LESSON 3

THE OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY, HEALTH AND WORKING CONDITIONS CODE, 2020

INTRODUCTION

The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, 2020, is enacted to consolidate and simplify the existing complex web of labour laws. It replaces 13 Central Labour laws by a single comprehensive legislation, thereby reducing multiplicity and bringing uniformity across industries and States/ UTs. The Code was enacted as a part of the broader labour laws reforms to improve transparency, enhance worker welfare, and promote ease of doing business in India.

The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions (OSHWC) Code, 2019 which was introduced in Lok Sabha on 23rd July, 2019 by the Ministry of Labour & Employment after inter-ministerial consultations and suggestions received from the public/stakeholders, incorporates the essential features of the 13 enactments relating to Factories, Dock Workers, Building and other Construction Workers, Plantation Labour, Contract Labour, Inter-State Migrant Workers, Working Journalists and other News Paper Employees, Motor Transport Workers, Sales Promotion Employees, Beedi and Cigar Workers, Cine Workers and Cinema Theatre Workers.

The OSHWC Code intends to simplify, rationalise and amalgamate the provisions of the following Labour Laws:

1. The Factories Act, 1948;
2. The Plantations Labour Act, 1951;
3. The Mines Act, 1952;
4. The Working Journalists and other Newspaper Employees (Conditions of Service) and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1955;
5. The Working Journalists (Fixation of Rates of Wages) Act, 1958;
6. The Motor Transport Workers Act, 1961;
7. The Beedi and Cigar Workers (Conditions of Employment) Act, 1966;
8. The Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970;
9. The Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976;
10. The Inter-State Migrant Workmen (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1979;
11. The Cine-Workers and Cinema Theatre Workers (Regulation of Employment) Act, 1981;
12. The Dock Workers (Safety, Health and Welfare) Act, 1986;
13. The Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996.

The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions (OSHWC) Code, 2019 received Presidential assent on September 28, 2020, and was published in the e-Gazette on September 29, 2020. OSHWC Code notified by Central Government on 21st November 2025.

The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, 2020 balances the twin objectives of safeguarding worker rights and safe working conditions, and creating a business-friendly regulatory environment spur economic growth and employment thereby, making India's labour market more efficient, fair, and future-ready. By streamlining compliance through measures such as single registration, all-India licences, electronic filings, and time-bound approvals. Additionally, the code reduces the number of rules, returns among other subjects to reduce procedural hurdles and encourage investments.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THE CODE

Unified Registration: A uniform threshold of 10 employees is set for electronic registration. One registration for an establishment has been envisaged in place of 6 registrations in the Acts. This will create a centralised database and promote ease of doing business.

Extension to Hazardous Work: The Government can extend the Code's provisions to any establishment, even with one employee, engaged in hazardous or life-threatening occupations.

Simplified Compliance: Introduces one license, one registration, one return framework for the establishments, reducing redundancy and compliance burden.

Wider Definition of Migrant Workers: The definition of inter-state migrant workers (ISMW) now covers workers employed directly, through contractors, or migrate on their own. Establishments must declare the number of ISMW. Benefits include: a lump-sum annual travel allowance to native place once in 12 months and portability of public distribution system and social security benefits across states along with access to a toll-free helpline.

Health and Formalization: Free annual health check-ups for employees.

Formalization via appointment letters: Appointment letters specifying job details, wages, and social security will be given to enhance transparency and accountability.

Women's Employment: Women can work in all types of establishments and during night hours (before 6AM, beyond 7PM) with consent and safety measures, fostering equality and inclusion.

Expanded Media Worker Definition: "Working journalists" and "cine workers" now include employees in electronic media and all forms of audio-visual production.

National Database for Unorganised Workers: A national database to be developed for unorganized workers including migrants to help migrant workers get jobs, map their skills and provide other social security benefits.

Victim Compensation: Courts can direct at least 50% of fines imposed on offenders to be paid as compensation to victims or their legal heirs in case of injury or death.

Contract Labour Reform: Applicability threshold has been raised from 20 to 50 contract workers. All India license valid for 5 years against work-order based license to be provided to the contractor. For contract labour, beedi and cigar manufacturing and factory: a common license is envisaged and provision of deemed license after expiry of prescribe period is introduced. Moreover, the license shall be auto-generated. Provision of contract labour board has been done away with and provision for appointment of designated authority to advise matters on core and non-core activities is introduced.

Safety Committees: Establishments with 500 or more workers will form safety committees with employer-worker representation, enhancing workplace safety and shared accountability.

National Occupational Safety & Health Advisory Board: A single tripartite advisory board replaces six earlier boards to set national safety and health standards across sectors, ensuring uniformity and quality.

Decriminalisation & Compounding of Offences: Offences punishable by fine only to be compounded by paying 50% of the maximum fine; those involving imprisonment or fine or both by 75%. Criminal penalties (imprisonment) replaced by civil penalties like monetary fines, promoting compliance over punishment.

Revised Factory Thresholds: Applicability increased from 10 to 20 workers (with power) and 20 to 40 workers (without power), reducing compliance burden for small units.

Social Security Fund: Establishes a fund for unorganised workers, financed through penalties and compounding fees, for their welfare and benefit delivery.

Contract Labour- Welfare & Wages: Principal employers to provide welfare facilities like health and safety measures to contract workers. If the contractor fails to pay wages, the principal employer has to pay unpaid wages to the contract labour.

Working Hours & Overtime: Normal working hours capped at 8 hours/day and 48 hours/week. Overtime allowed only with worker consent and paid at twice the regular rate.

Inspector-cum-Facilitator System: Inspectors will now act as facilitators with an objective to help employers comply with law, rules and regulations rather than merely policing them.

LESSON 4

THE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS CODE, 2020

INTRODUCTION

The success of workers and industries are deeply connected; one cannot thrive without the other. When industries grow, they create stable jobs, fair wages, and social security for workers. Likewise, a motivated and secure workforce drives productivity and innovation, ensuring the industry's long-term survival. National Commission on Labour highlighted a need to rationalise and simplify the exiting labour laws with an aim to protect interests of the workers.

The Industrial Relations Code, 2020 is a landmark consolidation of India's labour laws, merging and repealing three major statutes namely, the Trade Unions Act, 1926, the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946, and the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 into a single, streamlined framework. Historically, these laws were enacted in different eras and addressed specific industrial concerns, resulting over time in fragmentation, inconsistent procedures, and delays in dispute resolution. To modernise and rationalise this framework, the Industrial Relations Code Bill, 2019 was introduced in the Lok Sabha and subsequently referred to the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Labour, which submitted a detailed report recommending clearer definitions, stronger worker safeguards, and simplified compliance requirements. Incorporating several of these recommendations, the revised Code was passed by the Parliament in September 2020 and received the assent of the President of India on 28th September 2020. However, the Central Government has notified the Code for enforcement with effect from 21st November 2025, bringing its provisions formally into operation across the country.

The Industrial Relations Code, 2020 is designed to consolidate & amend the laws regarding trade Unions, retrenchment, industrial disputes and simplifying compliance by providing uniform definitions. The Code seeks to promote industrial harmony by balancing worker protection with business flexibility and facilitating ease of Doing Business.

The Code also creates a balanced and progressive framework that benefits workers, employers, and the economy alike. It is pro-labour, ensuring fair representation, job security, and quicker dispute resolution. At the same time, it is pro-employment, simplifying compliance and promoting flexible hiring. With pro-women measures encouraging equal representation and working flexibility, it fosters inclusive participation. Overall, the Code is pro-growth, by focusing on uniform, faster, and efficient system.

INDUSTRIAL LAWS ARE SOCIO-ECONOMIC JUSTICE ORIENTED

The concept of social justice is so innate and demonstrated in the industrial laws of our country. As proclaimed in the Preamble of the Constitution and the Directive Principles of State Policy, the industrial jurisprudence of the Country is founded on the basic idea of socio-economic equality and its aim is to assist the removal of socio-economic disparities and inequalities. The laws particularly, the industrial laws of the Country revolve on this basic philosophy of the Constitution. The concept of social justice is though not limited to any particular branch of legislation, it is more prominent and conspicuous in industrial laws and relations. Its scope is comprehensive and is founded to the basic ideals of social economic equality and it aims at assisting the removal of social economic disparities and inequalities of birth and the competing claims especially between the employers and workers by finding a just, fair and equitable solution to their human relation problem, so that peace, harmony and collection of the highest order prevails among them which may further the growth and progress of nations. [Mahesh Chandra, 'Industrial Jurisprudence' (1976), p. 47].

CONSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORK OF FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

Articles 12 to 35 of the Constitution of India pertain to Fundamental Rights of the Citizen of the Country. The Indian Constitution guarantees essential human rights in the form of Fundamental Rights under Part III and also Directive Principles of State Policy in Part IV which are fundamental in the governance of the country. Freedom and civil rights granted to all under Part III have been liberally construed by various pronouncements of the Supreme Court in the last half a century. The object has been to place citizens at a centre stage and make the State accountable. Fundamental Rights must not be read in isolation but together with directive principles and fundamental duties. The need for protecting and safeguarding the interest of labour as human beings has been enshrined in Article 14, 16, 19, 21, 23 and 24 giving an idea of the conditions under which labour shall work.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THE CODE

Fixed Term Employment (FTE): Allows direct, time-bound contracts with full parity in wages and benefits with permanent employees and gratuity eligibility after completion of one year of service. The provision reduces excessive contractualization and offers cost efficiency to employers.

Worker Re-skilling Fund: To train retrenched employees, this fund shall be set up from the contribution to be made by the employer for an amount equal to 15 days' wages for every worker retrenched. This is in addition to retrenchment compensation. The amount will be credited to the workers account within 45 days of retrenchment.

Statutory Recognition to Trade Union: Unions with 51% membership get recognition as the Negotiating Union; otherwise, a Negotiating Council shall be constituted comprising representatives of all trade unions with not less than 20% membership. Such an arrangement strengthens collective bargaining and grievance redressal.

Women's Representation: Ensures proportional representation of women in grievance committees for gender-sensitive redressal.

Standing Orders Threshold: Raised from 100 to 300 employees, easing compliance and enabling flexible workforce management.

Important Definitions

Appellate Authority {Section 2(a)}

“Appellate Authority” means an authority appointed by the Appropriate Government to exercise such functions in such area as may be specified by that Government by notification in the Official Gazette.

Appropriate Government {Section 2(b)}

“Appropriate Government” means -

- i. in relation to any industrial establishment or undertaking carried on by or under the authority of the Central Government or concerning any such controlled industry as may be specified in this behalf by the Central Government or the establishment of railways including metro railways, mines, oil fields, major ports, air transport service, telecommunication, banking and insurance company or a corporation or other authority established by a Central Act or a central public sector undertaking, subsidiary companies set up by the principal undertakings or autonomous bodies owned or controlled by the Central Government including establishments of the contractors for the purposes of such establishment, corporation, other authority, public sector undertakings or any company in which not less than fifty-one per cent. of the paid-up share capital is held by the Central Government, as the case may be, the Central Government.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause, the Central Government shall continue to be the Appropriate Government for central public sector undertakings even if the holding of the Central Government reduces to less than fifty per cent. equity in that public sector undertaking after the commencement of this Code;

- ii. in relation to any other industrial establishment, including State public sector undertakings, subsidiary companies set up by the principal undertaking and autonomous bodies owned or controlled by the State Government, the State Government:

Provided that in case of a dispute between a contractor and the contract labour employed through the contractor in any industrial establishment where such dispute first arose, the Appropriate Government shall be the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, which has control over such industrial establishment.

