It is a matter of great pride that India is the first country to have mandated Secretarial Standards for infusing good corporate governance. Section 118(10) of Companies Act, 2013 mandates that every company shall observe Secretarial Standards with respect to Board Meetings and General Meetings specified by the ICSI and approved as such by the Central Government. These Standards intend to integrate, consolidate, harmonise, standardise and establish sound corporate governance principles and uniformity of secretarial practices.

Secretarial Standards on Meetings of Board of Directors (SS-1) and General Meetings (SS-2) have become mandatory from July 1, 2015. To discuss these Standards threadbare and to deliberate on the practical issues and implementation aspects, the Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) is organizing this National Seminar on Secretarial Standards at Delhi.

Members can discuss their concerns/ queries with the expert faculty. Members are requested to enrol well in advance to make necessary arrangements.
