Dear Students,

I am reminded of Oliver Wendell Holmes, an American judge of 19th Century, who has said, I quote “to be master of any branch of knowledge, you must master those that lie next to it”. No doubt professionals need to be well equipped in terms of knowledge and professional competence, it is equally important for them to possess soft skills enabling them to gain a competitive edge in the dynamic global environment.

Soft skill is an innate, in born ability to influence others for the good of all. It is an ability that is participative while being creative, an interpersonal skill that makes both sides happy and enthusiastic to perform a given task. It can nevertheless be developed by observation, training and self-learning. Development of soft skills requires continuous introspection, hard work, observation, self-effort, rigorous training, willing participation, SWOT analysis, planned cultivation of good habits, in short, continuous self-discovery inside out. In the initial years of one’s professional career, technical abilities are important to get good assignments. However, when it comes to growing in an organisation, it is his personality that matters, more so in large organisations where several people with similar technical expertise compete for higher positions.

Companies are not only assessing the professionals on their technical abilities, but they are now assessing them on a whole host of soft skill competencies also. A professional’s ability to handle the soft skills side of business like influencing, communicating, team management, delegating, appraising, presenting, motivating is now recognised as key to making businesses more profitable and better places to work. The most progressive companies are looking for people’s ability to communicate clearly and openly, and to listen and respond empathetically. Equally they also want their professionals to have well-honed writing skills so that their correspondence with their stakeholders does not undo all the good work their face-to-face communication creates. As per Experts “It is essential to be technically sound, but one should also have the ability to convey the idea to the masses in the simplest possible manner.”

Professional skills may teach one how to meet the expectations of the job, but soft skills teach one to succeed, and to exceed expectations. Soft skills define one’s approach towards work, life, problems, etc. The best part about mastering them is that the application of these skills is not limited to one’s profession, but their scope reaches all aspects of life. It is the soft skills that allow you to ensure fructification of your professional skills. Superior performance depends on how well a professional handles himself and others around the work-space. Soft skills therefore complement the professional skills. It is imperative for professionals like Company Secretaries to have wider range of professional as well as soft skills.

With a vision to be the global leader in 21st Century, the Institute embarked upon spreading the wings programme in the year 2004 and ever since has pursued it with missionary zeal. I feel happy to share with you that this has brought to our profession more focus, visibility and acceptability among the global community of Company Secretaries. Regular interaction with professional bodies of Company Secretaries abroad, setting up of International Federation of Company Secretaries and organisation of International Professional Development Fellowship Programmes have been the driving force behind the recognition of Company Secretaries as governance professionals not only among the corporates and regulatory authorities but also the multilateral bodies like World Bank, OECD, Global Corporate Governance Forum (GCGF), and International Corporate Governance Network (ICGN) etc.

These constant efforts further reinforced the thinking process of larger bodies of Company Secretaries world over towards the need for a common platform for promoting and protecting the interest of Company Secretaries and to propagate good corporate governance practices at global level. This reinforced thinking culminated into official launching of Corporate Governance

The reasonable man adapts himself to the world; the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends upon the unreasonable man.

- George Bernard Shaw
From the President

Secretaries International Association (CSIA) on March 22, 2010 at Paris with Chartered Secretaries Australia Ltd., The Hong Kong Institute of Chartered Secretaries, The Institute of Company Secretaries of India, The Malaysian Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators, The Singapore Association of the Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators, Southern African Institute of Chartered Secretaries & Administrators, The Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators, UK, Institute of Chartered Secretaries & Administrators in Zimbabwe, as its founder members. Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators in Canada, Chartered Secretaries New Zealand Inc. and Society of Corporate Secretaries and Governance Professionals, Inc., USA have joined the CSIA as affiliate members. I am sure with CSIA being in place, the profession of Company Secretaries will have its voice heard at international forum like WTO.

On this note I conclude by stating that the eyes of the world are keenly watching us as we break the shackles of constraints to emerge renewed and vibrant. It is, therefore, imperative for professionals to put their best and gear up to embrace winning strategies, widen the perspective and come out as winners in globalised competition game. We have to strive relentlessly for progress and excellence. We should not be content with being the best in India. We must be prepared to run the race with the rest of the world.

