OBJECTIVE & SCOPE OF THE COURSE

SEBI said “companies should have a woman independent director to have a more meaningful voice on the board and encourage diversity in its true sense. An independent director has a non-executive role and helps the company improve corporate credibility and governance standards.” In order to promote gender diversity in the boardroom the Companies Act, 2013 and Securities Exchange Board of India (SEBI) prescribed and mandated that listed entities in India should have at least one woman on the board either independent or executive.

Realizing the ardent need for infusing “right level of confidence” in today's women directors in the corporate world, the Institute announces Certificate Course for Women Directors” resulting as a platform to provide women aspiring to become director, a whole vista of opportunities, right direction to walk on and requisite skills.
