

Dear Professional Colleagues

Greetings from ICSI

The Cabinet recently approved Bills related to Goods & Services Tax, which will be slated in the Parliament for July 1, 2017 rollout. The final rules, rate fitments and other modalities are being concluded at a rapid pace by the GST Council. GST is now on the threshold of implementation.

GST follows the principle of “One Tax One Market One Nation” concept and will unify the Indian economy along with promoting the “Make in India” initiative. GST seeks to empower India on a global platform.

It gives me immense pleasure to inform you that the previous two series of “Master Classes on GST” fetched a tremendous response and in this view, Institute has launched yet another series of Webinars on GST covering issues like Migration, Transition, Valuation, Refunds etc. The schedule for the same is as under:

Schedule of Master Classes on Goods and Services Tax

Sl. No.	Day & Date	Topic
1	Friday, April 7, 2017	Basics of GST
2	Thursday, April 13, 2017	Supply- Concept and Valuation
3	Friday, April 21, 2017	Supply- Place and Time
4	Friday, April 28, 2017	To be decided
5	Friday, May 5, 2017	Input Tax Credit
6	Friday, May 12, 2017	Registration and Returns
7	Friday, May 19, 2017	Migration to GST and Transitional Provisions

I sincerely, call upon all the members and students to equip themselves for the upcoming professional prospects and participate in the webinars.

I am sure this webinar series will receive an equally encouraging response from the students, members and the public at large. It aims at creating awareness about the provisions and mechanics of the upcoming GST regime and enhances the capacity building measures of the Institute in this area.

Stay tuned!

Regards