With best wishes,
April 14, 2010

Yours sincerely,

CONVERGENCE OF INDIAN ACCOUNTING STANDARDS WITH INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL REPORTING STANDARDS (IFRS)

International Financial Reporting Standards are now becoming universal reporting language. In tune with the global trend the Government of India decided to facilitate the convergence of the Indian Accounting Standards with IFRS by 1st April 2011. In India, Accounting Standards are formulated by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. Of the 32 Accounting Standards issued by the ICAI, 29 have already been notified by the Central Government under the Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules 2006. The Government and the Institute are fully geared to take up the challenge of the convergence of Indian Accounting Standards with IFRS being formulated by International Accounting Standards Board. In this direction all the existing Indian Accounting Standards are being revised and other Accounting Standards corresponding to International Accounting Standards/International Financial Reporting Standards are being issued and finalized.

Transition from the Indian Generally Accepted Accounting Practices to the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) gained momentum with the formation of a Core Group set up by Ministry of Corporate Affairs with participation from the regulatory authorities and industry representatives. Further, two sub-groups are also constituted with a view to identifying the various legal and regulatory changes required for convergence and to prepare a roadmap for achieving the convergence as well as to interact with various stakeholders from business and industry to understand their concerns on the issue of convergence with IFRSs, identify problem areas and ascertain the preparedness of the industry for such convergence.

Recently, based on the recommendations of the Core Group set up to facilitate IFRS convergence in India, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs has announced the approach and timelines for achieving convergence with IFRS.

Manner of achieving convergence
There will be two separate sets of Accounting Standards under Section 211(3C) of the Companies Act, 1956. The first set would comprise the Indian Accounting Standards, which are converged with the IFRS and shall be applicable to the specified class of companies in a phased manner. The second set would comprise the existing Indian Accounting Standards and would be applicable to other companies, including Small and Medium Companies (SMC).

Timelines for convergence
Convergence with IFRS is planned in three phases as set out below:

Phase 1 - Companies covered in this phase will prepare an opening balance sheet in accordance with IFRS converged standards as of 1 April 2011 and will follow the IFRS converged standards from this date. The following companies will be covered in Phase 1:
- Companies included in the Nifty 50;
- Companies included in the Sensex 30;
- Companies which have shares or other securities listed on stock exchanges outside India; and
- Companies (whether listed or not) which have a net worth in excess of Rs.1,000 crores.

Phase 2 - Companies covered in this phase will prepare an opening balance sheet in accordance with IFRS converged standards as of 1 April 2013 and will follow the IFRS converged standards from this date. All companies (whether listed or not) with a net worth in excess of Rs.500 crores but less than Rs.1,000 crores, will be covered in Phase 2.

Phase 3 - Companies covered in this phase will prepare an opening balance sheet in accordance with IFRS converged standards as of 1 April 2014 and will follow the IFRS converged standards from this date. All listed companies with net worth less than Rs.500 crores will be covered in Phase 3.

The following categories of companies will not be required to follow the IFRS converged standards:
- Non-listed companies which have a net worth less than Rs.500 crores and whose shares or other securities are not listed on stock exchanges outside India; and
- Other defined Small and Medium Companies (SMC).

Such companies will need to follow the existing accounting standards. However, such entities may also voluntarily opt to follow the IFRS converged standards.

Background of IFRS
Since 1973 the International Accounting Standards Council (IASC) has been formulating International Accounting Standards (IAS) that have been accepted by many multinational companies and endorsed by many countries as their own standards. In 2001 the IASC was restructured and renamed as the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB). This Board adopted existing IAS and assumed the responsibility of setting new standards which came to be known as International Financial Reporting Standards. The main objective of the IASB is to develop a single set of high quality, understandable and enforceable global accounting standards to help participants in various capital markets and other users of information to make economic decisions. In the past, most nations developed their own local Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). These along with other local laws and regulations determined how accountants would prepare financial statements. The advent of IFRS has brought with it the choice of adopting a globally accepted set of standards instead of using local GAAP.

International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs) comprise the following:
(a) International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs) - Standards issued after 2001
(b) International Accounting Standards (IASs) - Standards issued before 2001
(c) Interpretations originated from the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) - issued after 2001
(d) Interpretations issued by the Standing Interpretations Committee (SIC) - issued before 2001.

