

Sub: ICSI International ADR Centre Publication – Available for Sale

Dear Professionals,

To promote amicable dispute resolutions, particularly in commercial contracts, the Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) launched the ICSI International ADR Centre in Noida, Uttar Pradesh, last year. This centre facilitates Arbitration and Mediation at both National and International levels.

Inaugurated by Justice P. Sathasivam, former Chief Justice of India, the ICSI International ADR Centre is a state-of-the-art facility. Located in Delhi NCR, Noida, it boasts world-class infrastructure, advanced video conferencing facilities, and top-notch administrative support.

The primary objective of the ICSI International ADR Centre is to promote Alternate Dispute Resolution (ADR) methods, including Arbitration and Mediation. The centre aims to assist and educate individuals, corporations, firms, institutions, and establishments, both local and international, in resolving disputes efficiently.

ICSI International ADR Centre has published a publication, “Handbook on Mediation”, to help everyone in understanding the key concepts of Mediation and how the process works. This handbook would help readers understand the basic principles of Mediation. While there are many resources available on the subject, this book focuses on basic as well as most important concepts. The aim is to provide readers with clear and simple guidance, without overwhelming them with too much information.

The book is now available on sale, the details to procure the same are shared below:
