliver better results in a shorter period of time.

Web Technology as a tool of effective communication

The web allows for the effective delivery of highly complicated information, as well as interactive, real-time feedback. The gap between technology and human performance is spanned by instant, global communication. Professionals are using Web-enabled technology to track and manage initiatives such as employee training, shrink committee activities / compliance, operational audits etc.

It has been difficult, if not impossible, to reach every employee at every level to promote an ideal culture. But as soon as you get the support of senior executives, the paradigm shifts. These senior executives lend their influence and power and act as champions. Web-based technology makes it easier to enlist the support of senior executives. Because this technology makes information easily accessible, vital reports can be spread across the organization to all levels of management in real time and in analytical formats tailored to their needs.

Many leading companies follow a "Train, Track, and Target" model in the implementation of their employee communication efforts. In the first stage of this model, employees receive ongoing training focused to address key business issues. This can take the form of traditional paper-based training and awareness programs to videos or multimedia vehicles. In the second stage, activities are monitored and data is uploaded to a central database. Employees may input information electronically by telephone, e-mail or direct web input. A secure web server manages the data and builds reports. The third stage allows for data from the tracking stage to pour into a secure Web site that generates a variety of accurate and targeted reports instantly.

Increasing role of Social Networking in Employees Communication

Since the early days of its development, Internet has been leveraged as a social platform, and people continue to meet, connect, organize, share and collaborate online in unprecedented fashion. In an information age, knowledge-based economy demands that workers have access to relevant channels to both foster communication and facilitate collaboration on project. Thus, it is only natural that web-based social networking applications have begun to creep into the business environment. While many companies are yet to embrace social networking, more and more organizations see it as an enabler for business operations and, similar to other communication mediums.

While opening access in the workplace to these social networks can create numerous long-term benefits, there are risks involved, including reduced employee productivity and, perhaps more notably, information security breaches which may include key security risks like potential leakage of sensitive information, unintentional unload of viruses to employee computers, individuals falling prey to fraudulent scams etc. The most prominent threats are either technical or social in nature. Technical breaches primarily occur through web application security weaknesses or poor practices by employees uploading or downloading inappropriate content.

Most organizations are either evaluating or have implemented formalized policies regarding employee participation in social networking sites. Policies should include guidelines on what information can be discussed through these mediums and how to treat content obtained or downloaded from these sites. Policies also should reinforce the message that internet access is provided for business purposes and should not be abused, thereby permitting disciplinary action if productivity concerns are...
Governance and Compliance through effective Employee Communication

Change and the role of Employee Communications

The initial idea of change can be unsettling for a workforce comfortable in its established routine. That is why effective communication underlies every successful change effort. A behavior-focused approach creates sustainable change. It helps the workers to modify the way they feel and think about their jobs by aligning attitudes and behaviors with the system and process changes, as well as the overall company direction. Organizations must consider employees as complex individuals who are driven by mental, emotional, spiritual, physical, social and environmental factors. In order to educate and engage employees in a change effort and allay their fears, the organization must seek to understand these factors and what inspires employees' thinking. The following questions need to be addressed to develop a holistic communication campaign:

1. What Do I Need to Know? - The answer to this question represents the foundation of knowledge that employees must retain to function in the changed environment.
2. Can You remind Me again? - Constant reinforcement is a core part of the learning continuum and an essential aspect to the change process.
3. Why Do I Need to Know this? - "Tell me and I'll forget; show me and I may remember; involve me and I'll understand" is a Chinese Proverb that captures the essence of this question. The vast majority of employees want to understand the bigger picture and create and establish a link between the change effort, their role and the organization's vision for success.
4. Do You know What I Know/Have Accomplished? And How Do You know? - Without exception, employees want to be respected as competent workers. The question specifically addresses the need to measure the effectiveness of the communication effort through testing employees' knowledge or soliciting their opinion and thoughts.
5. What's in It for Me? - This question addresses recognition programs and the underlying motivations that power an employee's action. Recognition and incentive programs reward employees for performance, improve morale, and reinforce widespread adoption of corporate best practices.

Conclusion

People are the lifeblood of an organization and the most important element in the change management process including putting in place a comprehensive Governance and Compliance System. They ensure that the plans are translated into action. Although it is difficult to embrace a new approach, by proactively addressing each question in the communication planning process, organization can successfully introduce revolutionary positive changes in the compliance level. Change management aimed at reducing risk depends, in part, on being able to effectively communicate the desired changes to employees in ways they understand. One of the hurdles to overcome in undertaking an effective targeted communication is gaining the attention of the audience - a considerable challenge in today's environment.
INTRODUCTION

The legislative intent of the Companies Act, 1956 ("Act"), as we understand, is best served when shareholders are free to exercise their rights in a democratic manner as conferred upon them by the Act. Except a few provisions in the Act where shareholders can exercise the rights only when they meet the criteria of eligibility i.e. based on the quantity of shares held by them, other shareholders’ rights including some vital ones as discussed hereinafter can be exercised by any shareholder even if one holds single share in the company. Based on the folly of hold-just-one-share-and-kneel-the-company, some individual shareholders have been seen exercising shareholders’ rights which cannot be considered as diligent behaviour towards the company, as far as intention of the legislation goes. The Act does not classify shareholders into ‘serious’ and ‘non-serious’ categories, nor does it provide any criteria for... the companies to identify them. However, the companies over a period of time have been feeling a pinch from a set of select individual shareholders who, either at the annual general meeting or at any other time, will resort to various practices for harassing the companies. This harassment starts with the demand of information or documents as per the provisions of the Act which they are not apparently interested in or serious about, then it will culminate into threats for legal action if there are marginal delays from company’s side and finally it boils down to request from these shareholders for favours and freebies of all sorts from the companies. This could be precisely the reason why the word ‘problem-shareholders’ has come into vogue which identifies and differentiates the aforesaid ‘non-serious’ shareholders from those ‘serious’ ones who happen to be interested in the progress of companies in which they hold shares.

Following are the common examples of the ongoing harassments being faced by the companies in India from the problem-shareholders:

- Sending repeated notice(s) for removal of Managing Director/Director
- Sending repeated notice(s) offering oneself to be appointed as Director
- Raising fights and lobbying against the companies at the annual general meeting
- Frivolous complaints about non receipt of dividend
- Repeated requisitions for inspection of statutory registers/minutes
- Repeated requisitions for copies of minutes/registers
- Requisition for details about employees and the compensation paid to them
- Splitting current holding in multiple folios (say, one shareholder holding 10 shares will split in 10 folios) just to gain over the past practice of companies of distributing gifts / discount coupons at general meetings to the shareholders on per folio basis
- Multiple folios were not only used as a tool to fetch gifts as above, but also used as a well-thought-of gimmick to successfully get the allotment of shares in IPOs wherein single individual will make multiple applications and can be sure that at least one or couple of his multiple applications will succeed. And, the companies are left to face the challenge of handling and maintaining the magnitude of such inflated number of folios.

The reason as to why the above acts have been referred as ‘harassment’ in this Article is, the above acts initiated by the individual shareholder(s) who hold either 1 (one) or 2 (two) share(s) in the company, appear to be nothing but their illegitimate intention to harass the companies and eventually demand favours. Apparently, these kinds of shareholders are neither serious about action being initiated by them as a shareholder, nor willing to participate in the growth of the company. In fact, these short-sighted shareholders use the ‘shareholder rights’ as a tool to initiate a bargain with the companies to cater to their individual vested interests.

They Leverage on Government Machinery Too

Another irony lies in the fact that this special category of shareholders also thrives on putting the valuable regulatory machinery of the country to misuse in their game. This is often seen where companies miss out to manage these problem-shareholders at the outset. In such cases, these shareholders do not hesitate in writing/forwarding their flimsy complaints to various authorities responsible to protect shareholders interest in the country viz. SEBI, Registrar of Companies (RoC), Stock Exchanges, etc. and in turn such complaints are forwarded by SEBI, RoC or Stock Exchanges, as the case may be, to the companies for resolving the same. Since, as per the listing agreement, the listed companies are supposed to report the status of the shareholders’ complaints received, attended and outstanding at the end of each quarter, the companies are left with no option but to resolve these so-called complaints of the problem-shareholders in the name of "prompt shareholders' grievance redressal". Thus the simple point companies drive home is, to manage these problem-shareholders.

Excerpts from Media briefings

Stalwarts of India Inc., who preside over the Annual General Meetings of large companies as Chairman, are critical of the behaviour of the problem-shareholders. According to them, “these shareholders just make a nuisance of themselves and jeopardise the meeting. Their intention is different and they are not interested in participating in a healthy discussion on the company’s accounts. A few minority shareholders consciously hold to ransom almost every shareholder meeting they attend and their modus operandi is simple: raise an insignificant issue and then pick a fight over it to disrupt the proceedings at general body meetings. Later on these problem-shareholders come to us and ask for all sorts of favours. If these are not granted they repeat their behaviour in the next meeting. All corporate houses are facing the same problem. We must protest and bring an end to this”.

Victim Companies’ Recourse

Companies who are victims of such onslaughts of vexatious complaints and notices from the problem shareholders and notices sent in the name of shareholders’ rights, hardly have any valid recourse.

In several cases, where the flimsy actions initiated by some individual shareholders turned into full legal battle, the Company Law Board (CLB) has held that the notices under Section 284 for removal of directors moved by the shareholders are often frivolous, vexatious having been sent by shareholders with an ulterior motive to harass companies.

The Frivolousness has been upheld by the Judiciary Too

In several cases, where the flimsy actions initiated by some individual shareholders turned into full legal battle, the Company Law Board (CLB) has held that the notices under Section 284 for removal of directors moved by the shareholders are often frivolous, vexatious having been sent by shareholders with an ulterior motive to harass companies. The pinch to the companies comes from the fact that the shareholders, who choose to send such kind of notice(s) repeatedly to several companies year after year, are neither serious shareholders nor do they represent a sizeable group of genuinely participating shareholders whose representations, feedback and inputs could be raised at the general body meetings and addressed in presence of all shareholders for mutual benefit of the companies and companies’ shareholders.

Some such cases as decided by CLB and High Courts are:

b) Dabur India Ltd v. Anil Kumar Poddar; 2002 108 Comp Cas 293 CLB (Company Law Board, on 12/9/2001).

Like in many other cases which are not referred herein, the outcomes in all the above cases were in favour of the companies and against the shareholders. Since it would be cumbersome to sum up the detailed facts and outcome of each of the said five cases here, the facts and decisions in only two of the above cases are being discussed as under:

In Dabur India Ltd case the petitioner submitted that the respondent holding only one share in the company has issued the notice under section 284 for removal of the second respondent as a director with mala fide intention and with the view to harass the company. Petitioner also pointed out that the notice is a printed notice with gaps for filling up of the name of the company, the name of the director proposed to be removed and the date of the AGM and similar such notices have been reportedly sent to many other companies. Petitioner produced a copy of the notice received by Goetze (India) Ltd. wherein also the respondent had sent a similar notice by filling up the gaps in the printed letter. Petitioner further pointed out that the respondent had sought various information from the company earlier and in view of non-furnishing of the same, he has sent the notice under section 284. Petitioner also pointed out that the director who has been proposed to be removed by the respondent is the CEO of the company and to place any notice before the General Body to remove him would be prejudicial to the interest of the company. The Company Law Board held that it has the powers to direct a company not to circulate the notice for removal of a director if it is convinced that the provisions of section 284 are being abused. In the present case, it is quite obvious, from the printed notice with the gaps to be filled in as indicated by the petitioner, that the removal of the director sought in the said notice is not a bonafide exercise of the rights by a shareholder but a blatant abuse to the provisions of section 284 with an ulterior motive. Therefore, the CLB considered it a fit case to exercise the powers under section 284(4) and, accordingly, directed that the company need not place the proposal to remove director in the notice of General Body Meeting.

In Suresh Chandra V Parekh’s case the petitioners, as shareholders, made several frivolous and baseless allegations against the respondents. The petitioner along with his wife held seven shares in HDFC Ltd which he, by executing seven transfer deeds, transferred in seven separate folios in various combinations of his and his wife’s names, short names, with middle names, without middle names, etc. HDFC Ltd after realizing that all seven folios belonged to the same persons, placed all seven shares in single folio. In 1994, HDFC Bank came out with a preferential offer to the shareholders of HDFC Ltd with a basis that a shareholder holding one to ten shares of HDFC Ltd will be offered 100 share of HDFC Bank. Hence, the petitioners got 100 shares against seven shares held by them. But the petitioners claimed that they ought to have been offered 700 shares, and initiated action to claim loss of 600 shares multiplied by market price of HDFC Bank shares. As the market price of the shares of HDFC Bank increased, the claim of petitioners in various litigations filed by them at different times kept on increasing with the share price being the multiplying factor. The petitioners also alleged that HDFC Bank has made violations of the SEBI (DIP) Guidelines, 2000 in the aforesaid preferential allotment whereas the said Guidelines did not exist in 1994 when the allotment was made. The petitioners have initiated all sorts of litigations against HDFC Ltd and HDFC Bank in various courts. After hearing, the High Court of Gujarat held that the petitioners have not approached the Court with clean hands. The petitioners abused the process of Court which renders this case to be a clear case of ‘Criminal Contempt of Court’. The petitioner who appeared in party in person was explained that if he intends to pursue the matters, the Court will proceed to pass an order under the Contempt of Courts Act. On this, the petitioner withdrew the petition unconditionally. The Court took on record with pains that the people have gone mad for earning easy money at the share market and have lost all sense of proportion and propriety to get the benefits flowing from the deals at the market and that this is one such illustrious example of such madness, under which the petitioners have approached this Court.

Conclusion

Except the provisions of Section 284(4) of the Act providing a way out to companies in case of frivolous notices for removal of director, there is no recourse available to the companies to skip the rampantly prevalent harassment by the problem-shareholders of late. It seems imperative for the Government to bring about necessary amendments and introduce more such provisions in the Act in order to safeguard the interest of the companies.

It is recommended that certain shareholders’ rights under the Act which are being misused by the problem shareholders as a tool to harass the companies should be amended to be made criteria-based i.e. restricted to a minimum shareholding criteria depending upon the number or value of the shares held by a shareholder singly or along with other shareholder(s). Above recommendation does not appear to be strange as the Act already contains certain shareholders’ rights which are based on the eligibility criteria as prescribed under the Act viz. right to make requisition to hold an extra ordinary general meeting, right to demand poll at general body meetings and the rights available to small shareholders. Likewise certain shareholders’ rights under the Act viz. right to appoint/remove directors, right to inspect minutes & registers and demand copies thereof, etc. should be amended to be made available subject to an eligibility criteria.