Advantages of Adoption of IFRS
Adoption of IFRS by Indian corporate is going to be rewarding one. Indian companies are likely to reap significant benefits from adopting IFRS. It is expected to result in better quality of financial reporting due to consistent application of accounting principles and improvement in reliability of financial statements. This, in turn, will lead to increased trust and reliance placed by investors, analysts and other stakeholders in a company’s financial statements. As the CFO of today is confronted with the challenge of multitude of reporting under different accounting frameworks, a single set of robust and well-understood standards would be far more effective in promoting high-quality financial reporting.

The convergence with IFRS would save companies undertaking significant reconciliation procedures, which otherwise results in additional costs and the risk of being exposed to errors in reporting under the different accounting frameworks. The convergence of accounting standards would eliminate costs of multiple sets of accounting and provide greater opportunities for professionals around the globe. Converging of entire world towards IFRS will throw open entire new area of opportunities for professionals through out the world more so for professionals in country like India.

The adoption of IFRS will enhance the credibility of the company’s financial statements and will provide easy access to foreign capital. It would benefit the economy by increasing growth of its international business and at the same time would facilitate maintenance of orderly and efficient capital markets which helps to increase the capital formation leading to economic growth. As a result, it would encourage international investing which leading to more foreign direct investment in the country. The industry will be able to raise money from foreign markets provided they enjoyed confidence of foreign investors that their financial statements comply with globally accepted accounting standards.

High quality global financial reporting standards enhance the comparability of financial information. They improve the efficiency of allocation and the pricing of capital. It benefits not only those who provide debt or equity capital but also those who seek capital, because it reduces their compliance costs and removes uncertainties that affect the cost of capital.

UNDERSTANDING DECISION MAKING PROCESS UNDER WTO AND SEVENTH WTO MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE

Highest Authority: the Ministerial Conference

WTO belongs to its members. The countries make their decisions through various councils and committees, whose membership consists of all WTO members. Topmost is the Ministerial Conference which has to meet at least once every two years. The Ministerial Conference can take decisions on all matters under any of the multilateral trade agreements under WTO. The WTO is run by its member governments. Decisions are normally taken by consensus.

Following Ministerial Conferences have been held so far –
6. Sixth Ministerial Conference at Hong Kong on December 13-18, 2005.

WTO rules impose disciplines on countries’ policies based on the outcome of negotiations among WTO members. The rules are enforced by the members themselves under agreed procedures that they negotiated, including the possibility of trade sanctions. But those sanctions are imposed by member countries, and authorized by the membership as a whole.

Second level: General Council

Day-to-day work in between the ministerial conferences is carried out by three bodies:
1. The General Council
2. The Dispute Settlement Body
3. The Trade Policy Review Body

All three are in fact the same — the Agreement Establishing the WTO states they are all the General Council, although they meet under different terms of reference. They consist of all WTO members and report to the Ministerial Conference.

The General Council acts on behalf of the Ministerial Conference on all WTO affairs. It meets as the Dispute Settlement Body and the Trade Policy Review Body to oversee procedures for settlement of disputes between members and to analyse members’ trade policies.

Third level: Area Specific Councils

Three councils, each dealing with broad area of trade, reporting to the General Council are as under:
1. The Council for Trade in Goods (Goods Council)
2. The Council for Trade in Services (Services Council)

As their names indicate, the three are responsible for the working of the WTO agreements dealing with their respective areas of trade.

These three Councils also have subsidiary bodies.

Six other bodies report to the General Council. The scope of their coverage is smaller, so they are “committees”. They also consist of all WTO members. They deal with issues such as trade and development, the environment, regional trading arrangements, and administrative issues. The Singapore Ministerial Conference in December 1996 decided to create new working groups to look at investment and competition policy, transparency in government procurement, and trade facilitation.

Two more subsidiary bodies dealing with the plurilateral agreements (which are not signed by all WTO members) keep the General Council informed of their activities on regular basis.

Fourth level: Committees

Each of the higher level councils has subsidiary bodies. The Goods Council has 11 committees dealing with specific subjects (such as agriculture, market access, subsidies, anti-dumping measures and so on). These also consist of all member countries and report to the Goods Council, the Textiles Monitoring Body, which consists of a chairman and 10 members acting in their personal capacities, and groups dealing with notifications (governments informing the WTO about current and new policies or measures) and state trading enterprises.

The Services Council’s subsidiary bodies deal with financial services, domestic regulations, GATS rules and specific commitments.