Average Pay {Section 2(d)}

"Average Pay" means the average of the wages payable to a worker, —

- (i) in the case of monthly paid worker, in three complete calendar months;
- (ii) in the case of weekly paid worker, in four complete weeks;
- (iii) in the case of daily paid worker, in twelve full working days, preceding the date on which the average pay becomes payable, if the worker had worked for three complete calendar months or four complete weeks or twelve full working days, as the case may be, and where such calculation cannot be made, the average pay shall be calculated as the average of the wages payable to a worker during the period he actually worked.

Award {Section 2(e)}

"Award" means an interim or a final determination of any industrial dispute or of any question relating thereto by any Industrial Tribunal referred to in section 44 or National Industrial Tribunal referred to in section 46 and includes an arbitration award made under section 42.

The erstwhile definition of "award" was analysed in the case of Cox & Kings (Agents) Ltd. v. Their Workmen, AIR 1977 S.C. 1666 as follows: The definition of "award" is in two parts. The first part covers a determination, final or interim, of any industrial dispute. The second part takes in a determination of any question relating to an industrial dispute. However, basic thing to both the parts is the existence of an industrial dispute, actual or apprehended. The 'determination contemplated is of the industrial dispute or a question relating thereto on merits.

The word 'determination' implies that the Labour Court or the Tribunal should adjudicate the dispute upon relevant materials and exercise its own judgement. The definition of 'award' also includes the 'interim award', but it should be distinguished from 'interim relief' granted by Tribunal under Section 10(4). (Hotel Imperial v. Hotel Workers Union). However, in Management of Bihar State Electricity Board v. Their Workmen, it was held that since there is no provision for interim relief in the Act, it will take the form of interim award. It may be noted that if the 'interim relief' does not take the form of 'interim award', the violation of it, will not attract any penalty under the Act.

Further, if an industrial dispute has been permitted to be withdrawn by an order of the adjudication authority, it will not amount to an award because there is no determination of the dispute on merit. However, position would be different if the dispute has been settled by a private agreement and the Tribunal has been asked to make award in terms of the agreement. The Delhi High Court in Hindustan Housing Factory Employees Union v. Hindustan Housing Factory, has held that such an award is binding on the parties provided it is not tainted with fraud, coercion, etc. However, it is necessary that the Tribunal brings its own judicial mind with regard to such a compromise so that there is determination of the dispute.

Lastly, if any party to the dispute does not appear before the adjudication authority, the Tribunal can proceed ex-parte but cannot make award unless it has exercised its mind. Thus, the order of dismissal of the reference, for default, does not amount to award.

Certifying Officer {Section 2(g)}

“Certifying Officer” means any officer appointed by the Appropriate Government, by notification, to perform the functions of a certifying officer under the provisions of Chapter IV.

Closure {Section 2(h)}

"Closure" means the permanent closing down of a place of employment or part thereof.

Controlled Industry {Section 2(k)}

“Controlled Industry” means any industry the control of which by the Union has been declared by any Central Act to be expedient in the public interest.

Employee {Section 2(l)}

"Employee" means any person (other than an apprentice engaged under the Apprentices Act, 1961) (52 of 1961) employed by an industrial establishment to do any skilled, semi-skilled or unskilled, manual, operational, supervisory, managerial, administrative, technical or clerical work for hire or reward, whether the terms of employment be express or implied, and also includes a person declared to be an employee by the Appropriate Government, but does not include any member of the Armed Forces of the Union.

Employer {Section 2(m)}

"Employer" means a person who employs, whether directly or through any person, or on his behalf or on behalf of any person, one or more employee or worker in his establishment and where the establishment is carried on by any department of the Central Government or the State Government, the authority specified by the head of the department in this behalf or where no authority is so specified, the head of the department, and in relation to an establishment carried on by a local authority, the chief executive of that authority, and includes,-

- (i) in relation to an establishment which is a factory, the occupier of the factory as defined in clause (n) of section 2 of the Factories Act, 1948 (63 of 1948) and, where a person has been named as a manager of the factory under clause (f) of sub-section (1) of section 7 of the said Act, the person so named;
- (ii) in relation to any other establishment, the person who, or the authority which has ultimate control over the affairs of the establishment and where the said affairs are entrusted to a manager or managing director, such manager or managing director;

- (iii) contractor; and
- (iv) legal representative of a deceased employer. {Section 2(m)}

Executive {Section 2(n)}

“Executive” in relation to a Trade Union, means the body by whatever name called, to which the management of the affairs of a Trade Union is entrusted.

Fixed Term Employment {Section 2(o)}

"Fixed Term Employment" means the engagement of a worker on the basis of a written contract of employment for a fixed period:

Provided that—

- (a) his hours of work, wages, allowances and other benefits shall not be less than that of a permanent worker doing the same work or work of similar nature;
- (b) he shall be eligible for all statutory benefits available to a permanent worker proportionately according to the period of service rendered by him even if his period of employment does not extend to the qualifying period of employment required in the statute; and
- (c) he shall be eligible for gratuity if he renders service under the contract for a period of one year.

This concept of Fixed Term Employment (FTE) allows engagement of workers through a direct written contract between the employer and the employee for a specified duration. Such workers are entitled to all benefits, including working hours, wages, allowances, and statutory benefits, on par with permanent employees. It is a win-win situation for employee and employer as this provision is expected to reduce excessive contractualization and offer cost efficiency to employers.

Industry {Section 2(p)}

“Industry” means any systematic activity carried on by co-operation between an employer and worker (whether such worker is employed by such employer directly or by or through any agency, including a contractor) for the production, supply or distribution of goods or services with a view to satisfy human wants or wishes (not being wants or wishes which are merely spiritual or religious in nature), whether or not, -

- (i) any capital has been invested for the purpose of carrying on such activity; or
- (ii) such activity is carried on with a motive to make any gain or profit, but does not include

- institutions owned or managed by organisations wholly or substantially engaged in any charitable, social or philanthropic service; or
- any activity of the Appropriate Government relating to the sovereign functions of the Appropriate Government including all the activities carried on by the departments of the Central Government dealing with defence research, atomic energy and space; or
- any domestic service; or
- any other activity as may be notified by Central Government.

The Supreme Court carried out an indepth study of the erstwhile definition of the term industry in a comprehensive manner in the case of Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board v. A Rajiappa, AIR 1978 SC 548 (hereinafter referred to as Bangalore Water Supply case), after considering various previous judicial decisions on the subject and in the process, it rejected some of them, while evolving a new concept of the term “industry”.

Tests for determination of “industry”

After discussing the definition from various angles, in the above case, the Supreme Court, laid down the following tests to determine whether an activity is covered by the definition of “industry” or not. It is also referred to as the triple test.

- I. (a) Where there is (i) systematic activity, (ii) organised by co-operation between employer and employee, (iii) for the production and/or distribution of goods and services calculated to satisfy human wants and wishes (not spiritual or religious but inclusive of material things or services geared to celestial bliss e.g., making, on a large scale, prasada or food) prima facie, there is an “industry” in that enterprise.
- (b) Absence of profit motive or gainful objective is irrelevant wherever the undertaking is whether in the public, joint, private or other sector.
- (c) The true focus is functional and the decisive test is the nature of the activity with special emphasis on the employer-employee relations.
- (d) If the organisation is a trade or business, it does not cease to be one because of philanthropy animating the undertaking.

II. Although the erstwhile definition used words of the widest amplitude in its two limbs, their meaning cannot be magnified to over-stretch itself. Undertaking must suffer a contextual and associational shrinkage, so also, service, calling and the like. This yields the inference that all organised activity possessing the triple elements although not trade or business, may still be “industry”, provided the nature of the activity, viz., the employer - employee basis, bears resemblance to what we find in trade or business. This takes into the fold of “industry”, undertakings, callings and services, adventures analogous to the carrying on of trade or business. All features, other than the methodology of carrying on the activity, viz., in organising the co-operation between employer and employee, may be dissimilar. It does not matter, if on the employment terms, there is analogy.

III. Application of these guidelines should not stop short of their logical reach by invocation of creeds, cults or inner sense of incongruity or outer sense of motivation for or resultant of the economic operations. The ideology of the Act being industrial disputes between employer and workmen, the range of this statutory ideology must inform the reach of the statutory definition, nothing less, nothing more.

Industrial Dispute {Section 2(q)}

"Industrial Dispute" means any dispute or difference between employers and employees or between employers and workers or between workers and workers which is connected with the employment or non-employment or the terms of employment or with the conditions of labour, of any person and includes any dispute or difference between an individual worker and an employer connected with, or arising out of discharge, dismissal, retrenchment or termination of such worker.

The above definition can be analysed and discussed under the following heads:

1. There should exist a dispute or difference;
2. The dispute or difference should be between:
  - (a) employers and employers;
  - (b) employers and workers; or
  - (c) workers and workers.
3. The dispute or difference should be connected with (a) the employment or non-employment, or (b) terms of employment, or (c) the conditions of labour of any person;
4. The dispute or difference may also be between an individual worker and an employer connected with, or arising out of discharge, dismissal, retrenchment or termination of such worker.
5. The dispute should relate to an industry as defined in Section 2(p).

1. Existence of a dispute of difference

The existence of a dispute or difference between the parties is central to the definition of industrial dispute. Ordinarily a dispute or difference exists when workers make demand and the same is rejected by the employer. However, the demand should be such which the employer is in a position to fulfil. The dispute or difference should be fairly defined and of real substance and not a mere personal quarrel or a grumbling or an agitation. The term “industrial dispute” connotes a real and substantial difference having some element of persistency, and likely, and if not adjusted, to endanger the industrial peace of the community. An industrial dispute exists only when the same has been raised by the workers with the employer. A mere demand to the Appropriate Government without a dispute being raised by the workers with their employer regarding such demand, cannot become an industrial dispute (Sindhu Resettlement Corporation Ltd. v. Industrial Tribunal 1968-I L.L.J. 834 S.C.). However, in Bombay Union of Journalists v. The Hindu, AIR, 1964 S.C. 1617, the Supreme Court observed that for making reference for resolution of disputes, it is enough if the industrial dispute exists or is apprehended on the date of reference. Therefore, even when no formal demands have been made by the employer, industrial dispute exists if the demands were raised during the conciliation proceedings. When an industrial dispute is referred for adjudication the presumption is that, there is an industrial dispute (Workmen v. Hindustan Lever Ltd., (1984) 4 SCC 392).

Unless there is a demand by the worker and that demand is not complied with by the management, there cannot be any industrial dispute within the meaning of Section 2(q). Mere participation by the employer in the conciliation proceedings will not be sufficient (W.S. Insulators of India Ltd. v. Industrial Tribunal, Madras 1977-II Labour Law Journal 225).

2. Parties to the dispute

Most of the industrial disputes exist between the employers and the workers and the remaining combination of persons who can raise the dispute, has been added to widen the scope of the term “industrial dispute”. So the question is who can raise the dispute? The term “industrial dispute” conveys the meaning that the dispute must be such as would affect large groups of workers and employers ranged on opposite sides. The disputes can be raised by workers themselves or their union or federation on their behalf. This is based on the fact that workers have right of collective bargaining. Thus, there should be community of interest in the dispute.