The above step would be a right move at the right time by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs as the Ministry is presently contemplating sweeping reforms in company law. The associations/confederations/industry representatives also need to look into this aspect and make suitable recommendations to the Ministry of Corporate Affairs in this regard.

Today there are plenty of foreign companies operating in India, with or without an Indian partner, and quite a few of them are public limited companies listed on Indian stock exchanges. The point being driven here is that the problem-shareholders would not have spared such listed foreign companies either. The harassment scene staged by such problem-shareholders if any will always be perceived by such foreign companies as a bottleneck while doing business in India. The amendments proposed in this article may therefore be seen as removal of a bottleneck for prospective foreign investors who would be looking forward to invest in India, being the second fastest growing economy in the world. Needless to mention here that the existing framework of the Companies Act, 1956 is comprehensive enough to protect the interest of all shareholders in general and the small shareholders in particular. In view of the above, a few clarifying amendments with regard to the subject herein would serve to redress the grievance of ‘harassed’ companies in India from their problem shareholders.
No business organisation is allowed to accept foreign contribution. Only registered Trusts, Societies and Companies registered under Section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956 can do so to carry out definite cultural, economic, educational, religious or social programme. Why a company being a business organisation is regarded as an unsuitable candidate for the purpose? Compared to NGOs, companies pass through more stringent legal measures under the watchful eyes of several regulators, which will enable the authorities to trace the sources of the fund and monitor the end uses thereof.

The Story

A company enjoys excellent overseas market of its Indian products. To show its human face, it has been serving for long for the upliftment of the civic life, e.g., schooling and medicals, etc. of the poor in the vicinity where its only factory is situated, which is a remote area. It has well defined schemes for the purpose and allocates a certain amount every year from its profits towards this end.

Presently, it is expanding its business and setting up a number of factories to diversify as well as augment present production.
It has chalked out a plan for social welfare in larger scale to cover the areas of its new factories also. According to its plan, to add to its own internally generated strength, it will collect contributions from the foreign buyers of its products by way of charging a small premium being certain percentage on the sale prices from the willing customers only. The Management reasonably believes that the company's goodwill in the overseas market will certainly help. The proceeds of the premium will be remitted to India as 'foreign contributions' and credited to a separate Bank Account with a Scheduled Bank specially maintained for the purpose.

As stated, the company has been performing Corporate Social Responsibilities ('CSR') for long - voluntarily. (A number of good business houses in the country are doing so). Obviously, this new plan will increase the company's power to so perform.

For the legal compulsion, the company decides to apply for registration/ permission under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010 ('the Act') to enable it to receive and utilise the foreign contributions for the great purpose.

The questions

A. Can the proceeds of the premium be called 'foreign contributions' under the meaning of Section 2(h) of the Act?

B. Will the application for registration/permission to be made by the company succeed? In other words, will the company qualify as an applicant under the Act?

Quest for the answers

1. Definition of 'Foreign Contribution':

Section 2 (h) of the Act provides as under –

"foreign contribution" means the donation, delivery or transfer made by any foreign source,–

(i) of any article, not being an article given to a person as a gift for his personal use, if the market value, in India, of such article, on the date of such gift, is not more than such sum as may be specified from time to time, by the Central Government by the rules made by it in this behalf;
(ii) of any currency, whether Indian or foreign;
(iii) of any security as defined in clause (h) of section 2 of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956 (42 of 1956) and includes any foreign security as defined in clause (o) of section 2 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (42 of 1999).

Explanation 1. – A donation, delivery or transfer of any article, currency or foreign security referred to in this clause by any person who has received it from any foreign source, either directly or through one or more persons, shall also be deemed to be foreign contribution within the meaning of this clause.

Explanation 2. - The interest accrued on the foreign contribution deposited in any bank referred to in sub-section (1) of section 17 or any other income derived from the foreign contribution or interest thereon shall also be deemed to be foreign contribution within the meaning of this clause.

Explanation 3.- Any amount received, by any person from any foreign source in India, by way of fee (including fees charged by an educational institution in India from foreign student) or towards cost in lieu of goods or services rendered by such person in the ordinary course of his business, trade or commerce whether within India or outside India or any contribution received from an agent of a foreign source towards such fee or cost shall be excluded from the definition of foreign contribution within the meaning of this clause;
To be legally eligible to receive and utilise foreign contribution a person has to apply for registration in Form FC-3 appended to the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Rules, 2011 (‘the Rules’) or permission of the Central Government in Form FC-4 appended to the Rules as prescribed by the Ministry.

- Even if the contribution is routed through one or more intermediaries it shall be deemed as ‘foreign contribution’.
- The interest earned on the foreign contribution (including interest on the amount of the contribution paid by the Bank through which it is received from abroad) and any other incomes derived therefrom are ‘foreign contributions’.
- Any amount received towards cost in lieu of goods or services rendered in the ordinary course of business, trade or commerce whether within India or outside India is not a ‘foreign contribution’ [Explanation 3 to Section 2(h) of the Act]. Because, in such a case the character of the money is not donative but commercial.

There was no Explanation in the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 1976 (repealed by the Act) similar to Explanation 3 to Section 2(h) of the Act. This is a new inclusion.

2. THE PREMIUM AMOUNT - WHETHER A ‘FOREIGN CONTRIBUTION’:

According to Explanation 3 to Section 2(h) of the Act ‘cost in lieu of goods or services rendered by such person in the ordinary course of his business, trade or commerce whether within India or outside India’ is not foreign contribution. Here, ‘cost’ means the ‘cost’ to the person overseas to whom the goods have been supplied or services have been rendered, i.e. the sale price received by the Indian supplier.

In the given case, the company is selling its products in the ordinary course of its business. But it is recovering the amount (i.e. premium) ‘in addition to’ the normal sale price from the willing customers. Therefore, the amount of premium can reasonably be regarded as ‘foreign contribution’ - given the language of Section 2(h) of the Act.

3. ELIGIBILITY OF A COMPANY WHICH IS A BUSINESS ORGANISATION:

According to Section 11 of the Act, any person having a definite cultural, economic, educational, religious or social programme can accept foreign contribution (to be utilised for the purpose of the programme - Section 8) provided such person obtains a certificate of registration from the Central Government. The Section states further that a person, who is not registered under the Act may accept any foreign contribution only after obtaining the ‘prior permission’ of the Central Government and such prior permission shall be valid for the specific purpose for which it is obtained and from the specific source.

The Section in its sub-Section (3) stipulates that notwithstanding anything contained in the Act, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify-

- (i) the person or class of persons who shall obtain its prior permission before accepting the foreign contribution; or
(ii) the area or areas in which the foreign contribution shall be accepted and utilised with the prior permission of the Central Government; or
(iii) the purpose or purposes for which the foreign contribution shall be utilised with the prior permission of the Central Government; or
(iv) the source or sources from which the foreign contribution shall be accepted with the prior permission of the Central Government.

'Person' has been defined by Section 2(m) of the Act as under -
“Person” includes—
(i) an individual;
(ii) a Hindu undivided family;
(iii) an association;
(iv) a company registered under section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956);

'Association' has been defined under Section 2(1) (a) of the Act as ‘an association of individuals, whether incorporated or not, having an office in India and includes a society, whether registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (21 of 1860), or not, and any other organisation, by whatever name called;’

Needless to mention that a company is an ‘association’ of persons who have been ‘associated for any lawful purpose’ (Section 12 of the Companies Act, 1956) and granted Certificate of Incorporation (Section 34 read with Section 35 of the Companies Act, 1956).

To put in a nutshell -

a) Section 2(h) of the Act declares what is ‘foreign contribution’.

b) Section 2(m) of the Act indicates who can receive the ‘foreign contribution’.

c) Section 11 of the Act lays down how one can receive and should utilise the ‘foreign contribution’.

The aforementioned three crucial Sections in this regard do not strike off any 'business organisation' from their considerations. A company which is not in business, i.e. registered under Section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956 is straightway eligible to receive and utilise 'foreign contributions' (provided registered/ permitted and complied with all other relevant provisions under the Act). Section 2(m) is clear in this respect.

But a company, which is in business, has not been either expressly included or excluded by the Act - to be eligible to receive and utilise 'foreign contributions'. Therefore, prima facie, it is eligible!

4. NON-ELIGIBILITY OF A BUSINESS ORGANISATION:

There appears to be a conflict between the Act itself on one side and the administrators and regulators of the Act on the other, namely, the Ministry of Home Affairs (‘the Ministry’) and the Reserve Bank of India (‘RBI’).

To be legally eligible to receive and utilise foreign contribution a person has to apply for registration in Form FC-3 appended to the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Rules, 2011 (‘the Rules’) or permission of the Central Government in Form FC-4 appended to the Rules as prescribed by the Ministry. Either of the Forms asks whether the applicant is (a) religious, (b) cultural, (c) economic, (d) educational or (e) social organisation. It also asks for the (a) registration number, (b) place of registration and (c) date of registration (also the PAN) of the applicant if it is an association which is a registered Trust or Society.

The preamble to the Act starts with ‘An Act to consolidate the law to regulate the acceptance and utilisation of foreign contribution or foreign hospitality by certain individuals or associations or companies …’ Here, does the word ‘companies’ mean the companies registered under Section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956 only? Had it been so, the definition under Section 2(m) of the Act would have been conveniently worded to be ‘exclusive’ not ‘inclusive’!

The ‘introduction’ to the Act given by the Ministry states, inter alia that ‘The Act also seeks to regulate flow of foreign funds to voluntary organizations…’ Mark the word ‘also’ as opposed
Why Business Organisations are not suitable for Foreign Contributions?

RBI -
Question: What are the eligibility criteria for registration?
Answer: An organisation in formative stage is not eligible for registration. Such organisation may apply for grant of prior permission under the law. For grant of registration, the association should:

(i) be registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 or the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 or section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956;

(ii) be in existence for at least three years and have made significant contribution in chosen area of activity. For this purpose, the association should have spent at least Rs.6,00,000 over last three years on its activities, excluding administrative expenditure. Statement of Income & Expenditure duly audited by Chartered Accountant for last three years may be enclosed to substantiate financial parameter.

A company which is a business organisation will arguably be well equipped to meet paragraph (ii) (in either case) set above.

The Act nowhere expressly excludes the business organisation. The body of the Rules also does not do so. But the Forms of Application, namely, Form FC-3 and FC-4 attached to the Rules, impliedly do so. The Ministry's view as well as the RBI's opinion supports the Forms in this respect.

Explanation 3 to Section 2 (h) of the Act has excluded from the purview of the Act only the business income of any person engaged in business, trade or commerce - neither the person himself (or itself) nor his (or its) other receipts. Because, a person engaged in any business, trade or commerce has not been intended to be treated as an outright outcast by the Act.

However, according to Section 12(2) of the Act the Central Government shall reject the Application for Registration / Permission made under Section 11 of the Act if the Application 'is not in the prescribed form or does not contain any of the particulars specified in that form'. There lies the legal status of the conditions of the Forms. Thus the conditions become mandatory.

And the truth is that, as previously stated, the Forms impliedly exclude the business organisations from the list of the probable applicants!

Why then right from the preamble to the Act, all through the Act and the Rules, (excepting the Forms appended to the Rules) there is no provision against business organisation to receive 'foreign contribution'? This can not be denied that the strength of a business organisation to mobilise foreign fund to subserve the (a) religious, (b) cultural, (c) economic, (d) educational and
Why Business Organisations are not suitable for Foreign Contributions?

The Companies Bill, 2011 ("the Bill") vide Clause 135 provides that every company having net worth of rupees five hundred crore or more, or turnover of rupees one thousand crore or more or a net profit of rupees five crore or more during any financial year shall constitute a Corporate Social Responsibility Committee of the Board. The Committee should formulate and recommend to the Board, a Corporate Social Responsibility Policy which shall indicate the activities to be undertaken by the company as specified in Schedule VII to the Bill.

(e) other great social causes of the country, is quiet substantial. The 'foreign contributions' collected by a company being a business organisation can play a significant booster in its CSR (Corporate Social Responsibilities).

5. C S R UNDER THE COMPANIES BILL, 2011:
The Companies Bill, 2011 ("the Bill") vide Clause 135 provides that every company having net worth of rupees five hundred crore or more, or turnover of rupees one thousand crore or more or a net profit of rupees five crore or more during any financial year shall constitute a Corporate Social Responsibility Committee of the Board. The Committee should formulate and recommend to the Board, a Corporate Social Responsibility Policy which shall indicate the activities to be undertaken by the company as specified in Schedule VII to the Bill.

According to Clause 135, the Board of every such company must make every endeavour to ensure that the company spends, in every financial year, at least two per cent of the average net profits of the company made during the three immediately preceding financial years, in pursuance of its Corporate Social Responsibility Policy.

Further according to Clause 135, if the company fails to spend such amount for the purpose, the Board should, in its Report for the relevant Financial Year, specify the reasons for not spending the amount.

Schedule VII lists the following activities in relation to Corporate Social Responsibility Policy:

i) eradicating extreme hunger and poverty;
(ii) promotion of education;
(iii) promoting gender equality and empowering women;
(iv) reducing child mortality and improving maternal health;
(v) combating human immunodeficiency virus, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, malaria and other diseases;
(vi) ensuring environmental sustainability;
(vii) employment enhancing vocational skills;
(viii) social business projects;
(ix) contribution to the Prime Minister's National Relief Fund or any other fund set up by the Central Government or the State Governments for socioeconomic development and relief and funds for the welfare of the Scheduled Castes, the Scheduled Tribes, other backward classes, minorities and women;
and
(x) such other matters as may be prescribed.

The activities set out at (i) to (viii) above can comfortably fit into the object of the Act. The Bill opts for compulsion on large companies (vide Clause 135) to take up the social responsibilities out of their own resources. The Bill nowhere prohibits a company from accepting foreign contributions for the purpose. Of course, spending out of the internally generated fund will be mandatory as given in Clause 135. Foreign contributions, if allowed, may well act as an additional resource.

