He assured the students that all guidance as required by them would be provided at EIRC so that they can have better preparations for December Examinations. He motivated them to do hard work for the exams and that success is not far off. He also informed the students that the study material provided by the institute is of quality and knowledge and should be the base for preparation.

CS Rajesh Chura motivated the students who are appearing in the exams. He took real life examples of Bill Gates, Warren Buffet to explain the importance of perseverance to the students and how these great people reached the peak of their success. Inspiring the students, he said that everyone is bound to achieve zenith of excellence through continuous effort and constant guidance.

CS Deepak Kumar Khaitan shared personal experience of his student life with the students. He motivated the students with his journey as to how he became a successful Company Secretary. He guided them to strive for excellence highlighting the goal of the profession, i.e., ‘In pursuit of professional excellence’.

CS Siddhartha Murarka shared his experience and journey of being a successful Company Secretary with the students. He guided them to make good use of the Institute’s academic resources and library facilities for better preparation in examinations. He said that continuous hard work and systematic approach will definitely bring flying colors. He advised the students to keep their academic and personal life separate and not to inter-mingle them.

CS Vikram Agarwal in his deliberation discussed in details about how to start the examination preparations. He told the students to prepare a lesson plan for all the subjects so that every subject can be judiciously studied. He suggested the students to practice some topics in writing so as to improve the speed and comprehension in the exam. He asked the students to highlight the important sections and important point in the book itself for quick revision during the exam time. He also suggested them to prepare a brief summary of the chapters for better understanding.
During the open-house session, queries and suggestions were well taken up by the CS Vikram Agarwal, Faculty Sh S.Sreejesh, AD, ICSI EIRO, CS Suruchi Verma, Academic Consultant, ICSI EIRO. Sh Shashi Bhushan Prasad. Some students from the foundation programme batch of the CRT-EIRC opined that mock test for all their MCQ papers should be arranged so that they can get the confidence for final examination as it the first time for them. In this context, it was assured that the students that the mock tests can be conducted by the Academic Coordinator which would be evaluated by her and then the students can be apprised of their performance and lacuna.

Shri Sreejesh also briefed about the facilities available at EIRC Library and motivated them to utilize the resources/facilities for their preparation for examination. The Library at EIRC has also been well facilitated with all e-learning resources and latest books including the new MCQ pattern scanners. EIRO officials assured the students that all the facilities are available for them and it is their prerogative to make the best use of them.

Wishing the students good luck for their examinations, the meeting concluded.