It is not mandatory that the dispute should be raised by a registered Trade Union. Once it is shown that a body of workers either acting through their union or otherwise had sponsored a worker's case, it becomes an industrial dispute (Newspaper Ltd., Allahabad v. Industrial Tribunal, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 1328). The dispute can be raised by minority union also. Even a sectional union or a substantial number of members of the union can raise an industrial dispute. However, the members of a union who are not workers of the employer against whom the dispute is sought to be raised, cannot by their support convert an individual dispute into an industrial dispute. In other words, persons who seek to support the cause must themselves be directly and substantially interested in the dispute and persons who are not the employees of the same employer cannot be regarded as so interested. But industrial dispute can be raised in respect of non-workmen (Workmen v. Cotton Greaves & Co. Ltd. 1971 2 SCC 658). Industrial dispute can be initiated and continued by legal heirs even after the death of a workman (LAB IC 1999 Kar. 286).

3. Subject matter of dispute

The dispute should relate to employment or non-employment or terms of employment or conditions of labour of any person.

The meaning of the term "employment or non-employment" was explained by Federal Court in the case of Western India Automobile Association v. Industrial Tribunal. If an employer refuses to employ a worker dismissed by him, the dispute relates to non-employment of worker. But the union insists that a particular person should not be employed by the employer, the dispute relates to employment of worker. Thus, the "employment or non-employment" is concerned with the employers' failure or refusal to employ a worker. The expression "terms of employment" refers to all terms and conditions stated in the contract of employment. The expression terms of employment would also include those terms which are understood and applied by parties in practice or, habitually or by common consent without ever being incorporated in the Contract (Workmen v. Hindustan Lever Ltd., 1984 1 SCC 392).

The expression "conditions of labour" is much wider in its scope and usually it was reference to the amenities to be provided to the workers and the conditions under which they will be required to work. The matters like safety, health and welfare of workers are also included within this expression.

It was held that the definition of industrial dispute in Section 2(q) is wide enough to embrace within its sweep any dispute or difference between an employer and his workers connected with the terms of their employment. A settlement between the employer and his workers affects the terms of their employment. Therefore, prima facie, the definition of Industrial dispute in Section 2(q) will embrace within its sweep any fraudulent and involuntary character of settlement. Even a demand can be made through the President of Trade Union (1988 1 LLN 202). Dispute between worker and employer regarding confirmation of worker officiating in a higher grade is an industrial dispute (1984 4 SCC 392).

Employer's failure to keep his verbal assurance, claim for compensation for loss of business; dispute of workers who are not employees of the Purchaser who purchased the estate and who were not yet the worker of the Purchaser's Estate, although directly interested in their employment, etc. were held to be not the industrial disputes. Payment of pension can be a subject matter of an industrial dispute (ICI India Ltd. v. Presiding Officer L.C., 1993 LLJ II 568).

4. Dispute in an "Industry"

Lastly, to be an "industrial dispute", the dispute or difference must relate to an industry. Thus, the existence of an "industry" is a condition precedent to an industrial dispute. No industrial dispute can exist without an industry. The word "industry" has been fully discussed elsewhere. However, in Pipraich Sugar Mills Ltd. v. P.S.M. Mazdoor Union, A.I.R. 1957 S.C. 95, it was held that an "industrial dispute" can arise only in an "existing industry" and not in one which is closed altogether. The mere fact that the dispute comes under the definition of Section 2(q) does not automatically mean that the right sought to be enforced is one created or recognised and enforceable only under the Act (National and Grindlays Bank Employees' Union, Madras v. I. Kannan (Madras), 1978 Lab. I.C. 648). Where the right of the employees is not one which is recognised and enforceable under the Industrial Disputes Act, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is not ousted.

Industrial Establishment or Undertaking {Section 2(r)}

"Industrial Establishment or Undertaking" means an establishment or undertaking in which any industry is carried on:

Provided that where several activities are carried on in an establishment or undertaking and only one or some of such activities is or are an industry or industries, then, —

- (i) if any unit of such establishment or undertaking carrying on any activity, being an industry, is severable from the other unit or units of such establishment or undertaking which is not carrying on or aiding the carrying on of any such activity, such unit shall be deemed to be a separate industrial establishment or undertaking;
- (ii) if the predominant activity or each of the predominant activities carried on in such establishment or undertaking or any unit thereof is an industry and the other activity or each of the other activities carried on in such establishment or undertaking or unit thereof is not severable from and is, for the purpose of carrying on, or aiding the carrying on of, such predominant activity or activities, the entire establishment or undertaking or, as the case may be, unit thereof shall be deemed to be an industrial establishment or undertaking.

Lay-Off {Section 2(t)}

"Lay-Off" (with its grammatical variations and cognate expressions) means the failure, refusal or inability of an employer on account of shortage of coal, power or raw materials or the accumulation of stocks or the break-down of machinery or natural calamity or for any other connected reason, to give employment to a worker whose name is borne on the muster rolls of his industrial establishment and who has not been retrenched.

Explanation- Every worker whose name is borne on the muster rolls of the industrial establishment and who presents himself for work at the establishment at the time appointed for the purpose during normal working hours on any day and is not given employment by the employer within two hours of his so presenting himself shall be deemed to have been laid-off for that day within the meaning of this clause:

Provided that if the worker, instead of being given employment at the commencement of any shift for any day is asked to present himself for the purpose during the second half of the shift for the day and is given employment then, he shall be deemed to have been laid-off only for one-half of that day:

Provided further that if he is not given any such employment even after so presenting himself, he shall not be deemed to have been laid-off for the second half of the shift for the day and shall be entitled to full basic wages and dearness allowance for that part of the day.

From the above provisions, it is clear that lay-off is a temporary stoppage and within a reasonable period of time, the employer expects that his business would continue and his employees who have been laid-off, the contract of employment is not broken but is suspended for the time being. But in the case of M.A. Veirya v. C.P. Fernandez, 1956-I, L.L.J. 547 Bomb., it was observed that it is not open to the employer, under the cloak of “lay-off”, to keep his employees in a state of suspended animation and not to make up his mind whether the industry or business would ultimately continue or there would be a permanent stoppage and thereby deprive his employees of full wages. In other words, the lay-off should not be mala fide in which case it will not be lay-off. Tribunal can adjudicate upon it and find out whether the employer has deliberately and maliciously brought about a situation where lay-off becomes necessary. But, apart from the question of mala fide, the Tribunal cannot sit in judgement over the acts of management and investigate whether a more prudent management could have avoided the situation which led to lay-off (Tatanagar Foundry v. Their Workmen, A.I.R. 1962 S.C. 1533).

Further, refusal or inability to give employment must be due to (i) shortage of coal, power or raw materials, or (ii) accumulation of stock, or (iii) break-down of machinery, (iv) natural calamity, or (v) for any other connected reason. Financial stringency cannot constitute a ground for lay-off (Hope Textiles Ltd. v. State of MP, 1993 I LLJ 603).

Lastly, the right to lay-off cannot be claimed as an inherent right of the employer. This right must be specifically provided for either by the contract of employment or by the statute (Workmen of Dewan Tea Estate v. Their Management). In fact ‘lay-off’ is an obligation on the part of the employer, i.e., in case of temporary stoppage of work, not to discharge the workers but to lay-off the workers till the situation improves. Power to lay-off must be found out from the terms of contract of service or the standing orders governing the establishment (Workmen v. Firestone Tyre and Rubber Co., 1976 3 SCC 819).

There cannot be lay-off in an industrial undertaking which has been closed down. Lay-off and closure cannot stand together.

Lock-Out {Section 2(u)}

"Lock-Out" means the temporary closing of a place of employment, or the suspension of work, or the refusal by an employer to continue to employ any number of persons employed by him.

In lock out, the employer refuses to continue to employ the worker employed by him even though there is no intention to close down the unit. The essence of lock out is the refusal of the employer to continue to employ worker. Even if suspension of work is ordered, it would constitute lock out. But mere suspension of work, unless it is accompanied by an intention on the part of employer as a retaliation, will not amount to lock out.

Locking out workmen does not contemplate severance of the relationship of employer and the workmen. In the case Lord Krishna Sugar Mills Ltd. v. State of U.P., (1964) II LLJ 76 (All), a closure of a place of business for a short duration of 30 days in retaliation to certain acts of workmen (i.e. to teach them a lesson) was held to be a lock out. But closure is not a lock out.

Retrenchment {Section 2(zh)}

"Retrenchment" means the termination by the employer of the service of a worker for any reason whatsoever, otherwise than as a punishment inflicted by way of disciplinary action, but does not include—

- (i) voluntary retirement of the worker; or
- (ii) retirement of the worker on reaching the age of superannuation; or
- (iii) termination of the service of the worker as a result of the non-renewal of the contract of employment between the employer and the worker concerned on its expiry or of such contract being terminated under a stipulation in that behalf contained therein; or
- (iv) termination of service of the worker as a result of completion of tenure of fixed term employment; or
- (v) termination of the service of a worker on the ground of continued ill-health.

The scope and ambit of the definition is explained in the case of Santosh Gupta v. State Bank of Patiala, (1980) Lab.I.C.687 SC, wherein it was held that if the definition of retrenchment is looked at unaided and unhampered by precedent, one is at once struck by the remarkably wide language employed and particularly the use of the word 'termination for any reason whatsoever'. If due weight is given to these words, i.e. they are to be understood as to mean what they plainly say, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that retrenchment must include every termination of service of a workman by an act of the employer. In the case of Punjab Land Development Corporation Ltd. v. Labour Court, Chandigarh, (1990) II LLJ 70 SC, the Supreme Court held that expression "retrenchment" means termination by employer of services of workman for any reason whatsoever except those expressly excluded in the Section itself.

The expression "for any reason whatsoever" could not be safely interpreted to include the case of discharge of all workmen on account of bona fide closure of business, because for the application of definition, industry should be a working or a continuing or an existing industry, not one which is altogether a closed one. So the underlying assumption would be of course, that the undertaking is running as an undertaking and the employer continues to be an employer (Hariprasad Shivshankar Shukla v. A.D.Divakar, (1957) SCR 121), hereinafter referred to as Hariprasad case.

The Supreme Court in the Punjab Land Development Corporation Ltd. case clarified that the expression “retrenchment” does not mean only termination by the employer of service of surplus labour for any reason whatsoever. The expression “retrenchment” is not to be understood in the narrow, natural and contextual meaning but is to be understood in its wider literal meaning to mean termination of service of worker for any reason whatsoever. The expression “for any reason whatsoever” must necessarily draw within its ambit, the termination of the workers services due to reasons such as economy, rationalisation in industry, installation or improvement of plant or technique and the like. It is in conjunction with such reasons that the words “any reason whatsoever” must be read and construed (Kamleshkumari Rajanikant Mehta v. Presiding Officer, Central Government, Industrial Tribunal No.1, (1980) Lab I.C.1116).

Where persons are employed for working on daily wages their disengagement from service or refusal to employ for a particular work cannot be construed to be a retrenchment and that concept of retrenchment cannot be stretched to such an extent as to cover such employees (U.P. v. Labour Court, Haldwani, 1999 (81) FLR 319 All.).

In Parry & Co. Ltd. v. P.C. Pal, (1970) II L.L.J. 429, the Supreme Court observed that the management has a right to determine the volume of its labour force consistent with its business or anticipated business and its organisation. If for instance a scheme of reorganisation of the business of the employer results in surplusage of employees, no employer is expected to carry the burden of such economic dead weight and retrenchment has to be accepted as inevitable, however, unfortunate it be.