In Fine
A part of the introduction to the Act by the Ministry reads, 'The focus of the Act is to ensure that the foreign contribution and foreign hospitality is not utilised to affect or influence electoral politics, public servants, judges and other people working in the important areas of national life like journalists, printers and publishers of newspapers, etc. The Act also seeks to regulate flow of foreign funds to voluntary organizations with the objective of preventing any possible diversion of such funds towards activities detrimental to the national interest and to ensure that individuals and organizations may function in a manner consistent with the values of the sovereign democratic republic'.

Accordingly, the unwelcome 'foreign contributions' have been guarded against by Section 3 of the Act, i.e. 'Prohibition to accept foreign contribution'.

Finally, one must agree that the supervision of the flow of the foreign contributions from their sources to their uses, for the desired effect, presently conducted under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010 shall gain considerable leverage, if the company law is in a position to support it.
As per the provisions of Trade Marks Act, only an applicant or a legal practitioner and a registered trade mark agent is authorised to file trademark applications. To become registered trade mark agent, the requirement is to pass the trade Mark examination conducted by Trade Marks Registry. But for Company Secretaries there is no

The creation of Intellectual Property Rights is increasingly being recognized in today's global economy and society. In view of this, Trade Marks law offers much scope for good practice. A PCS can expand his practice by taking up the trade marks practice. He shall advise and guide on Trade Marks law and thus can provide useful service to the society and corporates.

INTRODUCTION

The objective of the Trade Marks Act, 1999 is to register trade marks applied for in India and to provide for better protection of trade mark for goods and services and also to prevent fraudulent use of the mark.

A Company Secretary in practice must be conversant with Trade Mark registration and law relating to trademarks. While applying for name availability for incorporation of a company under the Companies Act, 1956, he has to make a search in trade mark website to find out whether the name applied for has already been registered as trade mark and if so the same has to be mentioned in Form 1A. The Trade Mark search facility is now linked with MCA website so that one can search the Trade Mark from MCA website through the link facility available.

need to appear for the examination. A practising Company Secretary can become a registered Trade Mark Agent and can practice in trademark by applying to the Trade Marks Registry within whose territorial limits the principal place of business of the applicant is situated with prescribed fees. On registration, he will be given an agent code number and this can be renewed every year.

Trade Marks Law in India

The Trade Marks Registry was established in India in 1940 and it administers the Trade Marks Act, 1999 which came into force with effect from September 15, 2003. The Trade and Merchandise Marks Act, 1958 was repealed at the same time. The Trade Marks Act 1999 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") is in line with the WTO recommendations and is in conformity with the TRIPS Agreement to which India is a signatory.

Registration of trade mark confers certain statutory rights on the Registered Proprietor which enables him to sue for infringement of the trade mark.

This is in addition to the common law right to sue for passing off. The trade marks Registry administers the Trade Marks Act, 1999 and the rules framed thereunder.

The Trade Marks Registry has its Head office at Mumbai and Branch offices at Kolkata, Delhi, Chennai and Ahmedabad having territorial jurisdiction on a zonal basis as given below:

The Trade Marks Registry is maintaining the Register of trademarks in electronic mode. Trade Marks Website is both for trademark and patents. To go to trade mark website one has to login http://www.ipindia.nic.in Trademark search can be made in the website. Likewise, Trademark application status can also be verified therein. However, for copyright there is a separate website. Copyright registration is governed by Copyright Act, 1957.

Meaning of Trade Mark

'Mark' includes a device, brand heading, label, ticket, name, signature, word, letter, numeral shape of goods, packaging or combination of colours of any combination thereof. "Trade Mark" means a mark capable of being represented graphically and which is capable of distinguishing the goods or services of one person from those of others and may include shape of goods, their packaging and combination of colours.

Trade Marks Registration

The law provides for registration of trademarks and service marks being used or intended to be used on goods, services, certification and collective marks.

Trademarks will not be registered if they are "devoid of any distinctive character" or if they serve "to designate the kind, quality, quantity, intended purpose, values, geographical origin, time of production/rendering of the service, other characteristics of the goods or service" or if they consist of elements "which have become customary", unless they have acquired a distinctive character as a result of their use or were already well known as a trademark.

In addition trademarks are NOT registrable if they:
The Trade Marks Act 1999 is in line with the WTO recommendations and is in conformity with the TRIPS Agreement to which India is a signatory. Registration of trade mark confers certain statutory rights on the Registered Proprietor which enables him to sue for infringement of the trade mark.

- are scandalous or obscene, offend religious susceptibilities, or contrary to the law or morality;
- are likely to deceive or cause confusion;
- feature representations of the Indian national flag, the name or pictorial representation of Mahatma Gandhi, Jawahar Lal Nehru, Chhatrapathi Shivaji, or similar national leaders or the Prime Minister of India and the names and emblems of certain international organization;
- consist exclusively of the shape of goods, which results from the nature of goods themselves or which is necessary to obtain a technical result or if the shape gives substantial value to the good.

Types of Trade Marks that can be Registered

Under the Indian trademark law the following are the types of trademarks that can be registered:
- Product trademarks: Those that are affixed to identify goods.
- Service trademarks: Used to identify the services of an entity, such as the trademark for a broadcasting service, retail outlets, etc. They are used in advertising for services.
- Certification trademarks: Those that are capable of distinguishing the goods or services in connection with which it is used in the course of trade and which are certified by the proprietor with regard to their origin, material, the method of manufacture, the quality or other specific features
- Collective trademarks: Registered in the name of groups, associations or other organizations for the use of members of the group in their commercial activities to indicate their membership of the group.

Registration Procedure

It is important that trademarks owners apply for registration in Form TM-1 to be filed in triplicate accompanied by five additional representations of trade marks along with filing fees of Rs.3500 as early as possible. Application for registration is made by the mark's owner/proprietor (or agent with power of attorney) to the Registrar of Trademarks.

- The trademark owner must have the intention to use the mark himself or through a registered user or by a person other than himself and a registered user.
- Multi class applications can be filed
- As per rule 4 of Trade Marks Rules 2002, a trade mark application is to be filed at the appropriate office within whose territorial limits, the principal place of business in India of the applicant is situated.
- Applications who are not Indian nationals or living in India must provide the Registry with an address for service in India or they must appoint a local registered agent or representative.
- For trademarks containing words in a language other than Hindi or English, the Registrar may request a translation.
- Applicants can claim priority, provided the application is filed in India within six months of the priority date; multiple and partial priorities are allowed.
- Trade Mark application can be made from anywhere electronically with the help of Digital Signature.
- Fourth Schedule of the Trade Mark Rules, 2002, contains 45 classes of good and services and out of this Class 1 to 34 relates to goods and from class 35 to 45 relates to services. The relevant class number has to be mentioned in the TM-1. For example Class 5 is for Pharmaceuticals.
- Before making an application for registration it is prudent to conduct a trademark search in the Trademark office in context of the already registered trademarks to ensure that registration may not be denied in view of resemblance of the proposed mark to an existing one or prohibited one.

Only the proprietor of a trademark whose trademark has been registered in India can use the symbol ® in India. Using the symbol ® unless the mark has been registered in India is unlawful.

Using ™ symbol with the trademark simply implies that one can claim to be the proprietor of the trademark. There is no prohibition on the use of the symbol ™ in India.

Specific application requirements include the following:

- Name, address, state of incorporation, class(es) of goods/services.
- 15 prints (in case of marks in color); three different views for three dimensional marks.
- Date of first use in India or whether the mark is intended to be used.
- Trade description of the applicants.
- In case priority is being claimed, a certified copy of the priority document along with its certified English translation.

Examination
Applications are examined to ensure compliance with the law and to ensure they do not conflict with marks that are already registered or pending. The examiners report is placed in the website and the applicant has to check the status in the website and give reply for the examiners remarks.

Application may be amended provided the amendment does not constitute a major alteration. In the case of identical or similar marks, registration may be permitted with proof that the mark was being used concurrently and in good faith.

A registrant can re-file an application for a different specification of goods or in the event registration has lapsed due to non-payment of renewal fee. In case of any objections, the trade Mark authorities will fix a hearing. Practicing Company Secretaries as Trade Mark agent can appear before the Trade Mark authorities.

Opposing an Application
Accepted applications are advertised in the Trademarks journal and the journal can be seen from Trademark website. Any opposition may be filed within three months from the date of publication in the Trademarks journal; a one month extension for filing opposition can be obtained within the three month period.

International Non Proprietary Names
International Non proprietary names (INN) facilitate the identification of pharmaceutical substances or identification of pharmaceutical substance or active pharmaceutical ingredients. The list of INN as declared by World Health Organisation is available in trade Mark website (For example Abatacept, Triletide, Zotepine, etc.). Each INN is a unique name that is globally recognized and is public property. To avoid confusion which could jeopardize the safety of patients, trademarks should neither be derived from INNs nor contain stems used in INNs.

Validity of Registration
Trade Mark Registration is valid for 10 years, renewable every 10 years. An application for the renewal of the registration of a trade mark shall be made in form TM12 with filing of fees of Rs.5000 and may be made at any time not more than six months before the expiration of the registration of trade mark. A trademark removed from the Register for non payment of renewal fees can be cited against an application for registration upto one year.

Infringement of Trademark and Passing-Off
Two types of remedies are available to the owner of a trademark for unauthorized use of his or her mark or its imitation by a third party. These remedies are:

- an action for ‘infringement’ in case of a registered trademark; and
- an action for ‘passing off’ in the case of an unregistered trademark.

While former is a statutory remedy, the latter is a common law remedy. In an action involving infringement or passing off, a court may grant relief of injunction and/or monetary compensation for damages for loss of business and/or confiscation/destruction of infringing labels and tags etc.
Trade Mark Registration is valid for 10 years, renewable every 10 years. An application for the renewal of the registration of a trade mark shall be made in form TM12 with filing of fees of Rs.5000 and may be made at any time not more than six months before the expiration of the registration of trade mark. A trademark removed from the Register for non payment of renewal fees can be cited against an application for registration upto one year.

Assignment, Transmission and Licensing of Trade Marks in India

"Assignment" means an assignment in writing by an act of the parties concerned. While in case of licensing, the right in the trademark continues to vest with the proprietor, the assignment of the trademark leads to a change in the ownership of the mark. A registered trademark is assignable with or without the goodwill in respect of all or only some of the goods/services for which the mark is registered. India is a member to TRIPS and Article 21 of the TRIPS dealing with Licensing and Assignment mandates that "... the owner of a registered trademark shall have the right to assign the trademark with or without the transfer of the business to which the trademark belongs." Section 39 of the (Indian) Trade Marks Act, 1999 allows for the assignment of an unregistered trademark with or without the goodwill of the business concerned.

Role of Practising Company Secretary in Trade Marks Practice

A Practicing Company Secretary can register as Trade Mark agent and practice in Trade Mark related matters. He can appear before the Trade Mark authorities when hearing is fixed and represent on behalf of his clients. He can make Trade Mark search and advise his clients on Trade Mark registration and all matters relating to trade marks.

The trend of trademark accepted and registered by the government has been on rise. In view of this, a Practicing Company Secretary (PCS) can additionally practice as Trade Mark Agent and due to versatile knowledge and administrative skill of PCS, he would be successful in Trade Marks practice.

Protecting your Innovations under Patent Laws

Inventions and innovations are ongoing processes in every economy. An important aspect of such inventions and innovations is the protection granted to the inventor for a specified period for exclusive right to use the same. The scope of the protection under the patent laws is examined in this article.

The focus of this article is on protecting the innovations by the patent laws and most specifically under Patent Act in India. The article explains relevant statutory provisions and tries to clarify with an overview on the patent laws.

Prologue

Patent is "the exclusive right to use or exercise an invention granted to a person for a limited period in consideration of the disclosure of the invention".

A patent is an official recognition by the Government to an inventor, which confers the inventor the exclusive right of control and possession of a particular invention for a period of time. The period varies in each country. Patents are likely to convert knowledge into wealth and will play a major part in the future wars on the economic front. In India, the Indian Patents Act, 1970 regulates the law relating to the patents. Obtaining a patent does not necessarily guarantee that the inventor will receive a return on his discovery. Others may "infringe" on his patent, that is, use the idea without paying him for it in which case the inventor will have to engage in costly litigation. Suits for patent infringement are common, even among supposedly respectable companies: in recent years, Apple Computer sued Microsoft and Polaroid sued Kodak. Patent is granted by a State and hence has territorial applicability. That is, it is valid only in the country, which grants the patent. There is no mechanism to obtain a global patent and you have to apply separately in all the countries where you want the invention to be protected. However, the Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) of the World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO) seeks to... facilitate grant of patents in the participating countries. There were 123 countries, party to the PCT as on October 15, 2003. India joined the PCT on December 7, 1998. Under the PCT, one international application for patent on an invention can be filed in any country party to the PCT, designating other PCT countries where the patent is sought. The effect of it is that the patent in a designated state, when granted, will have the same priority date as for the first international application. However, in each designated country, a separate application for patent is to be filed as per the requirements of that country. Each country has to examine the application independently for granting a patent.

Purpose of granting patent right

Public interest demands that development must be made open and not kept in secret. Patents ensure property rights (Legal title) for the invention for which patent have been granted, which may be extremely valuable to an individual or a company.

Patent law is an encouragement for the inventors as they may put to use the invention and make some profits which may serve as fruits of their labour. Patent laws tend to encourage and maintain the continuous flow of inventions, by acting as an incentive to invent.

Iyenger Committee Report

(Important points to be noted)

A well debated, development oriented and patriotically processed statute of 1970, with a progressive perspective and successful sequel, passed after a thorough study (based on the Justice RajagopalaAyyangar Committee report) proved a tremendous national triumph for the consumer and the manufacturer alike… [It proved to be the] finest and most just parliamentary achievement…

-Justice V. R Krishna Iyer
Justice Rajagopala Ayyangar was appointed in April 1957 as one man Committee to advise on revision of law relating to Patents and Designs
Submitted final report in September 1959
Foreigners held 80-90 % of the patents in India
They acquired patents not for manufacturing but for protecting their imports
India was deprived of goods at cheaper prices

Criterion for patentability

Patent can be obtained for an invention which is new and useful. The invention must relate to a machine, article or a substance produced by manufacture or the process of manufacture of an article. Patents may be obtained for an improvement of an article or process of manufacture of such improvements. In areas such as medicines, drugs, foods and certain chemical products no patent is available on the ultimate product but the process of manufacturers patentable.

Patentable invention is defined as "a new product or process involving an inventive step and capable of industrial application."

Section 2(1)(j) of the Patent Act, 1970 provides that unless the context otherwise requires, "invention" means any new and useful-
- i. art, process, method or manner of manufacture;
- ii. machine, apparatus or other article;
- iii. substance produced by manufacture, and includes any new and useful improvement of any of them, and an alleged invention.

INVENTIONS NOT PATENTABLE

What are not inventions (Section 3)

The following are not inventions within the meaning of this Act, -
- a. an invention which is frivolous or which claims anything obvious contrary to well established natural laws;
- b. an invention the primary or intended use of which would be contrary to law or morality or injurious to public health;
- c. the mere discovery of a scientific principle or the formulation of an abstract theory;
- d. the mere discovery of any new property of new use for a known substance or of the mere use of a known process, machine or apparatus unless such known process results in a new product or employs at least one new reactant;
- e. a substance obtained by a mere admixture resulting only in the aggregation of the properties of the components thereby or a process for producing such substance;
- f. the mere arrangement or re-arrangement or duplication of known devices each functioning independently of one another in a known way;
- g. a method or process of testing applicable during the process of manufacture for rendering the machine, apparatus or other equipment more efficient or for the improvement or restoration of the existing machine, apparatus or other equipment for the improvement or control of manufacture;
- h. a method of agriculture or horticulture;
- i. any process for the medicinal, surgical, curative, prophylactic or other treatment of human beings or any process for a similar treatment of animals or plants to render them free of disease or to increase their economic value or that of their products.

Inventions relating to atomic energy not patentable (Section 4)

No patent shall be granted in respect of an invention relating to atomic energy falling within sub-section (1) of Section 20 of the Atomic Energy Act, 1962. (33 of 1962)

Inventions where only methods or processes of manufacture patentable (Section 5)

(1) In the case of inventions-
- a. claiming substances intended for use, or capable of being used, as food or as medicine or drug, or
- b. relating to substances prepared or produced by chemical processes (including alloys, optical glass, semi-conductors and inter-metallic compounds), no patent shall be granted in respect of claims for the substances themselves, but claims for the methods or processes of manufacture shall be patentable.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), a claim for patent of an invention for a substance itself intended for use, or capable of being used, as medicine or drug, except the medicine or drug specified under sub-clause (v) of clause (1) of sub-section (1) of section 2, may be made and shall be dealt, without prejudice to the other provisions of this Act, in the manner provided in Chapter IVA.
There is no mechanism to obtain a global patent and one has to apply separately in all the countries where he wants the invention to be protected. However, the Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) of the World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO) seeks to facilitate grant of patents in the participating countries.

Territorial Jurisdiction of Patents

An applicant or first mentioned applicant in case of joint applicants can file application for patent at the appropriate Patent Office under whose jurisdiction he normally resides or has his domicile or has a place of business or the place from where the invention actually originated. For the applicant, who is non-resident or has no domicile or has no place of business in India, the address for service in India or place of business of his patent agent determines the appropriate patent office where applications for patent can be filed.

Territorial Jurisdiction of Appropriate Office for the Applicants

Types of patents granted under the Patent Act 1970

There are several steps involving the application for a patent, examination of the application for a patent, examination of the application and on satisfaction grant of the patent, which is called the sealing of the patent. There are three types of patents granted under the Act—differing in terms of procedure, or the nature of the rights granted there under. They are:

- An ordinary patent: The first application for patent filed in the Patent Office without claiming priority from any application or without any reference to any other application under process in the Patent office is called an ordinary application.

- A patent of addition for improvement or modification: Patent of addition is an application made for a patent in respect of any improvement or modification of an invention described or disclosed in the complete specification already applied for or has a patent. In order to be patentable an improvement, should be something more than a mere workshop improvement and must independently satisfy the test of invention. The major benefit is the exemption of renewal fee so long as the main patent is renewed. A patent of addition lapses with the cessation of the main patent.

- A patent granted in respect of a convention application: When an applicant files a patent application, claiming a priority date based on the same or substantially similar application filed in one or more of the convention countries, it is called a convention application. To get a convention status, an applicant should file the application before any of the patent offices within 12 months from the date of first application in the convention country.

Notification as to convention countries (Section 133)

(1) With a view to the fulfillment of a treaty, convention or arrangement with any country outside India which affords to applicants for patents in India or to citizens of India similar privileges as are granted to its own citizens in respect of the grant of patents and the protection of patent rights, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare such country to be a convention country for the purposes of this Act.

(2) A declaration under sub-section (1) may be made for the purposes either of all or of some of the provisions of this Act, and a country in the case of which a declaration made for the purposes of some of the provisions of this Act is in force shall be deemed to be a convention country for the purposes of those provisions only.

Opposition

It may be noted that it would be beyond the powers of the patent office to make a thorough search for prior publication or use. Interested parties are given the right to challenge the grant at any time. A period of four months from the date of advertisement is given to any person interested to give notice of opposition to the controller to the grant of patent. Opposition is to be made in the prescribed Form 14 under the Act.

An interesting case on Patent laws:

Patenting prime numbers
A troubling case has been identified by the British Parliamentary Office of Science and Technology. It is a patent on prime numbers: "a patent was issued by the US Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) for a mathematical method (the Partial Modular Reduction Method) which is of use in cryptography and security systems. The claims included the use of two prime numbers (comprising 150 and 320 digits) which have a property that speeds up decryption. Indeed, the claim in the patent extends to using any prime number that allows the short cut to be made. The US PTO agreed that the two prime numbers in the claim represent novel discoveries that have some utility, and can, therefore, be patented under US patent law".

Conclusion
The entire patent system and the patent law in India are governed by the superintendence of Controller General of designs, patents, trademark patent and by geographical indications. This Office of Controller General functions under Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion. There are four patent offices in India, Head office is located in Kolkata and other offices are located in Delhi, Chennai and Mumbai. The examiners of each patent office have to release their work according to the direction of controllers. Patent law is one of the fastest growing fields of law, which deals with issues surrounding the protection of ideas. By protecting the rights of the inventor, the government can be sure that people will continue to think of unique and new ideas to share with the world. The increase in the number of patent applications being received by patent offices all over the world is an indication of the universal recognition of the value of patent system.
On 21st December 2011, The Government of India introduced in Lok Sabha, ‘The Electronic Delivery Of Services Bill (EDS) 2011’, which mandates providing all public services compulsorily through electronic means from a specified date. The Major Provisions of the Bill have been explained in this article.

INTRODUCTION

In order to promote e-Governance in the country, the second Administrative Reforms Commission, in its Eleventh Report submitted in 2008, have recommended a clear road map to be outlined by Government of India for transforming the Citizen-Government interaction at all levels to the e-Governance mode by 2020 through a legal framework. To give effect to this recommendation the Government of India has introduced in Lok Sabha on 21st December 2011, ‘The Electronic Delivery of Services Bill (EDS) 2011’, which mandates providing all public services compulsorily through electronic means from a specified date. The intention behind this Bill is to provide for electronic delivery of public services to all persons and thereby ensure transparency, accountability, and control of corruption.

Electronic Delivery of Services

Electronic delivery of services means the delivery of public services or other services through electronic mode including, the receipt of forms and applications, issue or grant of any license, permit, certificate, sanction or approval and the receipt or payment of money. Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to provide for the delivery of all ‘public services’ through electronic mode by
The Government of India has introduced in Lok Sabha on 21st December 2011, 'The Electronic Delivery of Services Bill (EDS) 2011', which mandates providing all public services compulsorily through electronic means from a specified date. The intention behind this Bill is to provide for electronic delivery of public services to all persons and thereby ensure transparency, accountability, and control corruption.

The Central Government, the State Government and public authorities within five years of the commencement of the proposed legislation, except certain services
(a) which cannot be delivered electronically,

The period of five years may be extended for a further period not exceeding three years by the Central Government or the State Government or public authority, in consultation with the Central Commission or the State Commission, for reasons to be notified. After coming into force of this Act, the Head of every public authority or Department of the Central Government/State Government shall publish within one hundred and eighty days, the list of all public services to be delivered by it through electronic mode and the date by which each such service shall be made available through electronic mode.

Each Department in the Government of India may, from time to time, notify, in such manner as may be prescribed, electronic governance standards, being not inconsistent with electronic governance standards notified by the Central Government. The State Government may also prescribe such standards which had not been notified by the Central Government and the standards so notified by the State Government shall remain in force till such standards are notified by the Central Government.

Grievance Redressal Mechanism

The Head of the Department of the Central Government/State Government and every public authority shall notify a Grievance Redressal Mechanism for the redressal of grievances under this Act, within such time and in such manner as may be prescribed. Any aggrieved person may file a complaint to such authority as may be notified under the Grievance Redressal Mechanism for (a) non-availability of public services in an electronic mode or (b) deficiency in delivery of the electronic service.

Any person aggrieved by the order of the Grievance Redressal
The Government of India may notify Electronic Governance Standards for ensuring inter-operability, integration, harmonization and security of electronic services. Each Department in the Government of India may, from time to time, notify, in such manner as may be prescribed, electronic governance standards, being not inconsistent with electronic governance standards notified by the Central Government. The State Government may also prescribe such standards which had not been notified by the Central Government and the standards so notified by the State Government shall remain in force till such standards are notified by the Central Government.

The Bill empowers the Central Government/ State government to make rules for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the proposed legislation on various matters. These matters inter alia, relate to the manner and quality of delivery of services, the manner in which assisted access to electronic services shall be provided to specified categories of users, the framing of electronic governance standards for ensuring interoperability, integration, harmonization and security, the manner of notifying the Grievance Redressal Mechanism, the manner of filing the complaint, etc.

Conclusion
In short it is an invaluable move from the government side to make all government services to electronic mode. It would check corruption by reducing discretion on the part of government employees and give an opportunity to citizens from every nook and corner of the Country to get accessed all Governmental Services in time without much effort. However the government should take proper steps to ensure infrastructure for online services is available to all citizens of India.

Corporate Laws

Brief facts
SEBI passed an ex parte injunction order dated 27.09.2011 whereby some directions have been issued, among others, to the appellant restraining it from dealing in securities or instruments with Indian securities as the underlying in any manner whatsoever until further orders. The two Depositories have also been directed to freeze the beneficial owner accounts of several entities including the appellant. The ex parte order has been ordered to be treated as a show cause notice. The appellant challenged this order before the Tribunal by way of an appeal. The Tribunal disposed of the appeal with a direction to the Board to pass an order after affording an opportunity of hearing to the appellant before the end of this year. Having regard to the nature of the disputes raised in this appeal and taking note of the fact that the ad interim order is adversely affecting the business of the appellant, we further direct the Board to conclude the investigations before the end of February, 2012. In the meanwhile, the appellant is allowed to sell all the securities held by it as enlisted in Exhibits 'G' and 'J' to the appeal and the sale proceeds therefrom shall be deposited in a fixed deposit with ICICI Bank earning interest. The appellant shall not be allowed to withdraw monies from that account including interest without the prior permission of the Board. In case the appellant wants to utilize any or whole of the sale proceeds, it shall seek the permission of the Board in this regard which shall be considered expeditiously.

Now the present appeal has been filed challenging the order dated December 30, 2011 passed by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (for short the Board) under section 11 and 11B of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (the Act) confirming the direction issued against the appellant by way of ad-interim ex-parte order dated September 21, 2011. The impugned order has been passed after giving an opportunity of hearing to the appellant and after considering the submissions made by it. The grievance of the appellant is that the submissions made by the appellant were not considered by the Board while passing the impugned order.

Decision: Appeal allowed.

Reason
Since the matter is still at the investigation stage we are not inclined to examine the merits of the issues sought to be raised by the appellant even at this stage. The Board has collected some more material on the basis of which it has come to a prima facie conclusion that the appellant is connected with one Mr. Arun Panchanaya and his company Pan Asia Advisors Limited, the alleged arrangers of the GDRs whose conduct is under investigation. The respondent Board was granted time to complete the investigation by February, 2012 which was further extended till May 31, 2012. Miscellaneous Application no.78 of 2012 in Appeal no.193 of 2011 has been filed by the Board seeking more time to complete the investigation. For the reasons stated in the application the Board has requested for time up to September, 2012.

Learned counsel for the appellant prays that in view of the fact that the Tribunal is not inclined to examine the matter on merits, its prayer for interim relief as in paragraph 8(b) and (c) of the appeal memo may be given due consideration for the reasons that the Board has sought extension of time for investigation on two occasions. The appellant has not been able to dispose of the shares in terms of the relief granted in the order dated November 21, 2011 because of certain practical difficulties. It is submitted that none of the scrips mentioned in Exhibit J to the appeal memo are subject matter of investigation by the Board. The prayer was opposed by the learned counsel for the Board and an affidavit has also been filed on behalf of the Board opposing this request.

We have perused the affidavit filed by the Board. The Board has not brought any material on the record to show that any of the scrips mentioned in Exhibit J of the appeal is subject matter of investigation by the Board. Keeping in view the fact that the Board has sought extension of time twice for completing the investigation and no material has been brought on record to show that any of the scrips mentioned in Exhibit J is subject matter of investigation by the Board, we allow the appellant to sell the securities held by it, as enlisted in Exhibit J in the memorandum of appeal. The appellant is permitted to repatriate the sale proceeds of the sale enlisted in Exhibit J in accordance with law. The Board should be kept informed about the sale of the scrips and about the repatriation of the sale proceeds.

ANIL HARISH v. SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE BOARD OF INDIA [SAT]

Appeal No. 217 of 2011 and 218 of 2011

P. K. Malhotra & S.S.N. Moorthy, Members
[Decided on 22/06/2012]

Securities and Exchange Board of India (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 1992 - Regulation 3 - Infrastructure development company - disclosure of information to stock exchange as to projects valued more than Rs.100 crores - whether this dissemination of information is price sensitive information - Held, No.