At the General Council level, the Dispute Settlement Body also has two subsidiaries: the dispute settlement “panels” of experts appointed to adjudicate on unresolved disputes, and the Appellate Body that deals with appeals.

Informal Consultations

Important breakthroughs are rarely made in formal meetings of these bodies, least of all in the higher level councils. Since decisions are made by consensus, without voting, informal consultations within the WTO play a vital role in bringing a vastly diverse membership to an agreement.

One step away from the formal meetings are informal meetings that still include the full membership, such as those of the Heads of Delegations (HOD). A common recent practice is for the chairperson of a negotiating group to attempt to forge a compromise by holding consultations with delegations individually, in two or three, or in groups of 20-30 of the most interested delegations.

The key is to ensure that everyone is kept informed about what is going on (the process must be “transparent”) even if they are not in a particular consultation or meeting, and that they have an opportunity to participate or provide input (it must be “inclusive”).

So, informal consultations in various forms play a vital role in allowing consensus to be reached. They are necessary for making formal decisions in the councils and committees. It does not mean that the formal meetings are unimportant. Infact, they are the forums for exchanging views, putting countries’ positions on the record, and ultimately for confirming decisions.

Seventh Ministerial Conference

The Seventh WTO Ministerial Conference took place from 30 November to 2 December 2009 in Geneva, Switzerland. The general theme for discussion was “The WTO, the Multilateral Trading System and the Current Global Economic Environment”.

At the conclusion of Seventh Ministerial Conference, the Chairman in his summary report said that the wide and active participation has demonstrated the importance WTO stakeholders attach to the system in these challenging times. There was strong convergence on the importance of trade and the Doha Round to economic recovery and poverty alleviation in developing countries.

The strong convergence was formal on the importance of trade and the Doha Round to economic recovery and poverty alleviation in developing countries and priority to Agriculture and NAMA. However the need is felt to advance in other areas on the agenda, including Services, Rules and Trade Facilitation.

LDC-specific issues were underlined as requiring particular attention, including Duty-Free Quota-Free market access, cotton, and the LDC Waiver for Services. The particular needs of Small and Vulnerable Economies were also emphasized. The stressed was laid on the need to adhere to the 2002 guidelines for LDC accession. There was broad support for sharing of experiences, particularly those of the recently acceded Members, however not without divergence as to how to advance accessions, whether through closer collective action or the usual practice of giving priority to bilateral channels. Capacity-building was seen as vital to addressing supply-side constraints. The importance of keeping up the momentum of Aid for Trade, including the Enhanced Integrated Framework, was stressed and the need to continue actively mobilizing resources and to keep up monitoring implementation of commitments received wide acceptance.

Ministers had a wide-ranging discussion on enhancing the institutional effectiveness of the WTO. Its monitoring and analytical work was widely seen to have been of particular value in helping to stave off protectionist responses to the crisis. There was substantial agreement on the need to improve notifications as well as data collection, analysis and dissemination.

The value of the Dispute Settlement System was underlined by many participants, while respecting that it be made more responsive to the needs and circumstances of poorer and smaller Members.

The issue of climate change was raised by many. The contribution the WTO can make through removing barriers to trade in environmental goods and services was widely endorsed. There were also warnings against “green protectionism”. Food security and energy security were also highlighted. Other items suggested for consideration included government procurement, competition and investment, though reservations were also expressed.

There was broad agreement that the WTO must remain credible in the face of emerging challenges. There were calls for deepening the WTO’s relationship with other relevant international organizations, while respecting the WTO’s mandates. It was widely acknowledged that the importance of the WTO extends beyond the Round.

1. ADVANCED COMPANY LAW AND PRACTICE

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was just satisfactory. Drafting of resolutions is a key skill required in the day to day life of a Company Secretary. However, this skill is lacking among many candidates. Further, in many cases, answers were also not supported by relevant case laws and legal provisions.

Most of the candidates attempted the first question well. However, part (v) was not answered well. Part (b) of Question No 2 was not satisfactorily answered. Most of the candidates were confused about the documentation required to be provided along with the application to the Central Government for seeking its approval. In part (b) of Question No. 3, students were not clear about the concept of total equity capital and total paid up capital. In Question No. 5, it was noticed that only a few candidates have got a proper understanding of section 297 to 301 of the Companies Act, 1956. It has been observed that question No. 6 on section 372A was not properly understood by the candidates. The resolution was also not drafted correctly. Question No. 7 regarding the Satyam episode and the insider trading regulations was generally not attempted well by the candidates. However, the performance of the candidates in Question No.8 was more or less satisfactory.