The fact that the implementation of a reorganisation scheme adopted by an employer for reasons of economy and convenience would lead to the discharge of some of the employees, will have no material bearing on the question as to whether the reorganisation has been adopted by the employer bona fide or not. The retrenchment should be bona fide and there should be no victimisation or unfair labour practice on the part of the employer. The Supreme Court in the case of Workmen of Subong Tea Estate v. Subong Tea Estate, (1964) I L.L.J. 333, laid down following principles with regard to retrenchment:

1. The management can retrench its employees only for proper reasons, which means that it must not be actuated by any motive of victimisation or any unfair labour practice.
2. It is for the management to decide the strength of its labour force, and the number of workers required to carry out efficiently the work in his industrial undertaking must always be left to be determined by the management in its discretion.
3. If the number of employees exceeds the reasonable and legitimate needs of the undertaking, it is open to the management to retrench them.
4. Workers may become surplus on the ground of rationalisation or on the group of economy reasonably and bona fide adopted by the management or of other industrial or trade reasons.

5. The right of the employer to effect retrenchment cannot normally be challenged but when there is a dispute in regard to the validity of the retrenchment, it would be necessary for the tribunal to consider whether the impugned retrenchment was justified for proper reasons and it would not be open to the employer either capriciously or without any reason at all to say that it proposes to reduce its labour for no rhyme or reason.

The Section does not make any difference between regular and temporary appointment or an appointment on daily wage basis or appointment of a person not possessing requisite qualification (L.L.J.-II-1996 Mad. 216) or whether the appointment was held to be in accordance with law or not. In Prabhudayal Jat v. Alwar Sehkari Bhumi Vikas Bank Ltd., (1997) Lab IC Raj. 944, where the services of an employee irregularly appointed was terminated, the Court held, it was a fit case of retrenchment.

In Anand Behari v. RSRTC, AIR 1991 SC 1003, the services of bus conductors, were terminated on the ground of weak eye sight which was below the standard requirement. Supreme Court held that the termination is due to continued ill- health which has to be construed relatively in its context, and that must have a bearing on the normal discharge of their duties. Ill-health means disease, physical defect, infirmity or unsoundness of mind. Termination on account of lack of confidence is stigmatic and does not amount to retrenchment (Chandulal v. Pan American Airways, (1985) 2 SCC 727). Striking of the name of a worker from the rolls on the ground of absence for a specific period, provided under Standing Orders amounts to retrenchment (1993 II LLJ 696). Disengagement of workers of seasonal factories after season is not a retrenchment (LLJ I 98 SC 343).

Settlement {Section 2(zi)}

"Settlement" means a settlement arrived at in the course of conciliation proceeding and includes a written agreement between the employer and worker arrived at otherwise than in the course of conciliation proceeding where such agreement has been signed by the parties thereto in such manner as may be prescribed and a copy thereof has been sent to an officer authorised in this behalf by the Appropriate Government and to the conciliation officer.

The definition envisages two categories of settlements (i) a settlement arrived at in the course of conciliation proceedings, and (ii) a written agreement between employer and worker arrived at otherwise in the course of conciliation proceedings. For the validity of the second category of settlement, it is essential that parties thereto should have subscribed to it in the prescribed manner and a copy thereof sent to authorised officer and the conciliation officer (Tata Chemicals Ltd. v. Workmen, 1978 Lab. I.C. 637). Moreover, settlement contemplates only written settlement, and no oral agreement can be pleaded to vary or modify or supersede a written settlement (AIR 1997 SC 954).

A settlement cannot be weighed in any golden scale and the question whether it is just and fair has to be answered on the basis of principles different from those which came into play where an industrial dispute is under adjudication. If the settlement has been arrived at by a vast majority of workers with their eyes open and was also accepted by them in its totality, it must be presumed to be fair and just and not liable to be ignored merely because a small number of workers were not parties to it or refused to accept it (Tata Engineering and Locomotive Co. Ltd. v. Workmen, 1981-II Labour Law Journal 429 SC). A memorandum of settlement signed by office bearers of union without being authorised either by constitution of union or by executive committee of the union or by the workers to enter into agreement with the management does not amount to settlement [Brooke Bond India Pvt. Ltd. v. Workman, (1981) 3 SCC 493].

Strike {Section 2(zk)}

"Strike" means a cessation of work by a body of persons employed in any industry acting in combination, or a concerted refusal, or a refusal, under a common understanding, of any number of persons who are or have been so employed to continue to work or to accept employment and includes the concerted casual leave on a given day by fifty per cent. or more workers employed in an industry.

Strike is a weapon of collective bargaining in the armour of workers. The following points may be noted regarding the definition of strike:

- (i) Strike can take place only when there is a cessation of work or refusal to work by the workers acting in combination or in a concerted manner. Time factor or duration of the strike is immaterial. The purpose behind the cessation of work is irrelevant in determining whether there is a strike or not. It is enough if the cessation of work is in defiance of the employers authority. Proof of formal consultations is not required. However, mere presence in the striking crowd would not amount to strike unless it can be shown that there was cessation of work.
- (ii) A concerted refusal or a refusal under a common understanding of any number of persons to continue to work or to accept employment will amount to a strike. A general strike is one when there is a concert of combination of workers stopping or refusing to resume work. However, the refusal by workers should be in respect of normal lawful work which the workers are under an obligation to do. But refusal to do work which the employer has no right to ask for performance, such a refusal does not constitute a strike (Northbrooke Jute Co. Ltd. v. Their Workmen, AIR 1960 SC 879). If on the sudden death of a fellow-worker, the workers acting in concert refuse to resume work, it amounts to a strike [National Textile Workers' Union v. Shree Meenakshi Mills, (1951) II L.L.J. 516].
- (iii) The striking workers must be employed in an "industry" which has not been closed down.
- (iv) Even when workers cease to work, the relationship of employer and employee is deemed to continue albeit in a state of belligerent suspension. In Express Newspaper (P) Ltd. v. Michael Mark, 1962-II, L.L.J. 220 S.C., the Supreme Court observed that if there is a strike by workmen, it does not indicate, even when strike is illegal, that they have abandoned their employment. However, for illegal strike, the employer can take disciplinary action and dismiss the striking workers.

Trade Union {Section 2(zl)}

"Trade Union" means any combination, whether temporary or permanent, formed primarily for the purpose of regulating the relations between workers and employers or between workers and workers, or between employers and employers, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, and includes any federation of two or more Trade Unions.

Provided that the provisions of Chapter III of this Code shall not affect —

- (i) any agreement between partners as to their own business; or
- (ii) any agreement between an employer and those employed by him as to such employment; or
- (iii) any agreement in consideration of the sale of the goodwill of a business or of instruction in any profession, trade or handicraft.

Trade Union Dispute {Section 2(zm)}

"Trade Union Dispute" means any dispute relating to Trade Union arising between two or more Trade Unions or between the members of a Trade Union inter se.

Wages {Section 2(zq)}

"Wages" means all remuneration, whether by way of salary, allowances or otherwise, expressed in terms of money or capable of being so expressed which would, if the terms of employment, express or implied, were fulfilled, be payable to a person employed in respect of his employment or of work done in such employment, and includes,—

- (i) basic pay;
- (ii) dearness allowance;
- (iii) retaining allowance, if any but does not include—

- (a) any bonus payable under any law for the time being in force, which does not form part of the remuneration payable under the terms of employment;
- (b) the value of any house-accommodation, or of the supply of light, water, medical attendance or other amenity or of any service excluded from the computation of wages by a general or special order of the Appropriate Government;
- (c) any contribution paid by the employer to any pension or provident fund, and the interest which may have accrued thereon;
- (d) any conveyance allowance or the value of any travelling concession;
- (e) any sum paid to the employed person to defray special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment;
- (f) house rent allowance;
- (g) remuneration payable under any award or settlement between the parties or order of a court or Tribunal;
- (h) any overtime allowance;
- (i) any commission payable to the employee;
- (j) any gratuity payable on the termination of employment; or
- (k) any retrenchment compensation or other retirement benefit payable to the employee or any ex gratia payment made to him on the termination of employment:

Provided that, for calculating the wage under this clause, if any payments made by the employer to the employee under sub-clauses (a) to (i) exceeds one-half, or such other per cent. as may be notified by the Central Government, of all remuneration calculated under this clause, the amount which exceeds such one-half, or the per cent. so notified, shall be deemed to be remuneration and shall be accordingly added in wages under this clause:

Provided further that for the purpose of equal wages to all genders and for the purpose of payment of wages the emoluments specified in sub-clauses (d), (f), (g) and (h) shall be taken for computation of wage.

Explanation.—Where an employee is given in lieu of the whole or part of the wages payable to him, any remuneration in kind by his employer, the value of such remuneration in kind which does not exceed fifteen per cent. of the total wages payable to him, shall be deemed to form part of the wages of such employee.

Worker {Section 2(zr)}

“Worker” means any person (except an apprentice as defined under clause (aa) of section 2 of the Apprentices Act, 1961) (52 of 1961) employed in any industry to do any manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory work for hire or reward, whether the terms of employment be express or implied, and includes working journalists as defined in clause (f) of section 2 of the Working Journalists and other Newspaper Employees (Conditions of Service) and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1955 (45 of 1955) 5 and sales promotion employees as defined in clause (d) of section 2 of the Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976 (11 of 1976), and for the purposes of any proceeding under this Code in relation to an industrial dispute, includes any such person who has been dismissed, discharged or retrenched or otherwise terminated in connection with, or as a consequence of, that dispute, or whose dismissal, discharge or retrenchment has led to that dispute, but does not include any such person—

- (i) who is subject to the Air Force Act, 1950 (45 of 1950), or the Army Act, 1950 (46 of 1950), or the Navy Act, 1957 (62 of 1957); or
- (ii) who is employed in the police service or as an officer or other employee of a prison; or
- (iii) who is employed mainly in a managerial or administrative capacity; or
- (iv) who is employed in a supervisory capacity drawing wages exceeding eighteen thousand rupees per month or an amount as may be notified by the Central Government from time to time:

Provided that for the purposes of Chapter III, "worker"—

- (a) means all persons employed in trade or industry; and
- (b) includes the worker as defined in clause (m) of section 2 of the Unorganised Workers' Social Security Act, 2008 (33 of 2008).

WORKS COMMITTEE (SECTION 3)

1. In case of any industrial establishment in which 100 or more workers are employed or have been employed on any day in the preceding 12 months, the Appropriate Government may by general or special order require the employer to constitute a Works Committee, in such manner as may be prescribed, consisting of representatives of employer and workers engaged in the establishment where the number of representatives of workers shall not be less than the number of representatives of the employer. The representatives of the workers shall be chosen, in such manner as may be prescribed, from among the workers engaged in the establishment and in consultation with their Trade Union, if any.

2. The Works Committee shall –

- promote measures for securing and preserving amity and good relations between the employer and workers;
- to that end, comment upon matters of their common interest or concern; and
- endeavour to compose any material difference of opinion in respect of such matters.

GRIEVANCE REDRESSAL COMMITTEE (SECTION 4)

This section provides for the threshold limit for constituting Grievance Redressal Committee for the resolution of disputes arising out of grievances of individual workers, provisions for filing application in respect of dispute by the aggrieved worker, the constitution of the Committee, the time limit for completing its proceedings, the manner of its decision, and the filing of the application for the adjudication against the decision of the Committee or the adjudication of grievance.

Applicability: Every industrial establishment employing twenty (20) or more workers shall have one or more Grievance Redressal Committees (GRC).

Constitution: The GRC shall consist of equal number of members representing the employer and the workers where the total number of members shall not exceed ten (10) and the representation of women workers shall not be less than the proportion of women workers to the total workers employed in the industrial establishment. The chairperson of the Committee shall be selected from among persons representing the employer and the workers alternatively on rotational basis every year.

Grievance Redressal: An application in respect of any dispute may be filed before the Committee by any aggrieved worker within one (1) year from the date on which the cause of action of such dispute arises. The Committee may complete its proceedings within thirty (30) days of receipt of the application. No person employed in an industrial establishment shall go on strike, in breach of contract—

- (g) during any period in which a settlement or award is in operation, in respect of any of the matters covered by the settlement or award.

Conditions for Lock-out

No employer of an industrial establishment shall lock-out any of his workers—

- (a) without giving them notice of lock-out within sixty (60) days before locking-out; or
- (b) within fourteen (14) days of giving such notice; or
- (c) before the expiry of the date of lock-out specified in any such notice as aforesaid; or

- (g) during any period in which a settlement or award is in operation, in respect of any of the matters covered by the settlement or award.

Notice or intimation of strike or lockout

The employer shall send to such authority as may be specified by the Appropriate Government either generally or for a particular area or for a particular class of services the following:-

- The notice of strike or lock-out under this section
- intimation of such lock-out or strike where there is already in existence a strike or, as the case may be, lock-out,

Such notice or intimation shall be sent on the day on which it is declared.

Time period of reporting

On receipt of notice of strike or issue of notice of lock-out as stated above, the employer shall within five (5) days thereof, report to the Appropriate Government or to such authority as that Government may prescribe and to the conciliation officer, the number of such notices received or given on that day.

Illegal Strikes and Lock-Outs (Section 63)

This section defines when strikes and lock-outs are considered illegal under the Code along with exceptions.

Illegal Strikes/Lock-outs: A strike or lock-out shall be illegal, if it is commenced or declared in contravention of section 62; or continued in contravention of an order made under section 42(7).

Continuance of Existing Strikes/Lock-outs:

- The strike or lock-out in pursuance of an industrial dispute has already commenced and is in existence at the time of the filing of the application relating to such industrial dispute in the Tribunal or of the reference of such industrial dispute to an arbitrator or a National Industrial Tribunal, and the same was not at its commencement in contravention of the provisions of the Code or the continuance thereof was not prohibited under section 42(7) and
- The continuance of such strike or lock-out shall not be deemed to be illegal.

The Supreme Court in an unprecedented judgement in T.K. Rangarajan v. Government of Tamil Nadu and Others, (2003) 6 SCC 581: 2003-III-LLJ-275 held that the government employees have no fundamental right, statutory or equitable or moral to resort to strike and they cannot take the society at ransom by going on strike, even if there is injustice to some extent.

Consequential Strikes/Lock-outs

A lock-out declared in consequence of an illegal strike or a strike declared in consequence of an illegal lock-out shall not be deemed to be illegal.

Prohibition of Financial Aid to Illegal Strikes or Lock-Outs (Section 64)

No person shall knowingly spend or apply any money in direct furtherance or support of any illegal strike or lock-out.

The strike or lockout is not to be resorted to because the concerned party has a superior bargaining power or the requisite economic muscle to compel the other party to accept its demands. Such indiscriminate case of power is nothing but assertion of the rule of 'might is right'. Thus, initially, employees must resort to dispute settlement by alternative mechanisms. Only under extreme situations when the alternative mechanisms have totally failed to provide any amicable settlement, can they resort to a strike as a last resort. Even a very liberal interpretation of Article 19(1) (c) cannot lead to the conclusion that the trade unions have a guaranteed right to an effective collective bargaining or to strike, either as part of collective bargaining or otherwise. The right to strike or the right to declare a lockout may be controlled or restricted by appropriate industrial legislation. (Baldev Singh Gandhi v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2002 SC 1124).

LAY-OFF, RETRENCHMENT AND CLOSURE (CHAPTER IX)

Application of Sections 67 to 69 (Section 65)

- In this section and in sections 67, 68 and 69, industrial establishment shall mean a—
  - (a) factory as defined in clause (m) of section 2 of the Factories Act, 1948; or
  - (b) mine as defined in clause (j) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Mines Act, 1952; or
  - (c) plantation as defined in clause (f) of section 2 of the Plantations Labour Act, 1951.

Definition of Continuous Service (Section 66)

This section defines continuous service for workers, clarifying what counts as uninterrupted service and when workers are deemed to be in continuous service even if they fall short of the full period.

Continuous Service in relation to a worker, means the uninterrupted service of such worker, including his service which may be interrupted on account of sickness or authorised leave or an accident or a strike which is not illegal or a lock-out or a cessation of work which is not due to any fault on the part of the worker.

Deemed Continuous Service

Where a worker is not in continuous service for a period of one year or six months, he shall be deemed to be in continuous service under an employer—

- (a) for a period of one year, if the worker during a period of twelve months preceding the date with reference to which calculation is to be made has actually worked under the employer for not less than—
  - (i) one hundred and ninety (190) days in the case of a worker employed below ground in a mine; and
  - (ii) two hundred and forty (240) days, in any other case;
- (b) for a period of six months, if the worker during a period of six months preceding the date with reference to which calculation is to be made has actually worked under the employer for not less than—
  - (i) ninety-five (95) days in the case of worker employed below ground in a mine; and
  - (ii) one hundred and twenty (120) days, in any other case.

Counting Number of Days

The number of days on which a worker has actually worked under an employer shall include the days on which—

- (i) he has been laid-off under an agreement or as permitted by or under this Code or any other law applicable to the industrial establishment for the time being in force; or
- (ii) he has been on leave on full wages earned in the previous years; or
- (iii) he has been absent due to temporary disablement caused by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment; or
- (iv) in the case of a female, she has been on maternity leave, so however, that the total period of such maternity leave does not exceed the period as specified in the Maternity Benefit Act, 1961.

Rights of Workers Laid-off for Compensation (Section 67)

This section provides the rights of workers to compensation during lay-off and the conditions under which employers may limit or offset such payments.

Eligibility for Compensation

A worker (other than a badli worker or a casual worker) shall be paid by the employer during lay-off, whether continuously or intermittently, if-

- his name is borne on the muster rolls of an industrial establishment and
- who has completed not less than one year of continuous service under an employer.

Amount of Compensation

- (a) The worker shall be paid by the employer for all days during which he is so laid-off, except for such weekly holidays as may intervene, compensation which shall be equal to fifty per cent. (50%) of the total of the basic wages and dearness allowance that would have been payable to him, had he not been so laid-off.
- (b) If during any period of twelve months, a worker is so laid-off for more than forty-five days, no such compensation shall be payable in respect of any period of the lay-off after the expiry of the first forty-five days, if there is an agreement to that effect between the worker and the employer.

Setting-off Compensation in case of Retrenchment

In case the employer decides to retrench the worker in accordance with the provisions contained in section 70 at any time after the expiry of the first forty-five days of the lay-off, any compensation paid to the worker for having been laid-off during the preceding twelve months may be set off against the compensation payable for retrenchment.

It may be noted that “badli worker” means a worker who is employed in an industrial establishment in the place of another worker whose name is borne on the muster rolls of the establishment, but shall cease to be regarded as such, if he has completed one year of continuous service in the establishment.

Maintenance of Muster Rolls (Section 68)

The employer shall-

- (a) A muster roll of workers, and
- (b) provide for the making of entries therein by workers who may present themselves for work at the establishment at the appointed time during normal working hours.

LESSON 5

THE CODE ON WAGES, 2019

The Code on Wages, 2019 seeks to simplify, consolidate, and rationalize the provisions of four existing laws-

1. The Payment of Wages Act, 1936;
2. The Minimum Wages Act, 1948;
3. The Payment of Bonus Act, 1965; and
4. The Equal Remuneration Act, 1976.

It aims to strengthen workers' rights while promoting simplicity and uniformity in wage-related compliance for employers.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THE CODE

Universal Minimum Wages: The Code establishes a statutory right to minimum wages for all employees across both organized and unorganized sectors. Earlier, the Minimum Wages Act applied only to scheduled employments covering ~30% of workers.

Introduction of Floor Wage: A statutory floor wage shall be set by the Government based on minimum living standards, with scope for regional variation. No state can fix minimum wages below this level, ensuring uniformity and adequacy nationwide.

Criteria for Wage Fixation: Appropriate Governments will determine minimum wages considering workers' skill levels (unskilled, skilled, semi-skilled and highly skilled), geographic areas, and job conditions such as temperature, humidity, or hazardous environments.

Gender Equality in Employment: Employers shall not discriminate on the basis of gender, including transgender identity, in recruitment, wages, and employment conditions for similar work.

Universal Coverage for Wage Payment: Provisions ensuring timely payment and preventing un-authorized deductions will apply to all employees, irrespective of wage limits (currently applicable only to employees earning up to ₹24,000/month).

Overtime Compensation: Employers must pay all employees overtime wages at least twice the normal rate for any work done beyond the regular working hours.

Responsibility for Wage Payment: Employers, including companies, firms, or associations, shall pay wages to employees employed by them. Failure to do so makes the proprietor/entity liable for unpaid wages.

Inspector-cum-Facilitator: The traditional role of "Inspector" is replaced with "Inspector-cum-Facilitator," emphasizing guidance, awareness, and advisory roles alongside enforcement to improve compliance.

Compounding of Offences: First-time, non-imprisonable offences can be compounded by paying a penalty. Repeat offences within five years, however, cannot be compounded.

Decriminalization of Offences: The Code replaces imprisonment for certain first-time offences with monetary fines (up to 50% of the maximum fine), making the framework less punitive and more compliance-oriented.

The section lays the structure of minimum wages that may be fixed or revised by the Appropriate Government under Section 8. The provision ensures that minimum wages are not a flat figure but a composite package, reflecting both basic remuneration and adjustments for cost of living.

Procedure for Fixing and Revising Minimum Wage

Section 8 lays down the procedural framework for fixing minimum wages for the first time or revising them thereafter.

(1) In fixing minimum rates of wages for the first time or in revising minimum rates of wages under this Code, the Appropriate Government shall either—

- (a) appoint as many committees as it considers necessary to hold enquiries and recommend in respect of such fixation or revision, as the case may be; or

(4) The Appropriate Government shall review or revise minimum rates of wages ordinarily at an interval not exceeding five years.

Power of Central Government to Fix Floor Wage

Section 9 empowers the Central Government to fix a floor wage, which serves as the baseline wage standard across the country. It provides the same as follows: -

(1) The Central Government shall fix floor wage taking into account minimum living standards of a worker in such manner as may be prescribed:

Provided that different floor wage may be fixed for different geographical areas.

(2) The minimum rates of wages fixed by the Appropriate Government under section 6 shall not be less than the floor wage and if the minimum rates of wages fixed by the Appropriate Government earlier is more than the floor wage, then, the Appropriate Government shall not reduce such minimum rates of wages fixed by it earlier.

(3) The Central Government may, before fixing the floor wage under sub-section (1), obtain the advice of the Central Advisory Board constituted under sub-section (1) of section 42 and consult State Governments in such manner as may be prescribed.

Wages of Employee who Works for less than Normal Working Day

Section 10 safeguards employees as it provides that if a worker is employed for less than the requisite hours of a normal working day, they are still entitled to receive full day's wages, thereby protecting them from loss of income due to factors beyond their control.

If an employee whose minimum rate of wages has been fixed under this Code by the day works on any day on which he was employed for a period of less than the requisite number of hours constituting a normal working day, he shall, save as otherwise hereinafter provided, be entitled to receive wages in respect of work done on that day, as if he had worked for a full normal working day:

Provided that he shall not be entitled to receive wages for a full normal working day,—

- i. in any case where his failure to work is caused by his unwillingness to work and not by the omission of the employer to provide him with work; and
- ii. in such other cases and circumstances, as may be prescribed.