Brief facts

The two appeals are connected appeals. The Board had conducted investigations into the alleged irregularities in the affairs, trading and dealings in the shares of the company based on certain inputs received from the National Stock Exchange of India Ltd. (NSE) regarding price movement in the shares of the company during the period January 1, 2009 to December 31, 2009. The shares of the company were listed on the NSE and the Bombay Stock Exchange Ltd. (BSE). The investigation prima facie revealed that there was delay by the company in disseminating price sensitive information to the stock exchanges regarding its bagging of certain orders and the promoters and the company/related entities had benefitted by purchasing shares of the company prior to dissemination of price sensitive information to public. A show cause notice dated May 18, 2011 was issued to Mr. Anil Harish alleging that he had traded in the shares of the company on August 21, 2009 and August 25, 2009, that is, just prior to the price sensitive corporate announcement made by the company on August 28, 2009 towards its getting projects worth Rs.172 crores. It was further alleged that from the documents submitted by the company it is revealed that the Government of Arunachal Pradesh, vide its letter dated August 22, 2009, instructed the company to proceed with the work awarded to the company vide its earlier letter dated July 31, 2009. It was also observed by the Board that in the meeting held on July 31, 2009, chaired by the appellant, the board of directors had discussed this matter and therefore the appellant was privy to the information regarding award of contracts which the Board had considered to be price sensitive information. It is alleged that the appellant had traded in the scrip of the company on August 21, 2009 buying 9600 shares on BSE and 10400 shares on NSE and also on August 25, 2009 buying 9960 shares on BSE and 10040 shares on NSE. It was further observed that Mrs. Ratna Harish, Appellant in Appeal no. 218 of 2011, had also traded in the scrip of the company on August 25, 2009 i.e. just prior to the announcement in respect of getting the projects worth Rs.172 crores. The appellant filed a detailed reply dated July 4, 2011 denying the allegations. The appellants were also granted personal hearing when they filed a number of documents in support of their case. After considering the material available on record, the adjudicating officer passed the impugned orders holding the appellants guilty of violating Regulation 3 of the insider trading regulations and imposing penalties as stated above. Hence this appeal.

Decision: Appeals allowed.

Reason

In the show-cause notice issued to the appellant, it is alleged that getting projects worth Rs.172 crores, information with regard to which was disseminated to the stock exchanges, was price sensitive information. The above information was disseminated on the website of the NSE on August 25, 2009 and on the website of BSE on August 27, 2009. It is the case of the appellants that the company is in the business of projects are from Arunachal Pradesh worth Rs.79 crores only. but in respect of five different projects out of which two road to be noted that this intimation is not in respect of one project regarding bagging of new project worth Rs.172 crores. It needs the company has given intimation to the stock exchange case. In the case in hand, by its letter dated 25th August, 2009, sensitive. It will depend on the facts and circumstances of each agreement, the information need not necessarily be price stock exchanges under Regulation 36(7) of the Listing activity and would not be price sensitive. On the same analogy, when a company which is in the business of product or buy raw material, it would be a part of its normal observed that if a manufacturing company were to sell its company and every decision to buy it or to sell its investments with the case of an investment company whose business was only to make investments in the securities of other companies, it was held that earning income by buying and selling securities held in investment is the normal activity of the investment company and every decision to buy it or to sell its investments would have no effect on the price of the securities of the company. By way of an illustration the Tribunal has also observed that if a manufacturing company were to sell its product or buy raw material, it would be a part of its normal business activity and would not be price sensitive. On the same analogy, when a company which is in the business of infrastructure projects, bags an order in the normal course of its business, although it may be required to give intimation to the stock exchanges under Regulation 36(7) of the Listing agreement, the information need not necessarily be price sensitive. It will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. In the case in hand, by its letter dated 25th August, 2009, the company has given intimation to the stock exchange regarding bagging of new project worth Rs.172 crores. It needs to be noted that this intimation is not in respect of one project but in respect of five different projects out of which two road projects are from Arunachal Pradesh worth Rs.79 crores only.

We find that the intimation given to the stock exchange on August 25, 2010 was not in respect of one project but was in respect of five different projects out of which two road projects are from Arunachal Pradesh worth Rs.79 crores only. The other contracts were relating to construction of waste tank farm for Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Trombay worth Rs.15 crores, bridge work at Thane worth Rs.46 crores and bridge work at Indore worth Rs.32 crores. When a company having contracts worth Rs.1000 crores pending with it for execution bags a few new projects through the tendering process such information need not necessarily be price sensitive. It needs to be appreciated that the projects relating to Arunachal Pradesh were awarded after a long drawn up tendering process keeping in view the transparency norms to be followed by the government departments/public sector undertakings and the persons participating in the tendering process knew about the developments which took place at each and every stage of the tendering process. Opening of tenders is done in the presence of bidders where the bidders came to know the lowest bidder who is likely to get the award. Usually, there is a long time gap between the date when the lowest bidder is declared and the contract is actually awarded to the lowest bidder. During all this period, the information with regard to the lowest bidder and processing of the award of contract in his favour is known to all the participants. Under such circumstances, award of the contract to an infrastructure company cannot be said to be a price sensitive information. The adjudicating officer has not dealt at all with the issue whether award of the contract was a price sensitive information. In fact, he has proceeded on the assumption that the announcement made by the company on August 25, 2009 is a price sensitive information. In para 21 of the impugned order he has recorded that "there is no dispute over the issue that the aforesaid announcement of the company was indeed a price sensitive information”. This is incorrect in view of the fact that the appellant has throughout taken a stand that information with regard to award of contract by Arunachal Pradesh Government was not a price sensitive information. In view of our finding above, the order passed by the adjudicating officer cannot be sustained.

NIK-NISH RETAIL PVT LTD & ANR v. UNION BANK & ORS [CAL]

Dipankar Datta, J.

[Decided on 25/06/2012]

Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and
Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 - Sections 13(2) and 13(4) - Borrowers failed to repay the loan and interest after the issuance of demand notice - Paltry sum deposited - Bank enforced its security interest - whether the action of the bank tenable - Held, Yes.

Brief facts
The first petitioner in W.P. 4 of 2010 (hereafter the borrower) obtained credit facilities sanctioned by the respondent no.1 bank (hereafter the bank). Properties of the respondent nos. 3 (M/s. Bansilal Credit Pvt. Ltd.) and 4 (M/s. Akhil Orchards Pvt. Ltd.), who are the petitioners in W.P. 6 of 2010 and W.P. 3 of 2010 respectively were mortgaged by deposit of title deeds in favour of the bank. The borrower having failed and neglected to repay its debt to the bank, its cash credit account was classified as non-performing asset and a demand notice dated September 9, 2009 in terms of Section 13(2) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereafter the Act) was issued by the authorized officer of the bank. The borrower was called upon to pay a total sum of Rs. 10,28,74,036.24 within 60 days, failing which the bank would have no other option but to enforce the securities created in its favour as indicated therein.

The borrower as well as Bansilal and Akhil neither cleared their liability nor made any representation countering the demand notice; instead, the borrower approached the bank with a request to operate a current account maintained by it by retaining 20% of the deposits and permitting withdrawal of the balance as per its requirement. The bank by its letter dated September 16, 2009 permitted operation of the current account, as requested by the borrower, and informed that the retained amount would be transferred to the cash credit account. In pursuance of such arrangement, Rs.45,000/-, Rs. 20,000/- and Rs. 10,000/- were transferred to the cash credit account. No effort worth the name was, however, made by the borrower to clear its liability in full in response to the demand notice and a staggering figure in excess of Rs. 9.5 core remained unpaid. The bank having waited for 60 days to expire from date of issuance of the demand notice informed the borrower as well as Bansilal and Akhil of its intention to enforce the securities by taking possession of the same for recovery of the secured debt. Petitioners challenged this enforcement of security interest under writ petitions. Issues of fact and law in these three writ petitions and connected applications being common, they were heard together and disposed of by this common judgment and order.

Decision: Petition dismissed.

Reason
The respective petitioners never disputed that a sum in excess of Rs. 10 crores was due and payable by the borrower on the date the demand notice under Section 13(2) of the Act was received by them. The account of the borrower in respect of such debt was classified as nonperforming asset, leading to issuance of the demand notice. Reference has not been made to any statutory provision or guideline of the Reserve Bank to demonstrate that issuance of the demand notice was illegal because the jurisdictional fact for issuing it did not exist.

Now, the request of the borrower to operate the current account was accepted by the bank on terms that 20% of any amount credited in the current account would have to be retained and the same would be transferred to the cash credit account. This arrangement resulted in a paltry sum of Rs. 80,000/- being transferred to the cash credit account, leaving a sum in excess of Rs. 9.5 crore being due and payable to the bank. Question is whether the borrower by virtue of such retention and transfer was entitled to upgradation of the status of the cash credit account to non NPA category or not and further as to whether it constituted waiver of the bank to proceed with the demand notice or not.

I have no hesitation to hold that the borrower was not entitled to have the status of the account upgraded, and that there was no waiver on the part of the bank to proceed against the petitioners. The scheme of the Act envisages grant of 60 days' time to the defaulter for clearance of the liability or to raise objection. Even if the defaulting party falls short of paying Re. 1/- of the amount specified in the demand notice within the permitted period, its account would still be a non-performing asset and continue to be treated as such and the secured creditor is, in the circumstances, entitled to initiate further action in terms of provisions of the Act including taking measures to take possession of the secured assets after the period of 60 days has expired if no objection is received in the meantime or the objection to the demand notice has been overruled.

Question of waiver does not and cannot arise simply because certain payments had been credited in the cash credit account. The period of 60 days is the time limited for clearing the liability and if the liability does not stand cleared, notwithstanding part payment the secured creditor is well within its right to exercise power conferred by Section 13(4) of the Act.

Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 - Section3(1) - No penal provisions in COFEPOSA or FEMA - whether the power of... preventive detention is unconstitutional - Held, No.

Brief facts
The first petitioner Dropti Devi is the mother of second petitioner Raj Kumar Aggarwal. In respect of second petitioner an order of detention has been passed on September 23, 2009 which was challenged before the Delhi High Court. Upon their challenge had failed before the High court, the petitioners appealed to the Supreme Court of India. The central issue in this petition under Article 32 of the Constitution concerns constitutional validity of Section 3(1) of Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 (COFEPOSA) to the extent it empowers the competent authority to make an order of detention against any person with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the conservation or augmentation of foreign exchange.

Decision: Petition dismissed.

Reason
The crux of the argument advanced is this: Articles 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution do not contemplate preventive detention for an act where no punitive detention (arrest and prosecution) is even contemplated or provided under law. Such an act cannot be made the basis for a preventive detention and such an act could not be termed as prejudicial so as to invoke the power of preventive detention and, therefore, Section 3(1) of COFEPOSA to the extent noted above is unconstitutional. It is true that provisions of FERA and FEMA differ in some respects, particularly in respect of penalties. It is also true that FEMA does not provide for prosecution and punishment like Section 56 of FERA and its enforcement for default is through civil imprisonment. However, insofar as conservation and/or augmentation of foreign exchange are concerned, the restrictions in FEMA continue to be as rigorous as they were in FERA. FEMA continues with the regime of rigorous control of foreign exchange and dealing in the foreign exchange is permitted only through authorised person. While its aim is to promote the orderly development and maintenance of foreign exchange markets in India, the Government’s control in matters of foreign exchange has not been diluted. The conservation and augmentation of foreign exchange continues to be as important as it was under FERA. FEMA extends to as rigorous as they were in FERA. The restrictions on the dealings in foreign exchange continue to be as rigorous in FEMA as they were in FERA and the Government over foreign exchange continues to be as complete and full as it was in FERA. The importance of foreign exchange in the development of a country needs no emphasis. FEMA regulates the foreign exchange. The conservation and augmentation of foreign exchange continues to be its important theme. Although contravention of its provisions is not regarded as a criminal offence, yet it is an illegal activity jeopardizing the very economic fabric of the country. For violation of foreign exchange regulations, penalty can be levied and its non-compliance results in civil imprisonment of the defaulter. The whole intent and idea behind COFEPOSA is to prevent violation of foreign exchange regulations or smuggling activities which have serious and deleterious effect on the national economy. In today’s world the physical and geographical invasion may be difficult but it is easy to imperil the security of a State by disturbing its economy. The smugglers and foreign exchange manipulators by flouting the regulations and restrictions imposed by FEMA by their misdeeds and misdemeanours directly affect the national economy and thereby endanger the security of the country. In this situation, the distinction between acts where punishments are provided and the acts where arrest and prosecution are not contemplated pales into insignificance. We must remember: the person who violates foreign exchange regulations or indulges in smuggling activities succeeds in frustrating the development and growth of the country. His acts and omissions seriously affect national economy. Therefore, the relevance of provision for preventative detention of the anti-social elements indulging in smuggling and violation and manipulation of foreign exchange in COFEPOSA continues even after repeal of FERA. The menace of smuggling and foreign exchange violations has to be curbed. Notwithstanding the many disadvantages of preventive detention, particularly in a country like ours where right to personal liberty has been placed on a very high pedestal, the Constitution has adopted preventive detention to prevent the greater evil of elements imperilling the security, the safety of State and the welfare of the Nation. On the touchstone of constitutional jurisprudence, as reflected by Article 22 read with Articles 14, 19 and 21, we do not think that the impugned provision is rendered unconstitutional. There is no constitutional mandate that preventive detention cannot exist for an act where such act is not a criminal offence and does not provide for punishment. An act may not be declared as an offence under law but still for such an act, which is an illegal activity, the law can provide for preventive detention if such act is prejudicial to the state security. After all, the essential concept of preventive detention is not to punish a person for what he has done but to prevent him from doing an illegal activity prejudicial to the security of the State. Strictly speaking, preventive detention is not regulation (many people call it that way), it is something much more serious as it takes away the liberty of a person but it is accepted as a necessary evil to prevent danger to the community. The law of preventative detention arms the State with precautionary action and must be seen as such. Of course, the safeguards that the Constitution and preventive detention laws provide must be strictly insisted upon whenever the Court is called upon to examine the legality and validity of an order of preventive detention. In view of the above, we do not find any merit in challenge to the constitutional validity of impugned part of Section 3(1) of COFEPOSA.

Criminal Appeal No.883 of 2012 [Arising out of Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.2299 of 2012] and Criminal Appeal No.884 of 2012 [Arising Out of Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.3327 of 2012]

Aftab Alam & Ranjana Prakash Desai, JJ. [Decided on 03/07/2012]

Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 read with Sections 357(3), 421, 431 of the Code of Criminal Procedure - Court's power to award sentence in default to pay compensation - Accused sentenced to pay compensation and in default to undergo imprisonment by the Trial Court - High Court set aside the order - Whether correct - Held, No.