For securing good marks, the candidates should read the study material thoroughly. Care must be taken to support the practical questions with relevant case laws and legal provisions. The candidates should also be vigilant while writing their answers. The answers should be coherent with the marks allotted. The candidates are also advised to update their knowledge continuously by referring to Chartered Secretary, Student Company Secretary and visiting the website of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs i.e. www.mca.gov.in.

2. SECRETARIAL PRACTICE RELATING TO ECONOMIC LAWS AND DRAFTING AND CONVEYANCING

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was found to be reasonably fair, except few questions in which the candidates themselves guessed work perhaps due to lack of adequate preparation. The candidates were found very poor in drafting of legal documents.

Performance of the candidates in Question No. 1 was quite satisfactory but in Question No.1(ii) the candidates lack proper presentation skill and could not reason out and support their answers with relevant case law regarding RBI Circular. Question No. 2(b) regarding rules relating to automatic approval was not well attempted by the candidates. Overall performance of the candidates in Question No. 3 was good and most of them answered this question correctly. Question No. 4 was well attempted except Question No.4(c) relating to salient feature of joint venture scheme for port. The overall performance of the candidates in Question No.5 was satisfactory except Question No. 5(i) regarding case law on arbitration. Question No.6 was answered fairly well by majority of the candidates. In Question No.7, the performance of the candidates were average. The candidates attempt in Question No.8 was satisfactory except Question No.8(c) where some candidates fail to explain correctly the concept of charge sheet and to highlight point to be kept in mind while drafting the charge sheet.

This paper requires proper understanding of application of law. Problems based on decided cases should be supported by relevant case law for securing better marks in this paper. Candidates are advised to prepare themselves in an organized manner and keep themselves abreast of the government guidelines and the new declared policies.

3. SECRETARIAL, MANAGEMENT AND SYSTEMS AUDIT

The nature of the paper “Secretarial, Management and System Audit” is such that it requires in depth conceptual understanding of the subject and clarity on various legal concepts. The overall performance of the students calls for lot of improvement in this regard.

Question No.1(a) being an objective type question was well attempted by majority of the candidates. While the answers to Question No.1(b) and (c) were satisfactory. Question No.1(d) was not well attempted by many candidates. The candidates showed satisfactory performance to Question No.2. The performance of candidates to Question No.3 was average. The answers were too general and not to the point. Question No.4 was well attempted by few candidates. Overall performance of the candidates in Question No.5 was average. The candidates are expected to be clear about various auditing concepts. The reply to Question No.6 was good. Question No.7, being a compulsory question was attempted by most of the candidates and the overall performance of the candidates in this question was average. For improving the performance in this paper, the candidates are expected to have a conceptual understanding of the subject. Candidates are advised to do in depth reading of legal provisions and update themselves regularly.

4. FINANCIAL, TREASURY AND FOREIGN MANAGEMENT

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was just average. Candidates in general tried to put in paper whatever they know in an essay form irrespective of the question asked. Performance of candidates in Question No. 1 was quite satisfactory but they lack proper presentation and there was repetition of the same points. Question No 2(a) on capital budgeting and Question No.2(b) relating to receivable management was not well attempted by majority of the candidates. In Question No.3(a) relating to EBIT-EPS analysis, the performance of the candidates was good and most of them answered this question correctly. Question No.3(b) relating to cost of equity and weighted average cost of capital was very poorly attempted by the candidates. They are advised to continuously update their knowledge by referring to ‘Chartered Secretary’ ‘Student Company Secretary’ and Financial News paper etc.

5. CORPORATE RESTRUCTURING—LAW & PRACTICE

The performance of the candidates in this paper was generally satisfactory. However, improvement is required in the approach of candidates towards practical application of theoretical concepts. Drafting of resolutions, notices, public announcements etc. requires regular practice. Being in the final stage of a professional examination, the candidates should give proper attention to their style of writing. It should be coherent, precise, giving relevant provisions and explained with case laws, if there is any.

Most of the candidates attempted Question No.1 (a) fairly well, though they failed to give reference to judicial precedents. In part (a) of Question No.2, very few candidates explained the provisions of section 396A correctly. Whereas, in part (b), most of the candidates failed to mention the correct case law. Question No. 8 was attempted well by majority of the candidates.