Wages for Two or More Classes of Work

Section 11 addresses situations where an employee performs multiple classes of work within the same employment period, each attracting a different minimum wage rate. According to the section-

- Where an employee does two or more classes of work to each of which a different minimum rate of wages is applicable, the employer shall pay to such employee in respect of the time respectively occupied in each such class of work, wages at not less than the minimum rate in force in respect of each such class.

Minimum Time Rate Wages for Piece Work

Section 12 ensures minimum time rate wages where minimum piece rate is also fixed by providing-

- Where a person is employed on piece work for which minimum time rate and not a minimum piece rate has been fixed under this Code, the employer shall pay to such person wages at not less than the minimum time rate.

Fixing Hours of Work for Normal Working Day

Section 13 empowers the Appropriate Government to regulate the hours of work constituting a normal working day.

(1) Where the minimum rates of wages have been fixed under this Code, the Appropriate Government may —

- (e) employees engaged in a work which could not be carried on except at times dependent on the irregular action of natural forces.

(3) For the purposes of clause (c) of sub-section (2), employment of an employee is essentially intermittent when it is declared to be so by the Appropriate Government on the ground that the daily hours of duty of the employee, or if there be no daily hours of duty as such for the employee, the hours of duty normally include periods of inaction during which the employee may be on duty but is not called upon to display either physical activity or sustained attention.

Wages for Overtime Work

Section 14 ensures that any work performed beyond the prescribed hours of a normal working day attracts enhanced remuneration.

Where an employee whose minimum rate of wages has been fixed under this Code by the hour, by the day or by such a longer wage-period as may be prescribed, works on any day in excess of the number of hours constituting a normal working day, the employer shall pay him for every hour or for part of an hour so worked in excess, at the overtime rate which shall not be less than twice the normal rate of wages.

CHAPTER III: PAYMENT OF WAGES

Mode of Payment of Wages

Section 15 prescribes the acceptable modes of wage payment, ensuring transparency, accountability, and ease of access for employees.

All wages shall be paid in current coin or currency notes or by cheque or by crediting the wages in the bank account of the employee or by the electronic mode:

Provided that the Appropriate Government may, by notification, specify the industrial or other establishment, the employer of which shall pay to every person employed in such industrial or other establishment, the wages only by cheque or by crediting the wages in his bank account.

Provided that different wage periods may be fixed for different establishments.

Time Limit for Payment of Wages

Section 17 ensures that employees receive their wages promptly and within defined timelines, thereby safeguarding their right to timely remuneration and preventing undue hardship caused by delayed payments.

- (1) The employer shall pay or cause to be paid wages to the employees, engaged on-
  - (i) daily basis, at the end of the shift;

the wages payable to him shall be paid within two working days of his removal, dismissal, retrenchment or, as the case may be, his resignation.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section above, the Appropriate Government may provide any other time limit for payment of wages where it considers reasonable having regard to the circumstances under which the wages are to be paid.

(4) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall affect any time limit for payment of wages provided in any other law for the time being in force.

Deductions which may be made from Wages

Section 18 establishes a closed list of permissible deductions from wages, prohibiting employers from making arbitrary or unauthorized deductions.

- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, there shall be no deductions from the wages of the employee, except those as are authorized under this Code.

What is deemed to be deduction and what does not: It is explained that for the purposes of this sub-section:-

- (a) any payment made by an employee to the employer or his agent shall be deemed to be a deduction from his wages;

- (v) deductions for such amenities and services supplied by the employer as the Appropriate Government or any officer specified by it in this behalf may, by general or special order, authorise, and such deduction shall not exceed an amount equivalent to the value of such amenities and services. It is provided via explanation that for the purposes of this clause, the expression “services” does not include the supply of tools and raw materials required for the purposes of employment;
- (vi) deductions for recovery of—
  - (i) advances of whatever nature (including advances for travelling allowance or conveyance allowance), and the interest due in respect thereof, or for adjustment of overpayment of wages;

Eligibility for Bonus, etc.

Section 26 provides for the framework for bonus entitlement of employees, linking it to wages, allocable surplus, and the profitability of establishments. (1) There shall be paid to every employee, drawing wages not exceeding such amount per mensem, as determined by notification, by the Appropriate Government, by his employer, who has put in at least thirty days work in an accounting year, an annual minimum bonus calculated at the rate of eight and one-third per cent. of the wages earned by the employee or one hundred rupees, whichever is higher whether or not the employer has any allocable surplus during the previous accounting year.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THE CODE

Expanded ESIC (Employees' State Insurance) Coverage: ESIC now applies pan-India, eliminating the criteria of "notified areas." Establishments with fewer than 10 employees may voluntarily opt in with mutual consent of employers and employees. Coverage would be mandated for hazardous occupation and extended to plantation workers.

Time-bound EPF (Employees' Provident Fund) Inquiries: A five-year limit has been set for initiating EPF inquiries and recovery proceedings, to be completed within two years (extendable by one). Suo-moto reopening of cases has been abolished, ensuring timely resolution.

Reduced EPF Appeal Deposit: Employers appealing EPFO orders now need to deposit only 25% of the assessed amount (down from 40–70%), reducing financial burden and ensuring ease of business and access to justice.

Self-assessment for Construction Cess: Employers can now self-assess cess liabilities in respect to Building and Other Construction Work, previously assessed by the notified Government authority. It reduces procedural delays and official intervention.

Inclusion of Gig and Platform Workers: New definitions are included- "aggregator," "gig worker," and "platform worker" to enable social security coverage. Aggregators to contribute 1- 2% of annual turnover (capped at 5% of payments to such workers).

Social Security Fund: A dedicated fund to finance schemes for unorganised, gig, and platform workers, covering life, disability, health, and old-age benefits has been proposed. The amount collected through the compounding of offences will be credited to this Fund and used by the Government.

Expanded Definition of Dependents: Coverage extended to maternal grandparents and in case of female employees it also includes dependent parents-in-law, broadening family benefit access.

Uniform Definition of Wages: “Wages” now include basic pay, dearness allowance, and retaining allowance; 50% of the total remuneration (or such percentage as may be notified) shall be added back to compute wages, ensuring consistency in calculating gratuity, pension, and social security benefits.

Commuting Accidents Covered: Accidents during travel between home and workplace are now deemed employment-related, qualifying for compensation.

Gratuity for Fixed-Term Employees: Fixed-term employees become eligible for gratuity after one year of continuous service (earlier five years).

Inspector-cum-Facilitator System: Introduces randomized web-based, algorithm-driven inspections for transparency and wider compliance. Inspectors now act as facilitators to support adherence and reduce harassment.

Compounding of Offences: First-time offences punishable with fines are compoundable- for fine-only: 50% of maximum fine and for fine/imprisonment cases: 75% of maximum fine- reducing litigation and improving ease of doing business.

The employer's contribution shall be ten per cent. of the wages for the time being payable to each of the employees (whether employed by him directly or by or through a contactor) and the Employee's contribution shall be equal to the contribution payable by the employer in respect of him. However, Employee's contribution may be more than 10 percent if he desires but subject to the condition that the employer shall not be under an obligation to pay any contribution over and above his contribution.

Further, the Central Government may specify establishment(s) or class of establishment(s) where the contribution for both Employee and Employer may be 12 percent in place of 10 percent as mentioned above.

Further, the employer shall also pay into the Insurance Fund such further sums of money, not exceeding one-fourth of the contribution which he is required to make under this clause, as the Central Government may, from time to time, determine to meet all the expenses in connection with the administration of the Insurance Scheme other than the expenses towards the cost of any benefits provided by or under the Insurance Scheme.

Liability in case of Contractors (Section 17)

The amount of contribution:

- (that is to say, the employer's contribution as well as the employee's contribution in pursuance of any scheme and the employer's contribution in pursuance of the Insurance Scheme) and
  - any charge for meeting the cost of administering the fund paid or payable by an employer in respect of an employee employed by or through a contractor
- may be recovered by such employer from the contractor, either by deduction from any amount payable to the contractor under any contract or as a debt payable by the contractor.

However, the contractor may recover the Employee's contribution from the such employee.

Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, no contractor shall be entitled to deduct the employer's contribution or the charges referred to in section 17(I) from the wages payable to an employee employed by or through him or otherwise to recover such contribution or charges from such employee.

Priority of Payment of Contributions over other Debts (Section 19)

Non-application of Chapter III to Certain Organisations (Section 20)

Chapter III shall not apply:

- to any establishment registered under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912 or under any other law for the time being in force in any State relating to co-operative societies employing less than fifty persons and working without the aid of power; or

- to any other establishment set up under any Central or State or any other law for the time being in force and whose employees are entitled to the benefits of contributory provident fund or old age pension in accordance with any scheme or rule framed under that law governing such benefits; or
- to the employees who, immediately before the commencement of this Code, were receiving benefits of Provident Fund under any Central or State enactment.

Further, if the Central Government is of the opinion that having regard to the financial position of any class of establishment or other circumstances of the case, it is necessary or expedient so to do, it may, by notification and subject to such conditions, as may be specified in the notification, exempt, whether prospectively or retrospectively, that class of establishments from the operation of this Chapter for such period as may be specified in the notification.

The authorization under this section may be cancelled by the Central Government by order in writing if the employer fails to comply with any of the terms and conditions of the authorisation or where he commits any offence under any provision of this Code. However, before cancelling the authorisation, the Central Government shall give the employer a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

Case Law

The date of establishment of a factory is the date when the factory starts its manufacturing process. A change in the ownership does not shift the date of establishment. A mere change in the partnership deed, does not mean that a new business has come into existence for the purpose of Section 16(1) (P.G. Textile Mills v. Union of India (1976) 1 LLJ 312).

Transfer of Accounts (Section 22)

Where an employee,—

- employed in an establishment to which this Chapter applies, relinquishes his employment therefrom and obtains employment in any other establishment to which this Chapter applies or not; or
- employed in an establishment to which this Chapter does not apply, relinquishes his employment therefrom and obtains employment in an establishment to which this Chapter applies, then, his accumulated amount in provident fund account or pension account, as the case may be, shall be transferred or dealt with in the manner as may be specified in the Provident Fund Scheme or the Pension Scheme, as the case may be.

No such appeal by the employer shall be entertained by the Tribunal unless he has deposited with Social Security Organisation concerned twenty-five per cent. of the amount due from him as determined by an officer under section 125.

The Tribunal shall endeavour to decide the appeal within a period of one year from the date on which the appeal has been preferred.

Note: As per section 2(84), “Tribunal” means the Industrial Tribunal constituted by the Appropriate Government under section 7A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

Case Law

In the case of Royal Talkies Hyderabad v. E.S.I.C., AIR 1978 SC 1476, there was a canteen and cycle stand run by private contractors in a theatre premises. On the question of whether the theatre owner will be liable as principal employer for the payment of E.S.I. contributions, the Supreme Court held that the two operations namely keeping a cycle stand and running a canteen are incidental or adjuncts to the primary purpose of the theatre and the workers engaged therein are covered by the definition of employee as given in E.S.I. Act. The Supreme Court observed that the reach and range of Section 2(9) is apparently wide and deliberately transcends pure contractual relationship.