Brief facts

The case of the complainant (A.K. Vijay Kumar) is that on 10/9/2001, the accused (R. Mohan) and his wife jointly borrowed a sum of Rs. 5 lakhs from him and executed a promissory note in his favour. The accused also issued a cheque dated 14/5/2002 in favour of the complainant towards the principal amount. When the cheque was presented by the complainant with his banker for payment, it was dishonoured with bank's remark insufficient funds. The complainant, thereafter, issued a statutory notice under Section 133 of the said Act. The accused in his reply stated that he had borrowed only Rs.3, 00,000/-; that he had paid the said amount and that the cheque was issued only as a security and that it was not returned though demanded. The complainant then filed a Complaint under Section 200 of the Code. During the trial, the complainant examined himself. The accused did not examine any witness in support of his case. He denied the complaint's case. He relied on an entry from a diary maintained by him showing that as of April, 2002, only a sum of Rs.90,101/- was due and payable by him to the complainant.

The accused was tried by the Metropolitan Magistrate Court for an offence under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (for short, the said Act) and was sentenced to undergo 3 months simple imprisonment and to pay compensation of Rs.5 lakhs to the complainant under Section 357(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short, the Code), in default, to undergo two months simple imprisonment. In appeal, the Additional Fast Track District & Sessions Judge confirmed the conviction and sentence. In revision, the High Court confirmed the order of conviction and sentence of three months simple imprisonment and to pay compensation of Rs.5 lakhs, however, the High Court was of opinion that no separate sentence could be awarded in default of payment of compensation when substantive sentence of imprisonment is independently awarded. The High Court, therefore, set aside the sentence in default of payment of compensation.

Being aggrieved by the said order of conviction and sentence, the accused has approached this court by way of Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.2299 of 2012. The complainant has filed Special Leave Petition No.3327 of 2012 being aggrieved by the order of the High Court to the extent it sets aside the order of sentence in default of payment of compensation.

Decision: Appeal of the complainant allowed. Appeal of the accused dismissed.

Reason

So far as the merits of the case are concerned, we have no hesitation in recording that the High Court was perfectly justified in confirming the conviction and sentence. Ex-P1 is the promissory note in the sum of Rs.5 lakhs executed by the accused and his wife in favour of the complainant. The accused has not led any evidence to prove that the promissory note (Ex-P1) is a got up document. In his reply, he has nowhere taken such a stand. The cheque (Ex-P2) is also on record. According to the accused, he had borrowed only Rs.3 lakhs from the complainant and a blank cheque was offered as security to the complainant. It is suggested in the notice that the said cheque was misused by the complainant. This story has to be rejected in view of the promissory note (Ex-P1). The accused has relied on Xerox copy of some pages from a diary maintained by him (Ex-D1). There is an entry in Ex-D1 that as of April, 2002, an amount of Rs.90,101/- was payable by the accused to the complainant. The complainant has honestly admitted that the said acknowledgement is in his handwriting. It is contended by the accused that this disproves the complainant's case that an amount of Rs.5 lakhs was due from him to the complainant and in discharge of that debt cheque (Ex-P2) was given to him. It is not possible to accept this submission. We have carefully examined Ex-D1. Several chit transactions are noted in Ex-D1.
If merely an order, directing compensation, is passed, it would alleviate his grievance. In terms of Section 357(3) of the Code the complainant is to give him immediate relief so as to empower the court to award compensation to the victim of the offence out of the sentence of fine imposed on the accused. Sub-Section (1) of Section 357 of the Code the Court can pass order to pay a sentence in default of payment of compensation. Under Section 421 of the Code puts compensation ordered to be paid by the court on par with fine so far as mode of recovery is concerned, then there is no reason why the court cannot impose a sentence in default of payment of compensation as it can be done in case of default in payment of fine under Section 64 of the IPC. It is obvious that in view of this, in Vijayan, this court stated that the above mentioned provisions enabled the court to impose a sentence in default of payment of compensation and rejected the submission that the recourse can only be had to Section 421 of the Code for enforcing the order of compensation. Pertinently, it was made clear that observations made by this Court in Hari Singh are as important today as they were when they were made. The conclusion, therefore, is that the order to pay compensation may be enforced by awarding sentence in default.

Moreover, if the case of the accused is that as of April, 2002, only an amount of Rs.90,101/- was due from him to the complainant, in his reply dated 24/5/2002, he should have said so. This statement is conspicuously absent in the said reply. It is pertinent to note that in order to satisfy it, the High Court, while hearing the revision, directed the complainant to produce his Income-tax Returns of the relevant period. The High Court wanted to see whether the instant loan transaction is reflected in the complainant’s Income-tax Returns. The complainant produced the Income-tax Returns. The High Court found that in the Assessment Year 2002-2003 and also for the subsequent assessment years, there is an entry of a sum of Rs.5 lakhs as due from the accused to the complainant. The complainant could not have manufactured the Income-tax Returns. Thus, the promissory note (Ex-P1), the cheque (Ex-P2), reply dated 24/5/2002 sent by the accused to the complainant (Ex-P8) and the Income-tax Returns to which a reference is made by the High Court lead us to concur with the High Court that the conviction and sentence awarded to the accused is perfectly justified and no interference is called for with the same.

That takes us to the legal question whether the court can award a sentence in default of payment of compensation. Under Section 357 of the Code the Court can pass order to pay compensation. Sub-Section (1) of Section 357 of the Code empowers the court to award compensation to the victim of offences out of the sentence of fine imposed on the accused. Section 357(3) is relevant.

The idea behind directing the accused to pay compensation to the complainant is to give him immediate relief so as to alleviate his grievance. In terms of Section 357(3) compensation is awarded for the loss or injury suffered by the person due to the act of the accused for which he is sentenced. If merely an order, directing compensation, is passed, it would be totally ineffective. It could be an order without any deterrence or apprehension of immediate adverse consequences in case of its non-observance. The whole purpose of giving relief to the complainant under Section 357(3) of the Code would be frustrated if he is driven to take recourse to Section 421 of the Code. Order under Section 357(3) must have potentiality to secure its observance. Deterrence can only be infused into the order by providing for a default sentence. If Section 421 of the Code puts compensation ordered to be paid by the court on par with fine so far as mode of recovery is concerned, then there is no reason why the court cannot impose a sentence in default of payment of compensation as it can be done in case of default in payment of fine under Section 64 of the IPC. It is obvious that in view of this, in Vijayan, this court stated that the above mentioned provisions enabled the court to impose a sentence in default of payment of compensation and rejected the submission that the recourse can only be had to Section 421 of the Code for enforcing the order of compensation. Pertinently, it was made clear that observations made by this Court in Hari Singh are as important today as they were when they were made. The conclusion, therefore, is that the order to pay compensation may be enforced by awarding sentence in default.

In view of the above, we find no illegality in the order passed by the learned Magistrate and confirmed by the Sessions Court in awarding sentence in default of payment of compensation. The High Court was in error in setting aside the sentence imposed in default of payment of compensation.

TEJAS CONSTRUCTIONS & INFRASTRUCTURE PVT LTD v. MUNICIPAL COUNCIL, SENDHWA & ANR [SC]

Civil Appeal No.4195 of 2012 (Arising out of S.L.P. (C) No.16175 of 2011)

T.S. Thakur, J.

[Decided on 04/05/2012]

Tender- Execution of public work - Award of work - Challenge as to the eligibility of the successful bidder- whether tenable - Held, No.

Brief facts

The respondent No.1 Municipal Council invited tenders [NIT] from eligible contractors for the construction of an Integrated Water Supply Scheme at an estimated cost of nearly rupees twenty crores. In response to the above NIT several applications were received by respondent No.1. Out of the six bidders only four were eventually found to be eligible. These four included the appellant and respondent No.2.

The work was awarded to respondent No.2. Aggrieved by the allotment of work in favour of respondent No.2, the appellant filed a writ petition before the High Court of Madhya Pradesh challenging the eligibility of respondent No.2 and eventually to the allotment of the project work to the said respondent on two grounds that respondent No.2 had not filed the requisite certified balance-sheets for five years immediately preceding the issue of tender notice and that respondent No.2 did not have the requisite experience of executing a single integrated water supply scheme of the required value.

The High Court has, by the judgment and order under challenge, examined both the grounds urged in support of the writ petition and clearly come to the conclusion that respondent No.2 was eligible to offer a bid in as much as it had substantially complied with the requirement of filing the certified copies of audited balance-sheets for the previous period of five years immediately preceding the issue of tender notice and that it had the requisite experience of executing a single integrated water supply project of the requisite value. Appellant appealed to the Supreme Court.

Decision: Appeal dismissed.

Reason
Let us examine the challenge to the award of the contract in favour of respondent No.2 primarily based on a two-fold contention. Firstly, it was argued that respondent No.2, successful bidder, had not satisfied the requirement of filing audited balance-sheets for the five years preceding award of the contract. That the said respondent had filed certified copies of the audited balance sheets for the years 2006-07, 2007-08, 2008-09 and 2009-10, was not in dispute. What was disputed was that the balance sheet for the year 2010-11 had not been filed, instead a certificate from the Chartered Accountant concerned, relating to the period 1.4.2010 to 22.3.2011, had been produced which did not, according to the writ- petitioner before us, satisfy the requirement of the NIT. Rejecting that contention the High Court held that since the balance sheet for the year 2010-11 had not been audited the production of relevant record of the company was a substantial compliance with the stipulation contained in the NIT.

There is, in our opinion, no legal flaw in the above finding or the line of reasoning adopted by the High Court. It is true that the date of submission of tender was initially fixed upto 25th March, 2011 but the same was extended upto 7th April, 2011. That being so, 5 years immediately preceding the issue of the tender notice would have included the year 2010-2011 also for which financial year, audit of the company’s books, accounts and documents had not been completed. Such being the case, respondent No.2 could not possibly comply with the requirement of the tender notice or produce certified copy of the audited balance-sheet for the said year. All that it could possibly do was to obtain a certificate based on the relevant books, registers, records accounts etc., of the company, which certificate was indeed produced by the said respondent. The High Court has rightly observed that the appellant had not disputed the correctness of the turnover certified by the Chartered Accountant for the year 2010-2011 nor was it disputed that the same satisfied the requirement of the tender notice. In that view, therefore, there was no question of respondent No.2 being ineligible or committing a deliberate default in producing the requisite documents to establish its eligibility to offer a bid. The first limb of the challenge to the finding of the High Court on the above aspect must, therefore, fail and is accordingly rejected.

That leaves us with the second ground on which the appellant questioned the eligibility of respondent No.2 to offer a bid, namely, the non-execution by respondent No.2 of a single integrated water supply scheme for the requisite value. The High Court has, while examining the question of eligibility of respondent No.2 by reference to the execution of the single integrated water supply scheme, recorded a finding that the nature of the work executed by respondent No.2 for Upleta satisfied the requirement of the tender notice. That finding, in our view, is in no way irrational or absurd. We say so because the certificate relied upon by respondent No.2 sufficiently demonstrates that respondent No.2 had designed, and executed an integrated water supply scheme for Upleta which included raw water transmission from intake wells and transmission of treated clear water from WTP including providing, supplying and laying of pipelines, construction of E.S.R.s, Sumps, Pump houses and providing erecting pumping machinery.

It is also noteworthy that in the matter of evaluation of the bids and determination of the eligibility of the bidders Municipal Council had the advantage of the aid & advice of an empanelled consultant, a technical hand, who could well appreciate the significance of the tender condition regarding the bidder executing the single integrated water supply scheme and fulfilling that condition of tender by reference to the work undertaken by them. We, therefore, see no reason to interfere with the view taken by the High Court of the allotment of work made in favour of respondent No.2.

AL JAEEERA STEEL PRODUCTS COMPANY
SAOG v. MID INDIA POWER & STEEL LTD [SC]
Arbitration Petition No.6 of 2009
Surinder Singh Nijjar, J.
[Decided on 08/05/2012]

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Sections 11(5) and (9) - International arbitration - appointment of arbitrator by court - Disputes relating to supply of substandard material - Respondent refused to concur with the appointment of sole arbitrator - Whether arbitrator to be appointed - Held, yes.

Brief facts
The applicant entered into a Sale Purchase Contract (hereinafter referred to as the ‘Contract’) with the respondent for supply of 2000 metric ton Prime Alloy Steel Billets of specific chemical composition and physical specifications more particularly described in Article 3 of the Contract. In accordance with the terms and conditions of the Contract, the applicant had opened a Letter of Credit which was encashed by the respondent. The applicant noticed that far from complying with the specifications mentioned in the Contract, the Billets supplied by the respondents were of a very poor quality. The Billets had cracks which were visible to naked eyes.

The applicant sent an e-mail dated 31st August, 2008, informing the respondent about the non-conformity and made it clear that the same were not acceptable. On the same day, i.e., 31st August, 2008, another e-mail was sent setting out in detail the defects in the Billets.

The respondent by its letter dated 1st September, 2008 stated that the complaint has been noted and they were equally and greatly concerned. On 10th September, 2008, there was a meeting between the representatives of the applicant and the respondent. It was decided that the joint inspection would be undertaken to have the sample analysed from independent recognized laboratories in Dubai. However, the joint inspection was not arranged. The applicant issued several reminders informing the respondent that the defective Billets stood rejected, and they were requested to remove the same. All efforts and settlements having failed, the applicant invoked the arbitration clause in terms of Article 10 of the Contract, through its notice dated 17th December, 2008.

No reply was received from the respondent. The applicant, therefore, nominated the Sole Arbitrator (Hon. Mr. Justice S.N. Variava, a former Judge of this Court). Since the respondent did not reply to the aforesaid letter, the applicant was left with no alternative but to move the present petition.

Decision: Application allowed.