To secure good marks, candidates are advised to support their answers with adequate case laws for which it is important that they should read latest case laws by referring to various Journals, newsletters, etc. It is also important that the candidates should give appropriate time to understand the question before answering the same. Instead of writing exhaustive answers, without quoting judicial pronouncements, candidates should develop a method of writing answers with suitable case laws. Candidates are advised to develop a habit of reading regularly the SEBI updates, Student Company Secretary, Chartered Secretary and other corporate journals.

6. BANKING AND INSURANCE LAW & PRACTICE

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was satisfactory. Candidates in general were unaware of the latest updates and important sections of the Act. They lacked clarity of thought. The candidates found difficulty in presenting the role of risk manager in identifying pure loss exposures. However, they were able to present the exclusions under fire and special peril policy with relative ease. In Question No.7(i), the candidates did not have adequate knowledge of the demographic assumptions needed in pricing an insurance product. Part (iv) of the question on credit derivatives was also very poorly answered. Question No. 8 was well attempted by a majority of the candidates. This being a dynamic subject attracting many amendment/changes in the banking and insurance sector, candidates are advised to be well aware and update about the latest developments taking place in this area.

7. WORLD TRADE ORGANISATION INTERNATIONAL TRADE, JOINT VENTURES AND FOREIGN Collaborations

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was found to be fairly well. However, there is scope for improvement in some areas and a expert level of understanding of the subject is desirable. In Question No. 1 on short notes the performance of the candidates was good. Candidates answered Question No.2 well, however in some cases the consistency required was found to be missing. Question No.3 was attempted fairly well by most of the candidates. Performance in Question No-4 in majority cases was satisfactory except some candidates who failed to discuss the subsidies under WTO correctly. However, lack of understanding was observed on Question No.5 while answering on Arbitration and Conciliation. Performance of candidates in Question No.6 was reasonably good. Overall performance in Question No.7 was just satisfactory as the desired clarity and understanding of the subject was missing. Answers to Question No.8 were found to be very poor while answering the question on case law. This paper requires continuous updation of knowledge and candidates are expected to be well versed with latest developments in international trade, regional developments and developments at WTO for scoring good marks. Candidates are advised to regularly read the financial news papers and journals and develop analytical and logical skills and presentation skills.

8. DIRECT AND INDIRECT TAXATION—LAW AND PRACTICE

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was not satisfactory. A thorough understanding of various topics of Income Tax Act, Central Sales Tax Act and Indirect Taxes was missing. The candidates were not aware of relevant provisions and recent amendments. The candidates fared poorly in answering numerical problems relating to indirect taxes. Further, the candidates could not support their answers with legal cases. This shows lack of knowledge and ignorance on part of candidates.

The Question No.1 was conceptual and required proper understanding of the provisions along with the reference to the decided case laws. The performance in this question was not up to the mark, as the candidates failed to support their answers with correct reasoning. Most of the students did not answer Part (a) of Question No.2 satisfactorily. The second and third part was related to explaining concepts and provisions; many of the candidates failed to attempt it fairly as they were not well versed with provisions. So the overall performance was very poor in the whole question. The performance of the candidates in Question No.3 was average. Part (a) was practical question in which candidates were required to calculate total income of the company. The question was attempted by many candidates but very few could reach at correct solution as candidates were not clear about the admissibility of expenses and deductions. In Part (b) candidates were expected to write provisions related to Tax Credit available on deemed income under MAT and have knowledge of latest amendments made by Finance Act related to Income-tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT). The answers were not to the point and lack of clarity was observed. The performance of candidates was good in Question No.4. First part of multiple choice questions was well attempted; second part of fill in the blanks was also attempted fairly. In part (a) and part (b) of Question No. 5 candidates lacked knowledge about the provision related to imposition of penalty and determination of duty because of which most answers were of sub-standard. Part (c) relating to Service tax was attempted by very few candidates. The performance in Part (d) was average. The candidates should try to give correct reasoning for their answer in addition to writing provisions. The overall performance in Question No.6 was average. Most of the candidates properly clarified relevant provisions of Custom Laws and Service Tax. Few candidates attempted the Question No.7 as it was practical one, and those attempted it, were not able to solve it correctly. This shows that candidates didn’t acquaint themselves with the concepts of CENVAT Credit and Taxable Turnover under Central sales tax Act. The answer to Question No.8 (a) on correct/incorrect statement was not supported with adequate reasons. However, the performance in part (b) and (c) was good.