In the case Saraswath Films vs. Regional Director, E.S.I. dated 1st May, 2002, the security guards engaged on the premises of cinema hall discharge the duty of checking tickets of persons seeking entry into the hall, which work is directly and intrinsically a part of the work of the establishment. The Hon'ble Supreme Court Stated that "a person whose services are temporarily lent or let on hire to the principal employer by the person with whom the person whose services are so lent or let on hire has entered into a contract of services is also brought within the purview of the statute."

Contribution (Section 29)

The contribution payable under Chapter IV in respect of an employee shall comprise contribution payable by the employer and contribution payable by the employee and shall be paid to the Corporation.

The contributions shall be paid at such rates as may be prescribed by the Central Government. The wage period in relation to an employee shall be the unit as specified in the regulations in respect of which all contributions shall be payable under Chapter IV.

The employer shall pay in respect of every employee, whether directly employed by him or by or through a contractor, both the employer's contribution and the employee's contribution.

Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, but subject to the provisions of this Code and the rules and regulations, if any, made thereunder in this behalf, the employer shall, in the case of an employee directly employed by him (not being an exempted employee), be entitled to recover from the employee the employee's contribution by reduction from his wages and not otherwise. However, no such deduction shall be made from any wages other than such as relates to the period or part of the period in respect of which the contribution is payable or in excess of the sum representing the employee's contribution for the period.

Notwithstanding any contract to the contrary, neither the employer nor the contractor shall be entitled to deduct the employer's contribution from any wages payable to an employee or otherwise to recover it from him.

Any sum deducted by the employer from wages under this Chapter shall be deemed to have been entrusted to him by the employee for the purpose of paying the contribution in respect of which it was deducted. The employer shall bear the expenses of remitting the contributions to the Corporation.

An employer, who has paid contribution in respect of an employee employed by or through a contractor, shall be entitled to recover the amount of the contribution so paid from the contractor, either by deduction from any amount payable to him by the employer under any contract, or as a debt payable by the contractor.

  - (ii) if the services of such employee have been terminated for any act which constitutes an offence involving moral turpitude, provided such offence is committed by him in the course of his employment.

Continuous Service (Section 54)

(A) An employee shall be said to be in continuous service for a period if he has, for that period, been in uninterrupted service, including service which may be interrupted on account of sickness, accident, leave, absence from duty without leave (not being absence in respect of which an order treating the absence as break in service has been passed in accordance with the standing orders, rules or regulations governing the employees of the establishment), lay-off, strike or a lock-out or cessation of work not due to any fault of the employee, whether such uninterrupted or interrupted service was rendered before or after the commencement of this Code.

(B) where an employee (not being an employee employed in a seasonal establishment) is not in continuous service within the meaning of clause (A), for any period of one year or six months, he shall be deemed to be in continuous service under the employer—

- (a) for the said period of one year, if the employee during the period of twelve calendar months preceding the date with reference to which calculation is to be made, has actually worked under the employer for not less than—
  - (i) one hundred and ninety days, in the case of any employee employed below the ground in a mine or in an establishment which works for less than six days in a week; and
  - (ii) two hundred and forty days, in any other case;

(b) for the said period of six months, if the employee during the period of six calendar months preceding the date with reference to which the calculation is to be made, has actually worked under the employer for not less than—

- (i) ninety-five days, in the case of an employee employed below the ground in a mine or in an establishment which works for less than six days in a week; and
- (ii) one hundred and twenty days, in any other case.

Explanation.— For the purposes of this clause, the number of days on which an employee has actually worked under an employer shall include the days on which—

- (i) he has been laid-off under an agreement or as permitted by standing orders made under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946 (20 of 1946), or under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (14 of 1947), or under any other law applicable to the establishment;*

- (iii) he has been absent due to temporary disablement caused by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment; and*
- (iv) in the case of a female, she has been on maternity leave; so, however, that the total period of such maternity leave does not exceed twenty-six weeks.*

Gratuity cannot be claimed on the basis of continuous service on being taken back in service after break in service of one and a half year on account of termination of service for taking part in an illegal strike, where the employee had accepted gratuity for previous service and later withdrawn from the industrial dispute (Baluram v. Phoenix Mills Ltd., 1999 CLA Bom.19).

3. If at the time of making a nomination the employee has no family, the nomination may be made in favour of any person or persons but if the employee subsequently acquires a family, such nomination shall forthwith become invalid and the employee shall make, within such time as may be prescribed by the Appropriate Government, a fresh nomination in favour of one or more members of his family.

4. A nomination may be modified by an employee at any time, after giving to his employer a written intimation of his intention to do so in such form and in such manner as may be prescribed.

The employer shall arrange to pay the amount of gratuity within thirty days from the date it becomes payable to the person to whom the gratuity is payable.

Interest in case of Non-payment

If the amount of gratuity payable is not paid by the employer within the period specified, the employer shall pay, from the date on which the gratuity becomes payable to the date on which it is paid, simple interest at such rate, not exceeding the rate notified by the Central Government from time to time for repayment of long term deposits.

No such interest shall be payable if the delay in the payment is due to the fault of the employee and the employer has obtained permission in writing from the competent authority for the delayed payment on this ground.

Payment of gratuity in case of dispute

If there is any dispute as to the amount of gratuity payable to an employee under this Chapter or as to the admissibility of any claim of, or in relation to, an employee for payment of gratuity, or as to the person entitled to receive the gratuity, the employer shall deposit with the competent authority such amount as he admits to be payable by him as gratuity.

Where there is a dispute with regard to any matter or matters specified above, the employer or employee or any other person raising the dispute may make an application to the competent authority in the form prescribed by the Appropriate Government for deciding the dispute.

The competent authority shall, after due inquiry and after giving the parties to the dispute a reasonable opportunity of being heard, determine the matter or matters in dispute and if, as a result of such inquiry any amount is found to be payable to the employee, the competent authority shall direct the employer to pay such amount or, as the case may be, such amount as reduced by the amount already deposited by the employer.

The competent authority shall pay the amount deposited, including the excess amount, if any, deposited by the employer, to the person entitled thereto.

As soon as may be after a deposit is made, the competent authority shall pay the amount of the deposit—

- (i) to the applicant where he is the employee; or
- (ii) where the applicant is not the employee, to the nominee or, as the case may be, the guardian of such nominee or heir of the employee if the competent authority is satisfied that there is no dispute as to the right of the applicant to receive the amount of gratuity.

Any person aggrieved may, within sixty days from the date of the receipt of the order, prefer an appeal to the Appropriate Government or such other authority as may be specified by the Appropriate Government in this behalf.

However, the Appropriate Government or the Appellate Authority, as the case may be, may, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from preferring the appeal within the said period of sixty days, extend the said period by a further period of sixty days.

No appeal by an employer shall be admitted unless at the time of preferring the appeal, the appellant either produces a certificate of the competent authority to the effect that the appellant has deposited with him an amount equal to the amount of gratuity required to be deposited, or deposits with the Appellate Authority such amount.

The Appropriate Government or the Appellate Authority, may, after giving the parties to the appeal a reasonable opportunity of being heard, confirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the competent authority.

However, different dates may be appointed for different establishments or class of establishments or for different areas.

Exemption from the Insurance Provisions

The Appropriate Government may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by the Central Government, exempt any employer who had already established an approved gratuity fund in respect of his employees and who desires to continue such arrangement, and every employer employing five hundred or more persons who establishes an approved gratuity fund in the manner prescribed by the Central Government.

Consequence of Non-payment of Gratuity or premium

Where an employer fails to make any payment by way of premium in respect of the insurance or by way of contribution to an approved gratuity fund, he shall be liable to pay the amount of gratuity due under this Chapter (including interest, if any, for delayed payments) forthwith to the competent authority.

Case Laws

In the case of Sukhai v. Hukam Chand Jute Mills Ltd., A.I.R. 1957 Cal. 601, it was observed: “If a workman suffers as a result of an injury from a physical defect which does not in fact reduce his capacity to work but at the same time makes his labour unsaleable in any market reasonably accessible to him, there will be either total incapacity for work when no work is available to him at all or there will be a partial incapacity when such defect makes his labour saleable for less than it would otherwise fetch. The capacity of a workman may remain quite unimpaired, but at the same time his eligibility as an employee may be diminished or lost if such a result ensue by the reason of the results of an accident, although the accident has not really reduced the capacity of the workman to work. He can establish a right to compensation, provided he proves by satisfactory evidence that he has applied to a reasonable number of likely employers for employment, but had been turned away on account of the results of the accident visible on his person.”

If after the accident a worker has become disabled, and cannot do a particular job but the employer offers him another kind of job, the worker is entitled to compensation for partial disablement (General Manager, G.I.P. Rly. v. Shankar, A.I.R. 1950 Nag. 307).

The expression incapacitates a workman for all work does not mean capacity to work or physical incapacity. If due to any physical defect, a workman is unable to get any work which a workman of his class ordinarily performs, and has thus lost the power to earn he is entitled to compensation for total disablement (Ball v. William Hunt & Sons Ltd., 1912 A.C. 496). It is immaterial that the workman is physically fit to perform some work. Thus, where a workman, though physically capable of doing the work cannot get employment in spite of his best efforts, he becomes incapacitated for all work and hence entitled to compensation for total disablement.

Loss of physical capacity is co-extensive with loss of earning capacity but loss of earning is not so coextensive with loss of physical capacity as he may be getting the same wages even though there may be loss of physical capacity. In a case permanent partial disability caused to a workman in accident while working on ship, e.g. getting pain in his left hand and experiencing difficulty in lifting weights, it was held that workman can be said to have lost his earning capacity even though getting same amount of wages as before Mangru Palji v. Robinsons, 1978 Lab. I.C. 1567 (Bom.). Where it is not a scheduled injury the loss of earning capacity must be proved by evidence.

Where the workman, a driver of bus belonging to the employer was involved in an accident which resulted in an impairment of the free movement of his left hand disabling him from driving vehicles, it was held that this is not one of the injuries mentioned in the 1st Schedule which are accepted to result in permanent total disablement. In the present case the workman was also capable of performing duties and executing works other than driving vehicles. Nature of injury to be determined not on the basis of the work he was doing at the time of accident (Divisional Manager KSRTC v. Bhimaiah, 1977 II L.L.J. 521).

In the case of Smt. Sunderbai v. The General Manager, Ordinance Factory Khamaria, Jabalpur, 1976 Lac. I.C. 1163 (MP), the Madhya Pradesh High Court has clarified the difference between accident and injury. Accident means an untoward mishap which is not expected or designed by workman, 'Injury' means physiological injury. Accident and injury are distinct in cases where accident is an event happening externally to a man, e.g., where a workman falls from the ladder and suffers injuries. But accident may be an event happening internally to a man and in such cases accident and injury coincide. Such cases are illustrated by failure of heart and the like, while the workman is doing his normal work. Physiological injury suffered by a workman mainly due to the progress of disease unconnected with employment may amount to an injury arising out of and in the course of employment if the work, that the workman was doing at the time of the occurrence of the injury contributed to its occurrence. The connection between employment must be furnished by ordinary strain of ordinary work if the strain did in fact contribute to accelerate or hasten the injury. The burden of proof is on applicant to prove the connection of employment and injury.

It is well settled that the concept of "duty" is not limited to the period of time the workman actually commenced his work and the time he downs his tools. It extends further in point of time as well as place. But there must be nexus between the time and place of the accident and the employment. If the presence of the workman concerned at the particular point was so related to the employment as to lead to the conclusion that he was acting within the scope of employment that would be sufficient to deem the accident as having occurred in the course of employment [Weaver v. Tradegar Iron and Coal Co. Ltd., (1940) 3 All, ER 15].