Reason
I have considered the submission made by the learned counsel for the parties. I am of the considered opinion that the applicant has clearly raised bonafide disputes arising out of or relative to the construction of the contract which contains the arbitration clause. Article 10 of the contract contemplates resolution of disputes between the applicant and respondent through arbitration, as per the procedure laid down under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. A bare perusal of the aforesaid clause is sufficient to indicate that it covers all disputes and differences of any kind arising between the parties. The applicant has clearly raised a number of issues, which can be summarized as follows:-

(a) Failure of the respondent to remove the defective Billets supplied by the respondent and lying at applicant’s premises
(b) Failure to remit the amount drawn by respondent against the Letter of Credit
(c) Failure to pay interests and costs incurred by the applicant
(d) Failure to pay interests and costs incurred by the applicant

In such circumstances, it cannot be said that the applicant has failed to raise bonafide dispute which cannot be referred to arbitration. As noticed earlier, the applicant through its e-mail dated 31st August, 2008 had informed the respondent about defective material. In the second e-mail on the same date, the applicant had set out the details in the Billets and informed the respondent that it has stopped destuffing of containers. The respondent was called upon to take back the rejected goods urgently and arrange to refund the amount paid at the earliest. In response to the aforesaid e-mail, the respondent on 1st September, 2008 had indicated its concern and the inconvenience caused to the applicant were deeply regretted. The applicant was also assured that the problem would be sorted out to the entire satisfaction of the applicant. Thereafter, the respondents have proposed a joint inspection, which according to the applicant was never arranged. On the other hand, the respondent claims that the applicant had rebuffed all the efforts made by the respondents to resolve the issue. The applicant was intent on claiming the refund.

In my opinion, the aforesaid facts and circumstances are sufficient to show that the bonafide disputes have arisen between the parties, which are within the scope and ambit of the arbitration clause and need to be resolved through arbitration. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances narrated above, the application is allowed. All the disputes that have arisen between the parties are hereby referred to arbitration. I hereby appoint Hon. Mr. Justice S.N. Variava, Former Judge of this Court, as the Sole Arbitrator to adjudicate upon all the disputes and differences that have arisen between the parties, on such terms and conditions as the learned Sole Arbitrator deems fit and proper.
THE EXECUTIVE ENGINEER v. VITTHAL MAHIPATI KALE [BOM]

Writ Petition No.3957 of 2001

Anoop V. Mohta, J.

[Decided on 22/06/2012]

Industrial Dispute Act - Illegal termination-labour court granted reinstatement and back wages - employee not worked for some period - whether backwages to be paid for this period also - Held, No.

Brief facts

The Petitioner Executive Engineer, Irrigation Division, Solapur has challenged the impugned order passed by the Presiding Officer, 2nd Labour Court, Solapur in Reference I.D.A. No.77 of 1993, whereby the Petitioner is directed to reinstate the Respondent with continuity of service and back wages in full w.e.f. 28th July, 1992 till the date of his reinstatement.

Decision : Petition partly allowed.

Reason

Admittedly, the Respondent has rendered services for more than three years. The completion of more than 240 days in each year as required, also supports the case of the Respondent and also impugned order passed by the Labour Court. The Respondent is a handicapped and project affected person. In the complaint, though very averments are made; i.e. he is unable to earn and run the family and also no one else working in any government department and therefore, family were suffering because of the poor condition; and he has no source of income, yet these averments have never been challenged and/or remained unchallenged, are sufficient to defend the submission made by the learned Counsel appearing for the Petitioner that there was no evidence or material placed on record that he was without job and was not earning anything during this period. These averments as are not denied, the observation that the burden lies upon the Respondent to prove the same is not correct. I am, therefore, inclined to accept the averments made that he was not earning during this period, as he was out of job during this period. It is well settled and it is necessary to consider the facts and circumstances of each case before granting back wages; a case is made out to modify the order and direct the Petitioner to pay 50% back wages. I am inclined to reduce 50% also for the reasons that admittedly, the Respondent never rendered services during this period with the Petitioner. The reduction to 50% back wages in my opinion is proper and reasonable compensation.

In the same background this session is being organized to help members cope with the daily stress in their lives. Explaining the background of emergence of Yoga Science CS Sudhir Jain said that Yoga is a group of ancient practices that originated in India in 5000 BC. The practice of asanas or postures is the most common form of yoga. At the very basic level, yoga links body movement with the breath as we flow from one posture to another. Yoga’s benefits affect each person in a different way. All the systems in the body - from the lymphatic to the digestive to the cardiovascular - benefit from yoga. Yoga benefits every aspect of our bodies, inside and out. On the inside, yoga enables relaxation. Many practitioners find that yoga helps them to focus and feel relaxed in both work and play. Scientists studied both long-time yogis and beginners; they found that the stress hormone had decreased, even after just one session of yoga. Yoga has also been found to increase alpha and theta waves in the brain, meaning that yoga can relax the brain and increase access to the subconscious and emotions. Explaining the effects of Yoga on the outside he said since yoga balances the metabolism and provides exercise, many find yoga brings their body into balance. Physical yoga strengthens and tones the muscles while improving balance and posture. And yoga is a great way to cross-train for other sports; it can ease strains from injuries and increase strength and flexibility. When all the body’s systems are balanced, yoga practitioners feel healthier and find they want to make other healthy choices in their life. While yoga classes can be physically oriented, toning and strengthening the body; the essence of Yoga is union, union of the mind, body and soul. Yoga is about the balance and harmony of our whole being. He practically demonstrated certain yoga postures and ended his discussion by saying that Yoga is among the oldest systems of health practiced today and has been proved to reduce stress, lower blood pressure, increase energy, strength and endurance, peace of mind and so much more.

Interaction Meeting on Stamp Duty Payment on Issue of Securities & Related Issues

On 23.6.2012 the Chapter organized an Interaction Meeting on Stamp Duty Payment on Issue of Securities & Related Issues at GIA Hall, Gurgaon. This meeting was addressed by Ravinder Kumar, SDM (Revenue) Govt. of NCT of Delhi. Chairman CS Punit Handa in his welcome address said that the issue of stamp duty payment has gained prominence in the recent days and in the same regard this interaction meeting has been organized so that CS Members in practice as well as in employment can have clarity of the issue with Govt. representative. Ravinder Kumar explaining the concept informed that the Constitution of India lays down the provisions for levying taxes. This includes tax in the form of stamps on instruments recording certain transactions. The Stamp Act is a fiscal statute dealing with tax on transactions and the power to levy stamp duty is divided between the Union and the State. The Parliament has the power to levy stamp duty on the instruments specified in various articles. The payment of proper stamp duty on instruments bestows legality on them. Such instruments get evidentiary value and are admitted as evidence in Courts. A stamped document is considered more authentic and reliable than an unstamped document. The purpose of enacting Stamps Act is to raise revenue for the local governments and payment of stamp duty imparts legality to the document and this can be submitted as an authentic document in courts. Payment of Stamp Duty is similar to sales tax (VAT) and income tax collected by the Government. Stamp Duty is payable under section 3 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. Rates of Stamp Duty payable for different types of documents are as per Schedule I. Stamp Duty must be paid in full and on time. If there is a delay in payment of stamp duty, it attracts penalty. The payment of stamp duty is determined on document as per the rates provided in the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 or the State Stamp Act, as the case may be. Under section 31 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, the executor can also apply to the Collector of Stamps after payment of the requisite fee, for the purpose of obtaining the opinion of the Collector of Stamps as to the amount of stamp duty chargeable on the instrument. Finally explaining the consequences for not paying the prescribed stamp duty he said that if a document is not duly stamped it cannot be admitted as evidence. At the end discussion on practical issues were taken up with the members.

Two Days Residential Programme on Revised Schedule VI and Transfer Pricing

On 30.6.2012 and 1.7.2012 the ICSI-CCGRT conducted two days residential programme on Revised Schedule VI and Transfer Pricing at its premises in CBD Belapur. The programme was well attended by professionals, CS students and other Finance professionals. Jayesh Thakur, Associate Director, Tax & Regulatory Services, Pricewaterhouse Coopers, P R Barpande, Former Partner, Deloitte, Haskins & Sells, Jinesh Bhagdev, Proprietor, Jinesh R Bhagdev & Co, Vishwanath Kane, Senior Manager, Transfer Pricing, Deloitte, Haskins & Sells, Yashodhan Pradhan, Senior Manager, Transfer Pricing, Vaishali Mane, Client Service Director and Pranajib Basu, Senior Manager, Grant Thornton India LLP addressed the participants.

On the 1st day, Jayesh Thakur conducted a session on the Revised Schedule VI. He explained each and every aspect of the new schedule by quoting examples from the published balance sheets of few blue chip companies. He highlighted the point that the effective date for applicability of revised schedule VI is not April 1, 2011 but April 1, 2010 as the comparative figures are to be given. He further stated that all the companies whose accounting year begins after April 1, 2011 shall be eligible for revised schedule VI subject to exceptions. E.g. If a company’s accounting year ends on June 2011 then the revised schedule VI will be applicable to it for accounting year July 1, 2011 to June 30, 2012. Clarifying on the operating cycle Thakur said that if operating cycle is not specified then it has to be assumed as 12 months. There were other components of revised schedule VI that were also discussed.

Jinesh R Bhagdev gave an overview of Transfer Pricing. He discussed the objectives and foundation of transfer pricing. The main objective of transfer pricing is to save the tax base and avoid double taxation. The foundation of transfer pricing is embedded in the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement - Article 9 of the OECD Model Convention. The subject of transfer pricing has become a buzz in current scenario due to the increasing penetration of Indian business abroad. Jinesh said that Sections 92 to 92F of the Income Tax Act 1961 deal with the Transfer Pricing Provisions in India.

On the second day, Vishwanath Kane discussed the Transfer Pricing methods. He gave an overview of the various types of Transfer pricing methods and explained the criteria for selection of appropriate methods. The taxpayer has the discretion to choose the most appropriate method. However, the most preferred method is the Comparable Uncontrolled Method and the last preferred are the profit split and transactional net margin method.

Kane then gave an overview of Landmark judgements on Transfer Pricing with relation to domestic transfer pricing. He explained the case of Serdia Pharmaceuticals India Pvt. Ltd., relating to the determination of most appropriate method. The ruling in this case highlights the formulation of the transfer pricing policy by the pharma companies that import APIs from their Associated Enterprises (AEs). It also provides guidance on several important aspects of transfer pricing jurisprudence viz. Preference of CUP over TNMM, Reliability of customs valuation, Economic importance of an intangible like patent and Requirement to select the most appropriate method under the relevant rules. The next case was of Clear Plus India Pvt Ltd. (Delhi Tribunal). The crux of this ruling was that the relevant market (to test a transaction under CUP) is the market where the goods are sold and not the place of origin of goods. It also stressed that contemporaneous documentation needs to be maintained to support CUP analysis; minor aberrations in the comparability on the application of CUP does not justify its complete rejection and CUP method, being a direct method, provides the most reliable measure of arm’s length price and should be preferred over any other method when it can be reliably applied.

The case of Arcent Technologies (Holding) Limited (Delhi Tribunal) was ruled in favour of taxpayer. The ruling provides guidance in respect of payments received as mere reimbursements from related parties. In the absence of any element of income, such payments do not warrant any mark-up under the arm’s length principle though the same needs to be supported by adequate evidences. In case of TNT India Pvt. Ltd., the tribunal ruled in favour of the revenue w.r.t. the use of single year data. It was adjudged that prior year data is relevant only if assessee proves that pricing pattern has been influenced by market conditions/business cycle.

Arms Length Price. Jinesh also explained the Functional, Assets & Risk Analysis (FAR). He pointed out that FAR analysis is the heart of transfer pricing since one is required to select the comparable companies on the basis of FAR analysis.

P R Barpande made an elaborate presentation on how to prepare a Balance Sheet under Revised Schedule VI by giving practical examples and using questionnaires. He elucidated about each component of revised schedule VI and its posting as per accounting standards. He also discussed the intricacies involved in forensic analysis of balance sheets, the key changes in Balance Sheet, Profit & Loss account & Cash Flow Statement and the disclosures required or not required to be made therein.

On the second day, Vishwanath Kane discussed the Transfer Pricing methods. He gave an overview of the various types of Transfer pricing methods and explained the criteria for selection of appropriate methods. The taxpayer has the discretion to choose the most appropriate method. However, the most preferred method is the Comparable Uncontrolled Method and the last preferred are the profit split and transactional net margin method.

product cycle of earlier years. The taxpayer has failed to provide cogent and reasonable reasons for justification of use of multiple year data. The ITAT accepted the taxpayer's fact that at the time of TP study, it would not have the data relating to relevant year, but also observed that the data available for the TP study at the time of filing the income tax returns has to be adopted. Inclusion of non-operating income and of non-operating expenses would definitely affect the net margin of the operating profits of comparable companies and hence only income and expenses derived from the operation of the activity of the taxpayer has to be considered.

Kane then discussed international cases on Transfer Pricing, the first one being the landmark case of Glaxo Smithkline Holdings (Americas) Inc. v. IRS. He also discussed the case of Veritas Software Corporation v. Commissioner. In this case, Veritas International Ltd was the Irish subsidiary of Veritas Software Corporation (Veritas US); Veritas Ireland and Veritas US entered into a Cost Sharing Agreement (CSA); Veritas US transferred the Intangibles and Intellectual Property (IP) owned by it to Veritas Ireland in exchange for royalties; Veritas US applied Comparable Uncontrolled Transactions (CUT) Method as the most appropriate method for valuing the transaction; It determined the arm's length royalties paid between unrelated parties in similar situations. In this case the Tax Court held that The IRS’s valuation method inappropriately aggregated the transferred property; IRS’s approach of assuming a perpetual life for short lived intangibles was not appropriate; Some of the intangibles transferred by Veritas US had no value outside the US; IRS included the value of technology subsequently developed under the CSA rather than confining to pre-existing technology; The approach adopted by Veritas US was appropriate after making certain adjustments to CUT analysis to enhance reliability. In this case even though the IRS did not appeal against the court's ruling it disagreed with it. It maintained that it will continue to apply an aggregate valuation to interrelated transaction related to CSA.

Yashodhan Pradhan explained determination of Arms Length Price. He elucidated the concept of Arms length Price to mean “The price between unrelated parties in uncontrolled conditions”. He described the process of transfer pricing to involve Analysis of Functions, Assets and Risk, Determination of tested party, Determination of most appropriate method, Determination of Profit Level Indicator, Search for the comparable data and comparability analysis and Determination of arm’s length price. He then explained in detail the methods of determining the Arms length Price. The Comparable Uncontrolled Method (CUP) seeks to determine the arms’ length price by comparing the controlled transaction with the uncontrolled transaction. Resale Price Method is used in case of purchase of goods or services from related parties for resale to unrelated parties without substantial value addition. Cost plus method is used in cases involving manufacture, assembly or production of tangible products or services that are sold/provided to related parties.

Transactional Net Margin Method (TNMM) examines operating profit from transactions as a percentage of appropriate base (can use different bases i.e. costs, turnover etc.) in respect of similar parties. Pradhan then explained how to determine the most appropriate method with the help of a case study.

Vaishali Mane and Pranajib Basu conducted a session on Transfer Pricing Reports and Audit Procedures. Vaishali discussed the audit procedures. She said that TP documentation requirement is applicable when international transactions exceeds INR 1 Crore. Domestic Transfer Pricing is applicable, if aggregate value of such transactions exceeds INR 5 Crores. Threshold for TP Audit is INR 15 Crores. Section 92D of Income Tax Act deals with Transfer Pricing documentation. Accordingly, every person who enters into any international transaction has to maintain records as prescribed and also furnish a report from Chartered Accountant in Form 3CEB, to be filed along with Return of Income. This information helps the assessing officer get an overview of international transaction. Rules 10A to 10E of the Income Tax Rules deal with transfer pricing. It requires documents in relation to an international transaction to be kept and maintained by every person. List of documents prescribed in Rule 10D are to be kept & maintained for 9 years and furnished within 30/60 days of Revenue’s requisitioning. She further explained that transfer pricing documentation is divided as entity related, price related and transaction related. She then discussed about the primary and supporting records required to be maintained as per Rule 10D(3) and Section 92D of the Income Tax Act.

Mane then gave a brief overview of the penalties for violation of transfer pricing provisions. The penalties prescribed depend on the nature and gravity of default. She threw light on the fact that India has moved up in the race for being the most aggressive tax authority w.r.t Transfer Pricing (now at the 6th position). She also said that 7 rounds of TP audits have been completed & approximately Rs. 95,000 crores adjustments have been made till date. Speaking on litigation issue, she pointed out that more emphasis should be laid on comparables than on fundamentals of TP. She also said that a large number of cases are pending at appellate levels. Documentation should be prepared taking utmost care & diligence as it is the ultimate speaking record. She cautioned that “Revenue will never understand business as well as you do and for the purposes of transfer Pricing if you fail to explain your business and pricing in a lucid manner you will encounter ongoing expensive difficulties”. The programme was very interactive. All the queries of the participants were well addressed by the speakers.

Programme on Compliance of Listing Agreement, Postal Ballot through e-voting & Prevention of Insider Trading

On 14.07.2012, ICSI-CCGRT organized a programme on ‘Compliance of Listing Agreement, Postal Ballot through e-voting & Prevention of Insider Trading’ at its premises in Navi Mumbai. The speakers for the programme were Shailashri Bhaskar, Practising Company Secretary, Mumbai & Former DGM, SEBI, Nitin Ambure, Vice President, National Securities Depository Ltd., Mumbai and R Balakrishnan, Company Secretary, Pune.

Shailashri Bhaskar initiated the discussions on ‘Compliance of Listing Agreement’ by explaining that listing compliances can be basically divided into two categories viz. periodic (to be complied on due dates irrespective of occurrence of any event) and event based (to be complied only if the event occurs) compliances. She then discussed the event based compliances under clauses 5A (Unclaimed shares), 16 (Closure of transfer books), 19 (Intimation of Board Meeting), 20 & 22 (Outcome of Board Meeting), 20A (Dividend on per Share Basis), 31 (Copies of Annual Reports, Notices, resolutions etc. to the Stock Exchanges), 35A (Outcome of Voting Results), 36 (Intimation of Events) and 53 (Agreement with Media Companies). Important Periodic Compliances include Clauses 35 (Shareholding Pattern), 38 (Listing Fees), 40A (Minimum Level of Public Shareholding), 41 (Financial Results), 43 (Variations), 47 (Compliance Officer), 49 (Corporate Governance), 52 (CFDS), 54 (Functional website) etc. Besides, listed companies also need to submit certificate on a quarterly basis to the exchanges regarding Reconciliation of its Share Capital and also... comply with certain other provisions under the Takeover & Insider Trading Regulations.

Nitin Ambure made an elaborate presentation on ‘Postal ballot through e-voting’. He explained e-voting to mean voting through an electronic system where shareholders can cast their vote on resolutions of companies as per extant rules and regulations without having the necessity of sending their votes through post. The Legal framework for postal ballot through e-voting is contained in Section 192A of Companies (Amendment) Act, 2000 and the Companies (Passing of the Resolution by Postal Ballot) Rules, 2011. In line with the same and with an intent to provide wider participation of shareholders, SEBI, at its Board Meeting held on June 26, 2012 decided to make it mandatory for Top 500 listed companies at BSE and NSE, based on market capitalization, to provide for e-voting facilities in respect of those businesses to be transacted through postal ballot. For providing a secured e-voting platform, listed companies may choose any one of the agencies which has obtained the certificate from Standardization Testing and Quality Certification (STQC) Directorate, Department of Information Technology, Ministry of Communications & IT, Government of India, New Delhi. Currently, NSDL and CDSL have obtained such certification. The procedure to be followed by the company for conducting e-voting should be as recommended by the agency and indicated in the Notice accompanying the resolution. Nitin Ambure then gave a demo on the working of e-voting platform/system of NSDL w.r.t. RTA/company, Shareholder (Voter) & Scrutiniser.

R Balakrishnan threw light on the intricacies of Insider Trading and its prevention from practical point of view. He informed that by making use of the unpublished price sensitive information, the privileged ones in the corporates derive benefit for themselves or their near and dear ones. Such an act is termed as “Insider Trading” and this could be done by the individuals who are connected with the organization in one way or the other. Insider trading is illegal as per the prevailing laws not only in India but also in many countries.

Apart from being illegal, insider trading is unethical and not a good corporate governance practice. In the market place, the investor’s confidence is lost due to insider trading and the stock market goes haywire with such insider trading activity. The market regulator in India - i.e. SEBI has brought out the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Prohibition of Insider Trading) Regulations, 1992. Insider Trading is also punishable under the SEBI Act. R Balakrishnan then discussed the provisions of the insider trading regulations with special reference to various case laws.

Background
Business decisions that result in superior profits in the short term may not necessarily be sustainable business proposition in the long run. There are several moral traps that an executive experiences in today’s dynamic business environment like:

» Blowing the whistle on workplace misconduct
» Employee rewards for succeeding at any cost
» Tinkering with corporate disclosures
» Conflict of interest situations

Every moment, the world is in transition, so the change is a constant and dynamic process. What is more important in today’s context is the speed of change in all spheres of human endeavour. Change becomes value driven only when the determination to bring change is defined and well versed. Change cannot result in value added proposition unless it is driven in a right perspective.

The vision to bring change commences with a tiny step and such vision is called “to transform”. The transformation - a radical change that catapults one into another dimension of existence, possibly the one that is not feasible without being transformed. Every paradigm needs a defined vision to stir the imagination and creativity with motivation and determination leading to transformation.

Vision 2020 in its broader perspective is metamorphic in nature requiring to transform from the nascent stage to a level where the whole structure is redefined not only in confirmation to the present but in conformation to future. Vision 2020 is to lay foundation for proactive changes igniting minds to create niche.

One may find the similar connotations for the terms ‘transform’ and ‘conform’ when viewed and applied in the context of corporate environment, which has seen an array of reforms in terms of enactment of new legislations, mobilisation of capital market, inflow of foreign capital, growth in number of MNCs etc. and has opened new opportunities for professionals like Company Secretaries.

These opportunities could be realised into value added propositions only when there is transformation and conformation to the expectations of change that would lead to performance enactment for a sustainable competitive advantage. It is not a one time exercise. As the change is constant and dynamic, the efforts should also be proportionately constant and dynamic.

It is in this backdrop, the theme of the 40th National Convention has been devised as VISION 2020 - TRANSFORM, CONFORM AND PERFORM to be deliberated in the following four technical sessions:

1. Economic Volatility and Risk Management
2. CS - Whistle Blower or Conscience Keeper
4. Challenges and Opportunities for SME Sector

First Technical Session:
Economic Volatility and Risk Management

Volatility is variability. Over the past few years, the World economy has become much more volatile; that is, the swings from boom to bust have been greatly increased. Despite several growth drivers like improved technology, better monetary policy; researchers have found little consensus on why such volatility exists despite such favorable initiatives. In the context of recent trend, such economic volatility in India can be attributed to the rupee depreciation and the downgrade of the Sovereign rating.
reasoning out the ways to mitigate the risk inherent in volatile economic conditions.

Second Technical Session: Panel Discussion
CS - Whistle Blower or Conscience Keeper

Whistle Blower or Conscience Keeper! Though, prima facie both the words may sound synonymous, there is a thin line of demarcation between the two. Whistle blowing is about speaking out on malpractice, misconduct, corruption, or mismanagement; whereas, conscience is an inner voice viewed as acting as a guide to the righteous behaviour.

The line of demarcation is that while whistle blowing pertains to the situation after the wrong is done or about to be done the conscience of a person stops one from committing the wrong. These are two sides of the boat, where keeping inside the boat is as important as keeping outside.

Economic volatility, global competition, growing risk appetite demands the governance professionals, the Company Secretaries to priority their role as Conscience Keeper and Whistle Blower.

In this backdrop, the second technical session is devised to deliberate as to how the Company Secretaries should priorities their role as conscience keeper and Whistle Blower.

In recent years, an increasing amount of attention has been devoted to the connection between financial markets and economic development. One of the most enduring debate is "whether financial development adds to economic growth or increased economic activities results in financial development."

Indian economy has grown at an unprecedented pace over a period of time attracting foreign investment, expansion of capital market, greater interface of domestic businesses with global counterparts. This growth is attributed to open market policies enabling regulatory environment and infrastructure development.

Financial sector reforms being one of the factors for driving growth of an economy, this technical session has been devised to deliberate on the measures that have been taken by the Government to improve the growth of the economy via financial markets.

Fourth Technical Session - Panel Discussion
Challenges and Opportunities for SME Sector

SMEs are universally acknowledged as major contributors of economic growth process and even larger contributors to exports and employment. In the Indian context, the critical role and place of the SME sector cannot be over-emphasized in employment generation, exports and inclusive growth.

SME sector is facing new challenges in the wake of increasing globalization and there is a pressing need for this sector to reinvent itself by enhancing its efficiency and productivity in order to remain competitive, both domestically as well as internationally. It is in that context the Government has accorded priority to this sector in order to achieve balanced, sustainable and more equitable economic growth.

The next level of growth in the Indian economy will have to necessarily come from the SME sector. In order to transform India into a major manufacturing hub, the Indian SMEs must embrace change so that they can find a place for themselves in the global competitive environment.

This technical session has been structured to deliberate upon the challenges of SME sector, government initiatives and the role of professionals to provide the SMEs an enabling environment for a visible and sustained growth.

CORPORATE SECRETARIES INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION (CSIA) STATES ITS CASE TO THE WORLD TRADE ORGANISATION (WTO) FOR INCLUSION OF US$36 BILLION BUSINESS SECTOR IN WTO TRADE IN SERVICES LISTINGS

CSIA today reported that a delegation of its members made a presentation before the Committee on Specific Commitments of the World Trade Organization (WTO) on June 25, 2012 in Geneva, Switzerland to include a new listing in the Trade in Services business classification listings by the name of ‘CORPORATE GOVERNANCE, COMPLIANCE AND SECRETARIAL ADVISORY SERVICES’. CSIA claims this sector is worth US$36 billion annually.

CSIA was invited to make a presentation before the Committee on Specific Commitments of WTO. Accordingly a delegation of CSIA representatives went to Geneva for the presentation.

The CSIA delegation consisted of Mr. Anil Murarka, the then President of CSIA and Past President of the Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI); Mr. Nesar Ahmad, President of ICSI; Mrs. April Chan, Past President of both CSIA and The Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries; Mr. Phillip Baldwin, Chief Executive of The Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries; Ms. Edith Shih, President of The Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries and; Mr. Russell Morrice, Head of Secretariat and Clerk to Council of The Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators (UK).

"This was truly a global initiative by a global organisation that we believe will benefit world trade," said Mr. Anil Murarka, President of CSIA."While the delegation was limited to those members from Hong Kong, the United Kingdom and India we were representing all 18 national bodies of corporate secretaries and governance professionals that make up the membership of CSIA. All of them played a part by lobbying their national governments prior to the presentation."

He added "The challenge now is to keep the momentum going. CSIA is adding members all the time and each new member adds their voice and weight to the inclusion of this US$36 billion business sector which can grow even faster if it has official recognition by the WTO. The world needs more trade and CSIA is of the opinion that official recognition of corporate governance, compliance and secretarial advisory services by the WTO will stimulate growth by more than US$1.5 billion per annum as well as help improve international corporate governance standards."

The creation of this new classification was one of the CSIA initiatives the organisation has been pursuing since its launch in March 2010. The proposed new service head would include the following sub-heads:

- Corporate Governance Services
- Assimilation of Core Values, Ethics and Integrity
Press Release

Corporate Secretarial Services
• Secretarial Audit and Compliance Audit Services
• Certification Services
• Corporate Advisory Services

"It was a big day for CSIA. We are a young organisation but growing almost daily in terms of members," Mr. Murarka continued, "Corporate secretaries and governance professionals are distinct professionals who take the lead on corporate governance issues within their own organisations. The recognition of a new sectoral heading will provide such formal recognition of this profession"

The inclusion of new service head will facilitate the rendering of Services by the professionals under Mode 3 & Mode 4 of the Supply of the services specified under the GATS.

The CSIA position is that during the last decade the concept of corporate governance has significantly evolved around the world and therefore there is a need to establish a separate identity for the corporate governance services at a global level by seeking a separate heading in the WTO service sectoral classification list which was created way back in 1991 when the concept of corporate governance was not much prevalent as in the present scenario.

At the meeting of WTO’s Committee on Specific Commitments encouraging remarks were made to the CSIA proposal by the Country representatives to WTO from China, Hong Kong, India, Nigeria, Malaysia and Zimbabwe.

At a separate meeting, South Africa & Indonesia representatives also made encouraging remarks to the CSIA proposal.

The Chairman of WTO’s Committee on Specific Commitments concluded CSIA item by noting the interest and supporting remarks of country representatives and agreeing that the proposal may be an item for further discussion.