As the final course required expertise knowledge of the subject, hence it is expected that the candidates must be well acquainted with practical aspects as well as the theoretical part. To come up with complete awareness, the student must read the subject with full understanding of the provisions. Further, it is advised to the candidates to keep them updated with the latest developments, case laws, amendments through notifications, circulars, bill etc. and go through the institute Chartered Secretary, Student Company Secretary and other publications regularly.

9. HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

The overall performance of the candidates in this paper was satisfactory. It was observed that candidates lacked in clarity of thought and expression. Most of the candidates especially those opting for Hindi medium exhibited a casual approach i.e. they answered without understanding the requirements of the question. Lack of knowledge especially of legal provisions and systematic study was evident in their performance.

This paper consists of two parts. Part-A consists of Human Resource Management and Part-B consists of Industrial Relations. Question No.1 being compulsory was attempted by all and the performance of the candidates was also satisfactory. However in part (b) many candidates failed to evaluate the statement with special emphasis on integration of HRM activities into those of company secretaries correctly. on correct and incorrect statements failed to support their answers with adequate reasons. Question No.7 was well attempted and the general performance of the candidates was also good except for some candidates who wrote general answers. The performance of the candidates in Question No.8 was below average except part (a) relating to ESOPs where candidates performed exceptionally well. Most of the candidates did not attempt part (b) of the Question and those who attempted it, wrote wrong answers.

For better performance, the candidates are advised to be serious and follow a systematic approach while studying. They should also try to understand the requirements of the questions and answer accordingly. Write to the point answers giving relevant references and sections. Further, they should also read Chartered Secretary, Student Company Secretary and other professional journals to update their knowledge from time to time. The candidates must lay emphasis on improving communication skills.

Cas 1 (Del) [Jain V. K. J [Decided on 30-11-2009] European Metal Recycling Ltd. v. Blue Engineering P. Ltd. [2010] 154 Comp Cas 35 (Del) Sudershan Kumar Misra J [Decided on 22-12-2009]

Reason:

Petition allowed.

Decision:

The respondent's failure to respond to the statutory notice of winding up does not mean that winding up orders must invariably be passed.

The petitioner had tried to mitigate the damages to which it was entitled, by selling the goods in the open market and then deducting the price from the contracted amount due to him. If the respondent-company had put in an appearance, it may have taken the defence that the petitioner did not take "reasonable steps" to mitigate its loss. This would have had an impact on the differential price claimed by the petitioner as due and payable by the respondent. While no such point has been raised in the present proceedings, it may well be a ground for dispute over the amount due to the petitioner. It was a fundamental principle in such cases that the petitioner was bound to try and obtain the best price for the goods in the open market. The onus of proving that this was the best price available would be on the petitioner, to be discharged in a civil court.

The petition and its annexures did not indicate the terms of the contracts, or the intention of the parties, to the effect that the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, would not apply to the contracts in question. Thus, if the Sale of Goods Act, 1930, was to be held applicable to the contracts in question, then section 54 of the 1930 Act would deal with the rights of an unpaid seller against the goods. The petitioner's statutory right to resale would arise only when a notice of resale was given to the company. This would have had an impact on the differential price claimed by the petitioner as due and payable by the respondent. It was a fundamental principle in such cases that the petitioner was bound to try and obtain the best price for the goods in the open market. The onus of proving that this was the best price available would be on the petitioner, to be discharged in a civil court.
Section 22 of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 read with section 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Sick industrial company - Suit for recovery of money - Application by defendant for leave to defend - Arguments heard and judgment reserved - Reference to BIFR - Whether judgment could be pronounced - Held, No.

Brief facts: In a suit for recovery of money, the defendant-company applied for leave to defend. Arguments on the application for leave to defend were heard and orders thereon reserved. The defendant-company, at this stage, was referred to the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction and upon registration the bar under section 22 of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985, was invoked. The suit was stayed. The plaintiff filed an appeal, inter alia, contending that (i) since nothing remained to be "proceeded with" in the suit, section 22 did not apply and the single judge ought to have pronounced judgment on the application for leave to defend; (ii) that once the arguments were heard, the pronouncement of judgment could not be stayed under section 22 of the Act and; (iii) that under section 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, after hearing, it was the obligation of the court to pronounce judgment and that section 33 of the Code overrode section 22 of the 1985 Act.

