Theme: The Economic Programmes and the Tasks ahead of Corporate Sector

March 5-6, 1977, Hotel Ashoka, Bangalore

Inaugurated by Justice V. R. Krishna Iyer, Hon'ble Judge, Supreme Court of India

“...He is the sentinel on the qui vive, for he is the watch dog of the community's interest against company director's malpractices. At the same time, he brings into company management new professional capabilities, thus helping to improve the fulfilment of the objectives of the company.... he is at once a member of a professional cadre with its code of conduct and an officer playing a strategic role not merely in complying with the Companies Act and other enactments, but in maximising the production and organising the institution on a new orientation. In short, he is the quiet strategist who can lead the corporate sector to fulfill the new economic programmes that the country expects of the corporate sector...”