Amount of Compensation (Section 76)

The amount of compensation shall be:

- In case of death: Where death results from the injury, an amount equal to fifty per cent. of the monthly wages of the deceased employee multiplied by the relevant factor or an amount as may be notified by the Central Government from time to time, whichever is more.

- In case of Permanent Total Disablement: Where permanent total disablement results from the injury, an amount equal to sixty per cent. of the monthly wages of the injured employee multiplied by the relevant factor or an amount as may be notified by the Central Government from time to time, whichever is more.

However, the Central Government may enhance the amount of compensation in both the above situations.

“Relevant factor”, in relation to an employee means the factor specified in column (3) of the Sixth Schedule relating to factors against the corresponding entry in column (2) thereof, specifying the number of years which are the same as the completed years of the age of the employee on his last birthday immediately preceding the date on which the compensation fell due.

- In case of permanent partial disablement: Where permanent partial disablement results from the injury:

(i) in the case of an injury specified in Part II of the Fourth Schedule, such percentage of the compensation which would have been payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is specified therein as being the percentage of the loss of earning capacity caused by that injury; and

(ii) in the case of an injury not specified in the Fourth Schedule, such percentage of the compensation payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is proportionate to the loss of earning capacity (as assessed by the medical practitioner) permanently caused by the injury.

- In case of temporary disablement: Where temporary disablement, whether total or partial, results from the injury, a half-monthly payment of the sum equivalent to twenty-five per cent. of monthly wages of the employee, to be paid in accordance with the provisions of section 76(4).

While fixing the amount of compensation payable to an employee in respect of an accident which occurred outside India, the competent authority shall take into account the amount of compensation, if any, awarded to such employee in accordance with the law of the country in which the accident occurred and shall reduce the amount fixed by him by the amount of compensation awarded to the employee in accordance with the law of that country.

The employee shall be reimbursed, the actual medical expenditure incurred by him for treatment of injuries caused during the course of employment, by his employer. On the ceasing of the disablement before the date on which any half-monthly payment falls due, there shall be payable in respect of that half-month a sum proportionate to the duration of the disablement in that half-month.

If the injury of the employee results in his death, the employer shall, in addition to the compensation as mentioned above, deposit with the competent authority a sum of not less than fifteen thousand rupees or such amount as may be prescribed by the State Government, for payment of the same to the eldest surviving dependant of the employee towards the expenditure of the funeral of such employee or where the employee did not have a dependant or was not living with his dependant at the time of his death, to the person who actually incurred such expenditure.

When Compensation to be Paid (Section 77)

Compensation under section 76 shall be paid as soon as it falls due. In cases where the employer does not accept the liability for compensation to the extent claimed, he shall be bound to make provisional payment based on the extent of liability which he accepts, and, such payment shall be deposited with the competent authority or made to the employee, as the case may be, without prejudice to the right of the employee to make any further claim.

In case employer defaults in paying the compensation

Where any employer is in default in paying the compensation due under Chapter VII within one month from the date it fell due, the competent authority shall:

- (a) direct that the employer shall, in addition to the amount of the arrears, pay interest at such rate as may be prescribed by the Central Government, on the amount due; and
- (b) if in his opinion, there is no justification for the delay, direct that the employer shall, in addition to the amount of the arrears and interest thereon, pay a further sum not exceeding fifty per cent. of such amount of arrears by way of damages.

However, an order for the payment of damages shall not be passed without giving a reasonable opportunity to the employer to show cause as to why it should not be passed.

The interest and the damages payable under sub-section (3) shall be paid to the employee or his dependant.

Method of Calculating Monthly Wages for purposes of Compensation (Section 78)

For the purposes of Chapter VII, the expression “monthly wages” means the amount of wages deemed to be payable for a month's service (whether the wages are payable by the month or by whatever other period or at piece rates), and calculated as follows:

In case of continuous period of at least 12 months: Where the employee has, during a continuous period of not less than twelve months immediately preceding the accident, been in the service of the employer who is liable to pay compensation, the monthly wages of the employee shall be one-twelfth of the total wages which have fallen due for payment to him by the employer in the last twelve months of that period.

1/12th of total wages during last twelve months

In case of period less than 1 months: Where the whole of the continuous period of service immediately preceding the accident during which the employee was in the service of the employer who is liable to pay the compensation was less than one month, the monthly wages of the employee shall be the average monthly amount which, during the twelve months immediately preceding the accident, was being earned by an employee employed on the same work by the same employer, or, if there was no employee so employed, by an employee employed on similar work in the same locality.

Average monthly amount during the twelve months earned by an employee employed on the same work by the same employer or

If there was no employee so employed, by an employee employed on similar work in the same locality

However, the competent authority may entertain and decide any claim to compensation in any case notwithstanding that the notice has not been given, or the claim has not been preferred in due time, if he is satisfied that the failure so to give the notice or prefer the claim, as the case may be, was due to sufficient cause.

Every such notice shall give the name and address of the person injured and shall state the cause of the injury and the date on which the accident happened, and shall be served on the employer or upon any one of several employers, or upon any person responsible to the employer for the management of any branch of the trade or business in which the injured employee was employed.

Other Provisions

Where an injured employee is discharged or left behind in any part of India or in any foreign country, then, any depositions taken by any Judge or Magistrate in that part or by any Consular Officer in the foreign country and transmitted by the person by whom they are taken to the Central Government or any State Government shall, in any proceedings for enforcing the claim, be admissible in evidence—

Medical Examination (Section 84)

Where an employee has given notice of an accident, he, shall, if the employer, before the expiry of three days from the time at which service of the notice has been effected, offers to have him examined free of charge by a medical practitioner, submit himself for such examination, and any employee who is in receipt of a half-monthly payment under Chapter VII shall, if so required, submit himself for such examination from time to time. However, an employee shall not be required to submit himself for examination by a medical practitioner at more than such frequent interval as may be prescribed by the State Government.

If an employee, on being required to do so by the employer under section 84(1) or by the competent authority at any time, refuses to submit himself for examination by a medical practitioner or in any way obstructs the same, his right to compensation shall be suspended during the continuance of such refusal or obstruction unless in the case of refusal, he was prevented by any sufficient cause from so submitting himself.

If an employee, before the expiry of the period within which he is liable under section 84(1) to be required to submit himself for medical examination, voluntarily leaves the vicinity of the place in which he was employed without having been so examined, his right to compensation shall be suspended until he returns and offers himself for such examination. However, where such employee proves before the medical practitioner that he could not so submit himself for medical examination due to the circumstances beyond his control and he was also handicapped to communicate such information in writing, the medical practitioner may after recording such reasons in writing, condone the delay and his right to compensation shall be revived as if no such suspension was made.

When an employee, whose right to compensation has been suspended, dies without having submitted himself for medical examination as required, the competent authority may, if he thinks fit, direct the payment of compensation to the dependants of the deceased employee.

Where a right to compensation is suspended, no compensation shall be payable in respect of the period of suspension, and, if the period of suspension commences before the expiry of the waiting period, the waiting period shall be increased by the period during which the suspension continues.

Where an injured employee has refused to be attended by a medical practitioner whose services have been offered to him by the employer free of charge or having accepted such offer has deliberately disregarded the instructions of such medical practitioner, then, if it is proved that the employee has not thereafter been regularly attended by a medical practitioner or having been so attended has deliberately failed to follow his instructions and that such refusal, disregard or failure was unreasonable in the circumstances of the case and that the injury has been aggravated thereby, the injury and resulting disablement shall be deemed to be of the same nature and duration as they might reasonably have been expected to be if the employee had been regularly attended by a medical practitioner, whose instructions he had followed, and compensation, if any, shall be payable accordingly.

Compensations in case of Employees through Contracting (Section 85)

Where any employer in the course of or for the purposes of his trade or business contracts with a contractor for the execution by or under the contractor of the whole or any part of any work which is ordinarily part of the trade or business of the employer, the employer shall be liable to pay to any employee employed in the execution of the work any compensation, which he would have been liable to pay if that employee had been immediately employed by him; and that the amount of compensation shall be calculated with reference to the wages of the employee under the employer by whom he is immediately employed.

Where the employer is liable to pay compensation under section 85, he shall be entitled to be indemnified by the contractor, or any other person from whom the employee could have recovered the compensation and where a contractor who is himself an employer is liable to pay compensation or to indemnify an employer under this section, he shall be entitled to be indemnified by any person standing to him in relation of a contractor from whom the employee could have recovered the compensation, and all questions as to the right to and the amount of any such indemnity shall, in default of agreement, be settled by the competent authority.

Nothing in section 84 shall be construed as preventing an employee from recovering compensation referred above from the contractor instead of the employer.

The provisions of section 84 shall not apply in any case where the accident occurred elsewhere than on, in or about the premises on which the employer has undertaken or usually undertakes, as the case may be, to execute the work or which are otherwise under his control or management.

Remedies of Employer against Stranger (Section 86)

Registration of Agreements (Section 89)

Where the amount of any lump sum payable as compensation has been settled by agreement, whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or where any compensation has been so settled as being payable to a woman, or a person under a legal disability, a memorandum thereof shall be sent by the employer to the competent authority, who shall, on being satisfied as to its genuineness, record the memorandum in a register, electronically or otherwise, in such manner as may be prescribed by the Appropriate Government.

Provided that—

- (a) no such memorandum shall be recorded before seven days after communication by the competent authority of notice to the parties concerned;
- (b) the competent authority may at any time rectify the register;
- (c) where it appears to the competent authority that an agreement as to the payment of a lump sum whether by way of redemption of a half-monthly payment or otherwise, or an agreement as to the amount of compensation payable, to a woman or a person under a legal disability ought not to be registered by reason of the inadequacy of the sum or amount, or by reason of the agreement having been obtained by fraud or undue influence or other improper means, the competent authority may refuse to record the memorandum of the agreement and may make such order including an order as to any sum already paid under the agreement, as the competent authority thinks just in the circumstances.

An agreement for the payment of compensation which has been registered as above shall be enforceable under this Code notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, or in any other law for the time being in force.

Where a memorandum of any agreement, the registration of which is required under this section, is not sent to the competent authority as required by this section, the employer shall be liable to pay the full amount of compensation which he is liable to pay under the provisions of Chapter VII, and notwithstanding anything contained in the proviso to section 76(1), shall not, unless the competent authority otherwise directs, be entitled to deduct more than half of any amount paid to the employee by way of compensation whether under the agreement or otherwise.

Form of Application (Section 93)

Where an accident occurs in respect of which liability to pay compensation under Chapter VII arises, a claim for such compensation may, subject to the provisions of this Chapter, be made before the competent authority. Subject to this, no application for the settlement of any matter by competent authority, other than an application by a dependant or joint application by dependants for compensation, shall be made unless and until some question has arisen between the parties in connection therewith which they have been unable to settle by agreement.

Further, an application to a competent authority for claim or settlement may be made electronically or otherwise in such form and in such manner accompanied by such fee, if any, as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

The time-limit for the disposal of applications under this section and the costs incidental to the proceedings under this section to be imposed by the competent authority shall be such as may be prescribed by the State Government.

Further, no appeal shall lie in any case in which the parties have agreed to abide by the decision of the competent authority, or in which the order of the competent authority gives effect to an agreement arrived at by the parties.

Moreover, no appeal by an employer under clause (a) shall lie unless the memorandum of appeal is accompanied by a certificate by the competent authority to the effect that the appellant has deposited with him the amount payable under the order appealed against.