Decision: Appeal dismissed.

Reason: The literal meaning of section 22 of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985, is that the status as prevailing on the date of applicability of section 22 is to remain unless the permission of the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction to proceed further is obtained. The non obstante clause in section 22 of the 1985 Act would cover section 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

[As regards the non-registration of the shares contended to have been transferred to the petitioner, the petitioner was given the liberty to apply separately under section 111 of the Act making out a fool proof case for registration. The award in respect of the family settlement had been set aside by the High Court and the parties given the liberty to arbitrate the dispute. In view of the status quo operating with reference to the only asset of the company as per injunction of the Allahabad High Court and the family settlement being sub judice before the same court, neither directions were given with reference to the main reliefs' claimed by the petitioner. However, the petitioners were given the liberty to apply on disposal of the arbitration matter.]
must contain essential pleadings that the respondent company failed and neglected to pay the petitioner's debt even after receipt of notice of demand in writing and that such company is insolvent and unable to pay its debts. This appears to be essential in view of section 434(1) (c) of the Act, which stipulates that the company shall be deemed to be unable to pay its debts if it is proved to be so. When there is a proper pleading as required in Form No. 46, the question of proof under section 434(1)(c) of the Act does not arise. Therefore, compliance with rule 95 of the Rules is essential to succeed in winding up petition.

Prima facie the respondent-company bona fide disputed the debt and the defence put forth had substance and it was not mala fide. The respondent company was the largest cement company in the world and the defence put forth had substance and it was not for accepted mode of recovering debt by way of suit and it is the court's discretion to order winding up.

BANUMATHY SAMPATHKUMAR v. TVS FINANCE & SERVICES LTD. [[2010] 154 Comp Cas 142(Mad)]

Aruna Jagadeesan J [Decided on 29-10-2009]

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 406, 409 & 420 - Offences and prosecution - Complaint of cheating - Default by company under hire purchase agreement and sale of machinery purchased under agreement - Criminal proceeding against company and guarantors - Complaint disclosing commission of offence - whether complaint against guarantors could be quashed - Held, No.

Brief Facts: The accused-company purchased certain machinery under a hire purchase agreement with the complainant company. The petitioners stood guarantee for the accused company. The complainant company, sought re-delivery of the machinery. The accused company failed to pay the hire charges and also deliver the machinery. The complainant found that a part of the machinery was sold without its consent and knowledge. A criminal complaint was lodged against the accused-company and also the guarantors. It was contended that the accused-company had cheated the complainant with dishonest intention and had played fraud causing wrongful loss to the company. In a petition seeking quashing of the complaint as against them, the guarantors, inter alia, contended that mere failure to pay the amounts guaranteed would not constitute an offence of cheating and the petitioners as guarantors had nothing to do with removal and sale of the machinery.

Decision: Petition dismissed.

Reason: The complainant had stated in the complaint that it was induced to believe that the petitioners would honour payment. The averments in the complaint made out a prima facie case. It could not be said that the complaint filed by the complainant did not disclose the commission of offence as stated or that there existed any other circumstances which could be made basis for quashing of the proceedings. The allegations made in the complaint required adjudication and the complaint could not be quashed at the threshold.

MADRAS CRICKET CLUB v. M. SUBBIAH [[2010] 154 Comp Cas 353 (Mad)]

Selvam C. T. J [Decided on 3-2-2010]

Companies Act, 1956 - Sections 25 & 621 - Offences and prosecution - Section 25 company - Offence under 1956 Act - Member of such company not shareholder - Whether prefer complaint against company - Held, No.

Brief facts: A member of the petitioner-company, a company registered under section 25 of the Companies Act, 1956, filed a complaint against the company and others. In a petition by the company and others under section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, seeking quashing of the complaint.

Decision: Petition allowed.

Reason: The respondent was neither a subscriber to the memorandum of the company who had agreed to become a member thereof nor a person who had agreed in writing to become a member of the company as envisaged under section 41 of the Companies Act, 1956. The petitioner-company was registered under section 25 of the Act and had no equity share capital holding whereof would have constituted the respondent a shareholder. The complaint was not maintainable under section 621 of the 1956 Act and was to be quashed.
